LINDBERGH BABY'S RETURN SEEMS NEAR

ROOSEVELT HAS GOOD MARGIN IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Drive Manager Claims Vote Has Destroyed Opposition Move.

SMITH FAR BEHIND AS COUNT CONTINUES

Democrats Hold Interest in Primary Balloting as Hoover Is Safe.

The voters of New Hampshire have destroyed the "stop Roosevelt" movement, James A. Farley, campaign manager for the New York Governor, said here last night.

Farley, after talking over the telephone to Robert H. Jackson, Roosevelt manager in New Hampshire, quoted the latter as saying that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt had won a smashing victory over Alfred E. Smith in the State's preferential primary, making a "clean sweep" of the eight Democratic delegates to the national convention.

Press dispatches showed Roosevelt far ahead of Smith, but they did not indicate how many of the eight delegates he had won.

Claims 100 Delegates Sure.

Farley, who came here from Albany yesterday with John Costello, Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, predicted that Roosevelt would have more than 100 delegates lined up behind his presidential candidacy before the end of March.

He predicted that Minnesota Democrats, meeting in convention today, would pledge him 24 delegates; that North Dakota would pledge him 10 more in the primary next Tuesday, and that Georgia and Iowa, between them, would give him 54. Six in Alaska and 16 in Washington already have been claimed.

Concord, N. H., March 8 (A.P.).—Returns from 178 towns and city wards out of 294 in the State gave the Roosevelt-pledged slate of candi-

Alleged Abduction Of Child Is Foiled

Man Seized on Charge of Seeking to Lure Girl of 10 Into Auto.

Abduction of a 10-year-old girl was believed by police to have been frustrated yesterday afternoon when a precinct detective drove by as a middle-aged man was attempting to entice the child into his automobile at Fifth and Aspen streets northwest. A man is under arrest in the case, traced by a tag number on the automobile which eluded the detective after a chase.

Detective J. O. Patton, of the Sixth Precinct, said he was driving in the opposite direction as a car stopped beside Joan Kowalski, of 403 Aspen street northwest, daughter of Stephen L. Kowalski, an auditor in the General Accounting Office. Patton said he turned around and as the man in the automobile saw him, he drove rapidly away. The detective lost the car after a chase but took down the tag number, he said.

The little girl later told him that the man had asked her to "go for a ride," according to the detective.

2 Brothers Found Frozen to Death

Trappe, Md., Residents Are Victims of Storm; Inquest Planned.

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., March 8.—About noon today Charles Delahay, age 45, and his brother, Abe Delahay, age 37, were found by Watters Wilson in the rear of the barn known as Gravely, owned by David C. Kirby, about 2 miles from Trappe, frozen to death.

It is thought that the men were caught in the storm Sunday night while crossing a field and fell while on their way to Trappe.

When found they were lying close together. Sheriff A. Raymond Carroll and Deputy Sheriffs Samuel Carroll, Sherman Phillips, Corpl. Jesse Bradley, of the State motor police force, and Thomas Wilson, went to Trappe and viewed the bodies. Coroner Charles Simpson, of Trappe, will hold an inquest.

Albert Simms, Former Congress Colleague, to Wed Widow.

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 8 (A.P.).—In a noticeably happy mood, Ruth Hanna McCormick announced to newspapermen tonight she would marry former United States Representative Albert G. Simms, of New Mexico, at her home here at noon tomorrow.

The names of Mrs. McCormick and Simms had been linked since their friendship began when both were in the House of Representatives at Washington, but until today both had repeatedly denied that they would be married. Last March 27 Mrs. McCormick had labeled a report of their engagement as "screamingly funny."

Mr. Simms today sought and obtained the aid of the district court here to obtain a marriage license, it became known tonight. Under Colo-

COMING RUM VOTES STIR HOUSE FEARS

Wet and Dry Organizations Threaten Members as Decisive Day Nears.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

With two important votes on prohibition scheduled to be taken in the House next week—one on a liquor referendum and another on a beer tax—Capitol Hill is in a ferment of excitement, worry, and doubt.

Members of the House are hearing from the voters "back home," and they are hearing from them in a most emphatic way. Letters and telegrams are pouring in, and not a few members have had constituents call them on the long-distance telephone.

This is not a new phenomenon on Capitol Hill. In advance of an important vote on prohibition there is always an avalanche of advice. However, this time there is a highly significant difference. Whereas, in the past, the "pressure" from back home has come from the organized drys, this time much of it—if, indeed, not most of it—is coming from the organized wets.

It is doubtful if members of Congress have realized fully, until now, how thoroughly the wets have organized in most of the States. The

Roosevelt to Propose Bonds for Relief of Idle

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (A.P.).—A message from Gov. Roosevelt to the Legislature recommending a $30,000,000 bond issue to provide money for continuation of the State's unemployment relief program until 1934 is expected to be transmitted tomorrow.

News such a recommendation was in the immediate offing apparently set definitely at rest reports of some new form of tax to provide the fund.

Mrs. Hoover Reaches St. Augustine on Trip

St. Augustine, Fla., March 8 (A.P.). Continuing her Southern cruise, Mrs. Herbert Hoover arrived here today from Jacksonville aboard the motorship Sequoia.

She was met at the municipal yacht pier by a reception committee headed by Mayor T. Rogero Mickler and was presented with a floral gift. Shortly after her arrival she left in an automobile for a sight-seeing trip.

RADICALS' SUPPORT LOST BY DE VALERA

Condemned as Minister of King George; Election Expected Today.

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 8 (A.P.).—The Sinn Fein, organization of militant Republicans, repudiated Eamon de Valera, Republican leader, tonight on the eve of his expected election to the presidency of the Irish Free State.

Although De Valera has proposed to repeal the public safety act and release persons, mostly Sinn Feiners, sentenced by the military tribunal established under the act, the Sinn Fein issued a statement describing him and his prospective cabinet as "ministers of his Majesty King George V."

"They may remove as many oaths and tests as they wish, but they will never induce Republican Ireland to accept the shameful position of surrender and subservience represented by membership in a 'Free State Parliament' which is not a Dail Eireann (Chamber of Deputies)," the statement said.

(De Valera has expressed the intention of abolishing the oath to the king.)

There can be no real unity until the two "obastacles to national unity, England's two mongrel legislatures, and all they stand for "are repudiated as part of the British connection and Ireland's public representatives, as well as its military forces, return to the position of 1919 and 1921," the statement added.

"Whether the oath is removed or remains, the Sinn Fein will not accept one of England's institutions as a national assembly," it declared.

U. S.-to-Japan Flight Planned by 2 Airmen

Wilmington, Del., March 8 (A.P.).—Capt. Yoshinori Nagoya and Sergt. Kanekichi Asai, both of the reserve corps of the Japanese imperial army, were here today to direct the first test flight of a new Bellanca airplane in which they plan to make a nonstop transpacific flight to Japan.

The flight is scheduled for the latter part of this month or early in April. If the plane is found satisfactory it will be flown to New York and thence across the continent to prepare for the hop to Japan, they said.

Neutral Mediators Again Push Negotiations to End Fighting.

LEAGUE TO OUTLINE OPINION OF CONFLICT

Chapei Sanitary Conditions Bring Worry to Officials of Settlement.

Tokyo, Wednesday, March 9 (U.P.). Instructions to seek to negotiate for a permanent armistice at Shanghai through representatives of neutral powers are being sent by the government to Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China, it was announced today.

(Associated Press.)

Reports that another major engagement was developing along the battlefront troubled Shanghai today as neutral mediators, after a recess of several days, resumed negotiations to end the crisis.

Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, newly reappointed to the post of commander in chief of all Chinese armed forces, was said to be taking an active part in preparations for a Chinese offensive.

International Settlement officials conferred with Japanese authorities in the hope of getting something done about the insanitary conditions in Chapei, which they declared to be a menace to health.

Dr. Grace I. Crandall and Dr. Rosa W. Palmborg, both of Milton, Wis., yielded to the entreaties of their friends and returned to Shanghai from Liuho, where they had been caring for wounded in the battle zone.

League Committee Named.

The war office in Tokyo announced that the Manchurian and Shanghai campaigns cost the army 365 dead and 2,204 wounded up to March 1. This was exclusive of naval casualties totaling several hundred.

The League of Nations Assembly at Geneva appointed a committee to draft a resolution expressing the league's view of the conflict. The committee will pass on numerous demands that the warfare cease and that Japna withdraw her troops.

In Changchun, Manchuria, Henry Pu-Yi, former boy-emperor of China, will be inaugurated today as the chief executive of the new Monchurian Mongolian state.

Patman Bonus Bill Set To Follow Tax Measure

HOUSE PASSES BILL, 363-13, AGAINST WRITS

Vote More Than Matches Senate's Action of Last Week.

7 HOURS OF DEBATE PRECEDES PASSAGE

Only Few Minor Difficulties Remain to Be Ironed Out in Conference.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

While happy representatives of labor looked down from sparsely occupied galleries on the crowded floor, the House of Representatives yesterday passed the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction bill by a vote of 363 to 13.

Long before the final roll call this outcome was expected, but the overwhelming victory, which more than matched the 75 to 5 vote in the Senate last week, was in marked contrast to the futile battles by sponsors of such legislation in the last several years.

Only a few minor differences between the House and Senate bills remained to be ironed out in conference and no difficulty is expected.

Passage of the bill followed seven hours of debate, during which several amendments were voted down with growing strength. The final roll call showed one Democrat, Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas, and the following 12 Republicans voting against the bill:

Beck, Darrow, Rich and Watson, of Pennsylvania; French, of Idaho; Hollister, of Ohio; Johnson, of South Dakota; Luce, Rogers and Underhill, of Massachusetts; Taber, of New York, and Vestal, of Indiana. Representative Shreve (Republican), of Pennsylvania, was paired against the bill.

Beck and Blanton Lead Fight.

Representatives Beck and Blanton led the opposition to the bill. Though the roll call does not show it, they were aided through the fight by other Republicans who sought to have it amended so as to broaden the basis for the issuance of injunctions by Federal courts in labor disputes beyond the limits fixed.

The fate of the various amendments proposed was sealed as soon as they were offered by signals exchanged between Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, who sat at the leader's desk on the Republican side of the floor, and Representative Hatton Sumners (Democrat), of Texas, who sat in the same place on the Democratic side. Those designed to clarify the language but not to take out any force were accepted with nods, but when heads were shaken in opposition the Democrats rose en masse and most of the Republicans joined them to snow under every opposition amendment.

Representative LaGuardia urged passage of the bill because it would take out of the hands of judges whom Representative Beck had sought "to

BYRNS CALLS ON HOOVER TO AID ECONOMY

PRESIDENT CLAIMS ALL HIS POWER USED

Says Vital Work of Budget Balancing Is Now Up to Congress.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's declaration that Congress must make further reductions in Government expenditures was met last night by a demand from Chairman Byrns that he submit his recommendations for reorganization to the special House economy committee.

The Tennessee Democrat charged the Chief Executive had not thus far cooperated or communicated with the special group.

Recalling that $365,000,000 had been slashed from the budget estimates for 1933 before they were submitted to Congress, President Hoover told newspapermen yesterday there was "very little room left for reductions by administrative action." He added:

"Further economies must be brought about by authorization of Congress, either by reorganization of the Federal machinery or change in the legal requirements as to the expenditure of the various services."

Claims Cooperation Given.

The President said the administration officials were cooperating with the special economy committee set up by the Democratic House after it discarded his special request for authority to reorganize the Government and to create a number of new offices.

The reductions made by the appropriations committee in the supply bills amounted to but $112,000,000, he said, of which $60,000,000 or $70,000,000 represented only a postponement.

Byrns, who also is chairman of the appropriations committee and author of an administration-opposed bill to consolidate the War and Navy Departments, said in a statement:

"It is a matter of considerable surprise that the President himself has not given the economy committee up to this time the benefit of the information he was supposed to have when he forwarded his message on reorganization to Congress, nor has he volunteered any assistance to the committee. * * *

"The President has his opportunity if he wishes to help the economy committee in its efforts to reduce expenditures and that is by sending to it his recommendations as to what economies can be effected and say-

Senator Harris Resting After Second Operation

(Associated Press.)

Senator Harris, of Georgia, was described last night as "doing very well" after an operation for a bladder ailment. Dr. W. Calhoun Sterling, who operated upon the 64-year-old Senator yesterday morning at Georgetown Hospital, pronounced his condition "very good."

This was the second time in recent weeks that the senator has undergone an operation. He became ill on February 9 and on February 14 entered the hospital with intestinal influenza and bladder trouble.

Planes and Cutters Seek Adrift Barge

Deepwater, with 5 Aboard, Not Reported Since Lost in Storm.

Norfolk, Va., March 8 (U.P.).—Airplanes joined Coast Guard cutters late today in a search for the barge Deepwater with crew of five men, which was cut loose from the ocean-going tug Mars during a violent storm off the Virginia coast Sunday afternoon and has not been reported since.

Meanwhile three other steamers which reported themselves in various degrees of distress yesterday were all safe.

The steamer Norwalk, reported lost and the object of an airplane search, was safe in this port with its crew of 22 men.

Former Justice Holmes, 91, Is Honored at Bar Banquet

Retired Member of Supreme Court Unable to Attend Function but Sends Message of Friendship; President Hoover's Congratulations Read.

A greatness, written not with the sword but etched indelibly with humanity and wisdom, was honored last night.

On the ninety-first birthday of Oliver Wendell Holmes members of the Federal Bar Association gathered at a banquet in the Shoreham Hotel to pay tribute to him.

To them he sent the message that he was ready to bid farewell to life if he could think he had "sent a spark to those who come after."

Beside his fireside on I street he heard over the radio the plaudits of those who spoke and heard a birthday message from the President read.

Mr. Holmes, for almost 30 years a member of the Supreme Court, was not at the banquet. He had been invited to attend, but he never goes out at night.

Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher, the toastmaster, read his message, which reflects the character and tenets of his life:

"Your kind invitation for March 8 has been answered, I believe, in due form, but I can not say farewell to life and you in formal words. Life seems to me like a Japanese picture which our imagination does not allow to end with the margin. We aim at the infinite and when our arrow falls to earth it is in flames.

"At times the ambitious ends of life have made it seem to me lonely, but it has not been. You have given me the companionship of dear friends who have helped to keep alive the fire in my heart. If I could think that I had sent a spark to those who come after I should be ready to say good-by.

In his remarks were seen a portent of realization that he can not live forever. Since he quit the Supreme Court a few weeks ago, however, he has recovered much of his vigor.

The message from the President read: "I wish to congratulate you most heartily on your ninety-first birthday and to wish you every blessing."

ESTATE ENVIRONS CLEARED TO HELP POSSIBLE PARLEY

RIFT BETWEEN INVESTIGATORS AND COLONEL FLATLY DENIED

Child's Pet Scotch Terrier Was in Habit of Barking at Approach of Strangers; "Red" Johnson Still Held.

Hopewell, N. J., March 8 (A.P.).—Definite progress was being made tonight toward returning the kidnaped Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., to the home of his famous parents.

This news came from the Sourland Mountain estate a few hours after a close friend of Col. Lindbergh had left on a secret mission.

The encouraging word—the first of its kind to come from the hilltop home since the child was stolen a week ago tonight—was telephoned to State police at Trenton in response to a question at the night press conference there.

"What are the latest developments in the police investigation? What are the latest developments in Col Lindbergh's private, separate investigation?"

"Progress," was the single word answer made over the telephone by Maj. Charles Schoeffel, of the State police. And finally it was learned there had been a marked reduction in the corps of State police stationed at the Lindbergh estate.

The incoming mail was freed of any suspicion of police censorship. Then, this morning, a press conference question brought the statement that the "hands off" police policy also applied to telegraphic and telephonic communications.

Whether the next step would be complete removal of the authorities themselves was conjectural. Gov. A. Harry Moore has offered to take such action should the colonel request it.

Meanwhile, although State police denied there had been any identification of the ladder used by the kidnapers, it was learned the wood of which the ladder was constructed was similar to excess lumber sold by the Skillman (N. J.) State Home for Epileptics.

The ladder is one of the few definite clues police have had. It was used to gain entrance to the nursery when the infant was stolen a week ago tonight and was found about 70 feet west of the house along a trail of footprints.

The ladder has been described as a "makeshift affair" by Maj. Charles Schoeffel, of the New Jersey State police.

The surplus materials left over after the construction of a cottage at the epileptic home were sold by the institution to a New Jersey contractor.

Wood Given Home Employes.

It was learned in a reliable quarter that an engineer of the institution and two State troopers had been engaged for the last 24 hours in an attempt to identify the ladder.

The job at the Skillman home was done a year ago. The contractor was understood to have distributed the excess material among his employes, most of them residents of the hilly country in which the institution is located. Skillman is four miles northeast of the Lindbergh home.

The engineer has submitted a report to State police officials, which was not made public.

Two press conference questions also developed interesting answers as to police investigation inside the hilltop home of the Lindberghs.

The disclosure that police are still scrutinizing the possibility some member of the household was involved in the theft of the child came in response to the following query:

SUSPECT IS SEIZED IN MAIL BOMB PLOT

Man Arrested in Chicago Is Linked With Fatal Scheme; 2 Accomplices Sought.

Chicago, March 8 (A.P.).—One of the men believed by officials to have perpetrated the widespread bomb plot against prominent Italians last December was arrested here today.

He is Colombo Boeri, 47, fugitive anarchist suspect wanted for deportation.

Two alleged accomplices, whose names were not revealed, are being sought.

Boeri, who officials said had been masquerading as a grocer, was taken at his home in an early morning raid led by Murray Garsson, special Assistant Secretary of Labor.

"I have evidence positively linking this man with the Easton, Pa., bomb outrage of last December which took three lives, as well as the other mail bomb plots," Garsson said after an all-day questioning of the suspect.

Nature of the evidence was not revealed, but Boeri was held under $100,000 bond and announcement was made that search for the alleged accomplices was being pressed.

Large quantities of explosives—TNT, nitroglycerin, percussion caps and other bomb-making parsphernalia were found in the man's home.

He made no effort to explain presence of the lethal material, and lapsed into sullen silence when pressed by investigators for information concerning his activities.

Two postal clerks and an explosive expert were killed by bombs mailed at Easton. The deaths preceded by a few days discovery of wholesale ramifications of the bomb plot directed against pro-Fascist leaders in the United States.

Its consummation was nullified largely through the alertness of a New York police official who learned that scores of the infernal machines had been dispatched and broadcast a warning.

Italian officials and pro-Fascist leaders were warned against accepting packages of any description with-

PROGRESS CLAIMED IN LINDBERGH HUNT

Police Replies to Questions Put by Press; Some Are Evaded.

Trenton, N. J., March 8 (A.P.).—The single word "progress" was the police answer tonight to inquiries as to what had developed in the public and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's private investigation of the kidnaping of his baby son a week ago. The response was made at a State police press conference shortly after 9 p. m.

This is the first time such a statement had been made.

1. Have the State police obtained fingerprints of the Lindbergh baby and can we obtain fascimiles?

A. No answer.

2. Do the facts at your command indicate that the kidnapers arrived in the vicinity of the Lindbergh home in a small closed truck similar to a bakery wagon, or does the information you have indicate a passenger car?

A. There is no positive proof of either of these facts available.

Investigation of Ladder.

3. Has the experts' or chemists' examination of the ladder as to possible soil deposits on the end that would be against the house indicating that the ladder came from the vicinity of Hopewell? Did that examination give any indication as to the geographic origin of the ladder?

A. The ladder was found lying on the ground in soft dirt. No.

4. Do the footprints show that one of the kidnapers removed his shoes before mounting the ladder? Did that kidnaper replace his shoes before leaving the immediate vicinity of the Lindbergh home? Were the footprints clear enough to indicate what type of shoes were worn, and what were these types?

A. No. Prints not clear.

5. Exactly what routine will be followed by police and Col. Lindbergh in informing the press of the recovery or return of the baby, or any other vital news in the case? Will you please have Col. Lindbergh confirm this?

A. No answer.

Stipulation on Publicity.

6. Have police any comments to make on any phases of the case or any details to tell us about which we have not asked?

A. No.

7. What is the exact location of the Jackson-White colony in the vicinity of Hopewell?

A. Know of none.

8. Is the ladder similar to those used by public service companies or whoever erected the high-tension line?

A. No. See pictures of the ladder as published.

9. The lumber used in the construction of the kidnaping ladder has been identified by Squire Johnson, assistant State architect, as having come from lumber left from a construction job at Skillman village of epileptics. Are you still questioning Skillman village employes, and what are the results of the investigation so far?

A. This investigation not completed as yet.

10. Have the kidnapers made a condition of return of the child an end of newspaper publicity?

A. No answer.

Silence on Capone Angle.

11. Have police checked thoroughly Haimu Hattu's actions at the time of the kidnaping, or have they simply used him to check Johnson's alibi?

A. Refer to Newark police.

12. Is there any thought that the kidnaping was engineered as a means of helping Capone?

A. No answer.

13. The United States immigration records at Washington show that Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nursemaid, entered the United States as the wife of one David Gow; do police still believe after their investigation of her that she is unmarried or was ever married?

A. Yes.

14. What is Betty Gow's real name? On what date did she enter the United States, and under what name? Are her parents living? What are their names? Where do they live?

A. Betty Gow. Mother living and remarried. Scotland.

Question on Reward Evaded.

15. Was Benjamin Schwartz, of New York, questioned by police at any time during the investigation? What was the purpose of the questioning and what did it reveal?

A. No.

16. What will Col. Schwarzkopf (superintendent of State police) meet the press for an interview? Nearly all the papers have requested this and the editors want to know why he will not meet us. This question is asked with all due recognition of his exacting duties under the present circumstances.

A. As soon as time permits.

17. Why have the police sent for John Norman Brett, of Niagara Falls?

A. Have not sent for him.

18. Why does Col. Lindbergh not offer a reward equal to the amount of the ransom asked for the safe return of the child, to eliminate possibility of prosecution of any one returning the child?

A. No answer.

Betty Gow's Entrance to U. S.

19. Is it true that a note has been received saying that the Lindbergh baby is in New York City? If so, please give us complete details, or details of any other communication received from the kidnapers.

A. No answer.

20. Is it true that Betty Gow is illegally, with respect to the immigration laws, in the United States? If so, has this any bearing on the present investigation?

A. No knowledge.

21. What are the latest developments in the police investigation? What are the latest developments in Col. Lindbergh's private separate investigation?

A. Progress.

22. Did an automoble occupied by several Negroes enter the Lindbergh estate today? If so, were the occupants men or women? Did they give any information that might implicate the kidnapers of Nell Donnely, in the present crime?

A. Colored man from Kansas City desired interview with Col. Lindbergh on basis of letter of introduction he obtained last Saturday, but which actually was dated the early part of February. He had no information to offer and the interview was denied.

God Have Mercy on Me, A Traitor to Babyhood

By JOHN J. DALY

GOD have mercy on me, a kidnaper;
—breaker of mothers' hearts;
—destroyer of fathers' hopes;
—hardened to the laughter and tears of little children;
—receiver of rewards in ransom;
—specter of terror in the eyes of innocent victims;
—lurker in the silences, ogre of the night;
—planter of anguish, blaster of aspirations;
—fear of fathers, mockery of mothers;
—severer of family ties;
—heartless and heedless to prayers of entreaty.
Have mercy on me, a kidnaper!

* * * *

GOD pity me—shameless shatterer of dreams;
—crawling creeper of civilization;
—despoiler of sanctity's flower-bed;
—trader and traitor of babyhood;
—wandering wolf in the human fold;
—pitiless parasite of parenthood;
—thief of the irreplaceable;
—caster of shadows on happiness;
—prowler in pious places;
—usurper of nursery nuances;
—darkener of doorsteps;
—blighter of faith, hope, and charity;
—weaver of heartaches;
—purloiner of innocence;
—ruthless ravager of joy;
—bearer of grief and dismay.
At large today.

I PLEAD with the power of the reigning spirit to hide me from my shame, from man's gaze, from the accusing finger of sainted motherhood.

HAVE MERCY ON ME, A KIDNAPER!
At bay today,
My conscience awaken;
Show me the way,
Forlorn and forsaken
So I may crawl, and cowardly cry to Thee,
Master and Lord,
Sobbing, and sigh to Thee,
Begging a word:
Forgiveness!
Deaden my ears to the cry of the mothers,
Maker of men, my sisters, my brothers;
Frantic fathers, distraught in the darkness;
Pull down the earth on me, cover my starkness.
Have mercy on me, a kidnaper.

* * * *

AT BAY today,
Lord, lead the way:
Shield me from sorrow like unto theirs;
Fashion tomorrow out of their prayers
And forgive me my trespasses,
Who have trespassed
Against holy sanctity, treading the grasses
Of your sanctuary, repentant at last
From lifting the ladle
Of joy from a cradle
And throwing it past
Hungry hearts yearning for love,
Father above,
Have mercy on me, a kidnaper!

LINDBERGH HOME APPROACH CLEARED TO HASTEN PARLEYS

possibility that a servant or employe in the Lindbergh home was involved in the kidnaping has created a general impression that such a theory is the most plausible now held by police. Do police care to say anything that will exonerate any or all members of the household?"

Dog Had Barking Habit.

Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of State police, replied: "Investigation incomplete."

The other question disclosed why an alarm was not sounded by the little Scotch terrier, which was playmate and guard to the Lindbergh baby. The question was:

"Please say exactly where the Lindbergh dog was at the time of the kidnaping? Who had the dog under observation at that time? How many intervening doors were between the dog and the nursery? Were they open or closed? Is the dog in the habit of barking at the approach of strangers on the estate?"

The following reply was made:

"Ground floor, kitchen and pantry. Servants. Four doors. Yes, if he heard them."

The increasing interest in the possibility of successful direct and confidential negotiations between the kidnapers and the Lindberghs was attributed in part to information the Associated Press obtained Monday saying two notes from the abductors were received by the parents Sunday.

Police Deny Rift With Colonel.

Nothing could be learned of what progress, if any, had been made by "Salvy" Spitale and Irving Bitz, underworld characters designated as the Lindberghs' "go-betweens."

However, it was clearer than ever before that the Lindberghs were desirous of dealing directly with the kidnapers on the basis of their public pleas, promising confidence in and safety for representatives of the kidnapers.

In two press conferences police denied flatly that there was any rift between the authorities and Col. Lindbergh.

Reporters asked the following question:

"Did Col. Lindbergh criticize State police for tapping the private telephone wire in the Lindbergh home and specifically did he resent Capt Lamb (Schoeffel's subordinate) talking over the private line? If not, is there any basis for a story of friction over use of the private phone by police?"

"Any report of such a rift between Col. Lindbergh and the police is positively untrue," Maj. Schoeffel replied.

"Red" Johnson Still Held.

While Henry (Red) Johnson, sailor suitor of the Lindbergh baby's nurse, was ending his fourth day in custody, State police announced he would be detained until that phase of the inquiry had been completed.

"By that we mean investigation of his statements," reporters were told.

This included the comparison of Johnson's statements with those of John Fernando, who said Johnson gave him a ride from New York to Connecticut.

Authorities at Hartford, Conn., where Johnson was located and first questioned, said the check also included the accounts of Johnson and Johanssen Junge, husband of a servant in the Dwight Morrow household, as to their whereabouts the night of the kidnaping, a part of which they spent together.

A slight similarity was noted during the day in one of the "ransom" letters which was received by the Lindberghs last Thursday and an anonymous threatening note sent several years ago to Constance Morrow, younger sister of Mrs. Lindbergh. The Thursday letter, however, was generally discounted as the work of a "crank."

More New England Arrests.

Two men, who thought they could help solve the kidnaping mystery, were detained all day at police headquarters in Boston and then released. They were taken into custody while making a telephone call to the Lindbergh home.

One, an unemployed shoe worker, had told the other, a chance acquaintance, that a friend, while telling his fortune, said the missing baby was being held captive by an aged couple 8 miles from Hopewell. They were seeking to pass this information on to the Lindberghs when the operator handling the call informed police.

A woman's story she had overheard a conversation between Tony Meslo, a contractor, and two men ten months ago in which the Lindbergh baby was mentioned resulted in the detention of Meslo under $25,000 bond in New Haven Conn.

The woman said she heard one of the group make the suggestion that one of their number get a job on the Lindbergh estate or in the vicinity Police reported Meslo refused to say if he had ever worked in New Jersey, but said he had once been employed in Mount Vernon, N. Y

The woman who told the story lives in Colchester, Conn., where Saturday night police investigated a report a strange baby had been treated there for a cold.

In making an offer of $50,000 for the return of the kidnaped child, Walter Lafferty, New York attorney, said he would contribute "legal defense to the last ditch" to anyone who should help him recover the boy.

Lafferty was a colleague in the House of Representatives of the late Charles A. Lindbergh, grandfather of the child. He said it was his own money he was putting up and emphasized he was not representing the Lindberghs or Morrows.

He said he thought the return of the child could best be effected without the aid of police. He received one telephone call after he had made public his offer, but he said it was from a "crank."

Slain Woman Identified In Gangs' Double Killing

St. Paul, Minn., March 8 (A.P.).—Authorities today advanced a step in their efforts to solve the double slaying near Turtle Lake, Wis., when one of two women believed victims of gangland was identified.

Police said she was Margaret Perry, alias "Indian Rose," a Chippewa Indian, sought in connection with the $200,000 robbery of the Denver Mint in 1922 and a former common law wife of "Denver Bobby" Walker, a figure in that robbery. Duluth police thought the other might be Marjorie Schwartz, Virginia, Minn., police character.

Hungarian Mother of 10 Asks Aid for Lindberghs

Budapest, Hungary, March 8 (U.P.).—The interest of Central Europe in the Lindbergh kidnaping case was illustrated today by a letter published in the newspaper Azest, saying that Mrs. Ludwig Horvath, mother of ten children, had pawned her only piece of jewelry and her wedding ring to pay for a special mass for return of the baby.

Mrs. Horvath, the wife of a store clerk, said she had told her children to offer prayers every morning and evening for safe return of Charles Augustus, jr.

Jobs Drive Total Is Nearing 200,000

6,994 More Idle Are Put Back to Work Due to Campaign.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—The "war against depression," designed to find jobs for 1,000,000 persons, pressed on toward the 200,000 mark today as 6,994 men and women were put back to work in 101 communities. The grand total to date is 177,017.

Ohio led the States in the latest report with the number of jobs found, 1,625. New York was second with 1,074. In the total number of jobs found to date the standing is: Minnesota, 19,920; New York, 18,165; Wisconsin, 14,328.

Beverly Hills, Calif., March 8 (A.P.).—Fined $50 today for withholding wages from a nurse and a musician, Mary Nolan, motion picture actress, was told by Justice of the Peace H. E. Billings to pay the claims by 3 p. m. tomorrow or go to jail.

Miss Nolan was convicted of failure to pay $50 to Louis Eist, violinist, and pleaded guilty to failure to pay $46 to the nurse, Phoebe Knudsen. Miss Nolan formerly was a musical comedy actress under the name of Imogene Wilson.

DE JUTE KIDNAPING SUSPECTS IN COURT

Two Accused of Abducting Ohio Boy Enter Pleas of Not Guilty.

Warren, Ohio, March 8 (A.P.).—Arraigned on charges of kidnaping with attempt to extort, the two accused kidnapers of 11-year-old Jimmy De Jute, jr., of Niles, late today entered pleas of not guilty and began making preparations for their trial defense.

The men, Dowell Hargraves, 31, and John Demarko, 30, both of Youngstown, were brought to court to answer to the indictments at the expiration of the 24 hours prescribed by law to elapse between servicing of indictment papers and arraignment.

Only one of the men had obtained counsel tonight to prepare a defense for the trial, set tentatively for Thursday. Hargraves announced he had retained a Niles, Ohio, attorney. Demarko, however, said he was in communication with Youngstown friends relative to hiring an attorney.

Meanwhile, both Youngstown and Niles police continued their search for a suspected third man in the case.

Niles officers expressed the belief that Demarko knows the identity of this man. They were inclined to doubt his story of being made a captive by Hargraves at the abandoned gambling house near Niles where the boy was found Saturday.

Both Demarko and Hargraves face a maximum penalty of life imprisonment if convicted on the indictments.

Drug Stores to Offer To Accept Stolen Baby

The 200 stores, members of the District of Columbia Pharmaceutical Association, will offer themselves as a haven for Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., it was announced last night, after a meeting at the Raleigh Hotel. The national organization is expected to follow suit, it was said.

The baby could be left in any store and no questions would be asked, the association decided.

Members pointed out that drug stores are open until late at night, and in some cases all night long, and that they are mediums of exchange in many cases. Use of a drug store as a haven for the baby would be logical, it was contended.

Lindbergh Baby Clew Here False

Mother Took Walk With Her Own Year-Old Boy, Is Explanation.

Another baby who bears a resemblance to the missing Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., sent Washington detectives on another wild-goose chase yesterday. Max M. Sandler, of the Alban Towers apartments, was seated quietly in the circle of his family late yesterday afternoon when three detectives broke in on him.

He recognized his friend, Detective Sergt. T. E. Bragg, and asked the reason for the unexpected visit. The detectives explained that they had received a telephone call declaring that a baby resembling Col. Lindbergh's taken into that apartment at the Alban Towers.

Mr. Sandler said he could only explain the call through the fact that little Robert Earl's mother had taken him to walk yesterday afternoon and the baby bore some resemblance to the famous missing child, although he is only a year old.

Many Letters Are Sent To Lindbergh's Mother

Detroit, March 8 (A.P.).—Fortune tellers and others professing to have occult powers are keeping the mail box filled and the telephone busy at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, sr., grandmother of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

At the home it was said tonight that none of the communications thus far received bears the earmarks of authenticity, although some of them have been sent to New Jersey for investigation there. Information concerning communications between Mrs. Lindbergh and her son was refused tonight.

Week of Worry Fails To Break Flier's Wife

Hopewell, N. J., March 8 (A.P.).—A week of anxiety and worry over the whereabouts and safety of her first born has failed to break the courage and fortitude of Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

She was said today to be "bearing up well" under the strain. She had few if any callers during the day, but her mother remained at her side.

'Official' Plan for Baby Restoration Published

Philadelphia, March 8 (A.P.).—In a two-column box on the front page captioned "To the kidnapers," the Philadelphia Record says:

"Cut an irregular piece of cloth from the Lindbergh baby's original sleeping garment. Keep this fragment. Place the baby in a safe place. Notify Col. Lindbergh where to find the baby. He secretly will send for it. At a later date, to be set by you, he will meet and deal with you in strictest secrecy.

"You are to produce your fragment matching the part from which it was cut and receive the ransom, without the knowledge of any one else. The Record is authorized to guarantee this plan as official and genuine, but is bound by confidence not to reveal the official sources through which it was issued."

RADIO TELLS POLICE OF SHOTGUN ATTACK

Report Relayed Over Washington System, Virginia Wires Being Down.

Radio was resorted to last night to notify Fairfax County police that a man had been shot in the southern end of the county. Due to the blizzard, telephone communication throughout the county has been disrupted for three days. The town of Fairfax, where the county offices are located, has been shut off from all other sections of the county.

Late yesterday afternoon Richard Weadon, 24, of 401 South Washington street, Alexandria, was brought to the Alexandria Hospital, suffering from gunshot wounds in the back. He named Henry Hill, colored, of Mount Vernon District as his assailant. Unable to notify the county police by telephone the Alexandria authorities called Washington where it was broadcast over the police radio.

Sheriff E. P. Kirby, of Fairfax, received the radio message and Capt. Heywood J. Durrer, of the traffic police, who has a radio on his car also received the call. Both rushed to the hospital where Weadon stated that he had gone to Hill's home about 2 miles south of Alexandria to inquire about some things that were missing from his home. An argument ensued. As Weadon started to leave the place Hill rushed into the house and picked up a shotgun.

Police stated that the shot was fired into Weadon's back from a distance of about 30 yards. At the hospital 48 shot were removed from his back after which he was taken to his home. Fairfax authorities were still searching for Hill late last night.

Wallace Beery Receives Adoption Papers for 3

Los Angeles, March 8 (A.P.).—Final adoption papers of Carol Ann Priester, 2-year-old daughter of an aunt of Mrs. Wallace Beery, were received today by Mrs. Beery and her motion picture actor husband, Wallace Beery.

The child was born September 15, 1930. In the same juvenile court ceremony Carol Ann's brothers, George, 9, and William, 4, were given into the Beery control for rearing. The Priester children's mother is dead.

Socialistic Triumph In U. S. Is Predicted

Madrid, March 8 (A.P.).—Fernando de Los Rios, minister of public instruction, predicted today in a speech to the American Club, reorganization of the United States along socialistic lines with gradual nationalization of the major utilities and abolition of industrial trusts.

He asked patience and understanding in American relations with the new Spanish republic, "which, unlike the United States, was a rebirth while the American republic was a complete creation."

Wine Congress Is Told Of Dry Law Evils Here

Paris, March 8 (A.P.).—Two delegates told the International Wine Congress today that prohibition in the United States had created a "deplorable situation."

Dr. E. Malachowsky, of Poland, presented statistics intended to show that deaths from alcoholism had doubled and cases of heart disease had tripled in America since that country enacted its dry laws. Edouard Barthe, of France, reported there had been an "increase in immorality" during the same period.

ERSTWHILE CHILEAN ENVOY HERE SEIZED

Carlos Davila Is Arrested in Santiago, With Others, in Alleged Plot.

Santiago, Chile, March 8 (A.P.).—Carlos Davila, former Chilean Ambassador to Washington, was arrested today in a round up of opposition political leaders, several heads of labor unions and others the government charged wth openly or secretly agitating against it.

The sudden arrests caused a sensation in political circles, where it was presumed that the government felt it had uncovered a plot against the regime of President Juan Esteban Montero.

The arrests also were thought in some quarters to have some connection with abortive Communist plans for strikes in Valparaiso and northern ports last week.

Senor Davila had been a sharp critic of the government in a weekly review which he publishes and had been trailed by detectives for weeks. He is a leading representative of the faction once headed by former President Carlos Ibanez, whose dictatorial administration was overthrown last July.

Senor Davila presented himself to police when told that they were looking for him and was taken to Valparaiso for questioning. He sent word to reporters that he had no knowledge of the charge against him.

Arias Is Eligible For Panama Race

Panama City, March 8 (A.P.).—Harmodio Arias, former Panamanian Minister to Washington, was declared eligible for the presidency today for the term 1932-36 by the national electoral board.

The legality of Arias' candidacy had been questioned by opponents on the ground that he provisionally discharged executive functions immediately after the coup which overthrew the Arosemena regime on January 2, 1931.

Arias heads the Doctrinarian Liberals, who were organized around "Accion Communal," a patriotic association, which engineered and carried out Arosemena's overthrow. The Doctrinarian Liberals are reputedly a strong contender for victory at the polls in the presidential race in June.

He was released on bail of $5,000 and will appear in Municipal Court to answer charges of assault to do bodily harm. He made a general denial of the charges. Mrs. Stephenson meanwhile was in the University of California Hospital recovering from numerous cuts and bruises which she asserted she received when Stephenson broke down the door of her apartment and beat her with a cane. She has a divorce complaint on file at Salinas.

out first submitting them to postal inspectors and police for inspection.

In this manner a number of deadly contraptions were intercepted and destroyed.

The bombs were exploded by police with results that indicated they were loaded with TNT and nitroglycerine, the same material found in Boeri's home.

In addition to the mail plots frustrated, a number of bombings were carried out almost simultaneously, although without fatal results.

Previously Arrested.

Garsson said he searched all Government files for similar cases after being assigned to the Easton affair. He found records showing Boeri was arrested in Chicago in 1918 on suspicion of anarchistic activities. He posted bond and then fled.

The Government learned he was in Italy in 1922. He was believed to have returned here shortly afterward as he admitted coming to Chicago eight years ago.

Boeri was held formally on a charge of illegally entering the country. The raid on his home was made by Garsson and five Federal investigators of the Immigration Bureau in Washington. Boeri was living here under the name of John Boris, with his wife and 4-year-old daughter, Columbine.

2 PILOTS DIE, 3 HURT IN AIRPLANE PLUNGE

Aviators Being Trained for Places of Strikers Are Crash Victims.

St. Louis, March 8 (A.P.).—A night training flight for five pilots entering the employ of the Century Air Lines, ended tragically early today, when their trimotored plane struck an old windmill tower near Curtiss-Steinberg Airport and crashed, killing two and injuring three.

L. H. "Jack" Atkinson, 35, and John F. Kirk, 35, both of Chicago, who were sitting in passengers' seats, were killed.

Ira Smalling, 33, Chicago; Sindey Cleveland, 34, Goldfield, Iowa, and Theodore Graff, 29, Chicago, escaped with injuries, none of them critical.

Smalling and Graff were at the dual controls of the plane in which the men were practicing night landing at the airports here, at Springfield, Ill., and Chicago. The training was preparatory to resumption of the night flying schedule by the Century Air Lines.

The aviators had taken the places of pilots discharged a month ago because of wage difficulties.

The plane sheared off the top of the windmill structure and crashed to the earth, nose first. Cleveland extricated himself and summoned help.

Airport officers said an effort had been made to place a light on the windmill structure, but the owner refused permission.

Atkinson, a former Navy flier, was known in the Midwest as a barnstorming pilot after the war. Kirk also learned to fly during the war.

CRIMINAL INTENTION IS DENIED BY FARLEY

Former New York Sheriff Defends Practice of Taking Interest.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Former Sheriff Thomas M. Farley disclaimed at his trial for second degree larceny today any thought of wrongdoing in taking interest on funds intrusted to him while in office.

The defense thereupon rested and the case was adjourned until tomorrow when Judge John J. Freschi, in General Sessions Court, will decide whether the evidence shall go to the jury. After a motion had been made to dismiss the indictment, Judge Freschi indicated that he considered the "sufficiency of the evidence of criminal intent" the central point in the case.

Farley's Portrait of Self.

In an hour on the stand Farley pictured himself as a trusting sheriff who never examined the routine of his subordinates or questioned their judgment, signing checks without looking at them or allowing Undersheriff Peter J. Curran to do it for him.

It was not until September, 1930, that he was made aware by his cashier, Charles T. Connelly, that he was entitled to interest on funds in escrow, he testified, and it was not until the following December that he learned his right to such moneys was being questioned by the Hofstadter legislative investigating committee.

Shifts Blame, "If Any."

"If this money is mine, I'm going to hold it and protect it," he quoted himself as telling Connelly, "and if it isn't, I don't want a penny of it."

The burden of "splitting" the interest, if open to criticism as charged by the prosecution, Farley said, should be placed squarely on Connelly.

An attempt of the defense to show that the practice of withholding interest was followed by the comptroller's and city chamberlain's office in the holding of bail as contractor's bonds was ruled out by the court on the ground it would be "going too far afield."

Chicago Bar Group Backs Wilkerson

Brief Denies Jurist Has Been Unfair to Organized Labor.

(Associated Press.)

Throwing its full influence behind the nomination of Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, to the Circuit Court, the Chicago Bar Association yesterday denied he had been unfair to organized labor.

In a prepared brief submitted to the Senate judiciary subcommittee considering Wilkerson's nomination the Bar Association said the jurist was "an able and fearless public officer, who has the confidence of the bar and the people of his community."

Referring to organized labor's protest that Wilkerson had shown "blind partisanship and antagonism to labor unions," the Bar Association's brief, submitted by Charles P. Megan, president, said: "Apparently Judge Wilkerson has been called upon to adjudicate in very few cases involving labor disputes, and it seems significant to us that no labor injunction order entered by him has been reversed or modified on appeal."

Injunction Sought In Cemetery Plans

Developer of Tract on River Road Seeks to Halt Interference.

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday were served with papers in an injunction suit, filed by Fulton R. Gordon, Washington real estate dealer, which seeks to have the Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., issue an injunction barring the county commissioners from interfering with Mr Gordon's development of a memorial park cemetery on property owned by him at the junction of Bradley boulevard and River road. The tract contains about 71 acres.

The petition states that the plaintiff contemplates developing, dedicating and using the land for a cemetery of the type known as a memorial park. It further states that commissioners on February 5, 1929, acting under authority of an act of the legislature of 1927, attempted, as a district council, to adopt an ordinance regulating the establishment of cemeteries in Montgomery County, and classified that section of the county, of which the 71 acres are a part, as residential, and prohibited the tract's use as a cemetery, in violation of the Constitutional rights of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys J. F. Lillard, of Hyattsville, and Ogle Marbury, of Baltimore. The rule to cause issued against the county commissioners sets April 1 as the date of hearing.

Stock Market Hit By Capper for Ills

Bankers Who Participated in 1928-29 Inflation Also Blamed.

(Associated Press).

Blame for much of the country's ills was placed yesterday by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, in a radio address, on the New York Stock Exchange and upon bankers who participated in the inflation of stock prices in 1928 and 1929.

"This world's greatest gambling institution, located on Wall street," he said, "has too much control over the business of this country. It is responsible for a great part of trouble at this time."

The Senate banking committee will begin its inquiry into the stock market operations the latter part of the week in response to demands by Senator Capper and others. Meanwhile, the committee is giving full attention to the Glass banking revision bill, calculated to tighten up the banking system. An early report of this measure is in sight.

ALLEGED STRANGLER HAS HEART ATTACK

Man Collapses Soon After Body of Trunk Victim Is Discovered.

Atlantic City, March 8 (A.P.).—Charged with murder in connection with the strangling of his landlady, Mrs. Mattie Schaaf, 59, whose body was found in a trunk in Philadelphia, Louis Fine lay ill in a hospital here today while police of two cities pressed an investigation of his movements.

Before he collapsed from heart disease shortly after his arrest, Fine admitted, police said, that he had shipped the trunk to Philadelphia. He maintained, however, that he had been paid $25 to do so by a man named "L. Miller" and that he did not know what the trunk contained.

Philadelphia police in reexamining the body today found that Mrs. Schaaf had been strangled by strands of new rope. They had been drawn so tightly about the throat that they were not visible at first, they explained.

Atlantic City detectives reported they learned today that Mrs. Schaaf was the widow of Joseph Schaaf, retired Chicago restaurant proprietor, who left her about $10,000.

Fine, who is 50 years old and formerly was a real estate broker in Philadelphia, recently sought to induce Mrs. Schaaf to invest $3,000 in one of his projects, police stated.

Fine was acquitted last April of attempting to kill his wife, Mrs. Bertha Abramson Fine. Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle, of Philadelphia, expressed the belief Fine had swindled several women. "We believe he still has another wife in Philadelphia and a third in Russia," he said. "When he was tried for attempting to kill his wife she testified he had squandered $30,000 left her by her first husband."

ANTI-INJUNCTION BILL PASSED IN HOUSE BY 363 TO 13 VOTE

anoint as the personal representatives of the Almighty," but who had disobeyed the specific decisions of Congress as expressed in the Clayton act.

Representative Sumners demanded passage as a right of a free people to be freed from the abuse of Federal power. The measure, he said, would remove from the power of the few to make "government contemptible in its tyranny."

Draws Different Picture.

But Representative Blanton drew a different picture. Enactment of the measure, Mr. Blanton said, would give the labor unions a "throttling hold on the Government." He called attention to the representatives of the American Federation of Labor sitting in the gallery and protested that they represented but 5,000,000 out of the 120,000,000 people in the country.

"This is a special class act," Mr Blanton said. "It takes inherent rights away from 120,000,000 people and gives those rights to the 5,000,000."

Mr. Blanton, who has been an opponent of labor for years, made his final gesture when he objected to a request by Representative Sumners to substitute the Senate bill for the House bill, a mere parliamentary maneuver to save time. The Senate bill, Mr. Blanton objected, contained a phrase which would give jury trials to dry law violators who were held in contempt of court for violating padlock orders. There were 20,000 of these, he said.

Before that he tried to have the bill sent back to committe with instructions to insert all of the Beck and some other amendments designed to eliminate some of its effectiveness. On this proposal he asked for a record vote but not even enough members arose to bring that about.

Representative Beck and Representative Earl Michener (Republican), of Michigan, were sponsors of the amendments which mustered the greatest number of votes in opposition to sponsors of the bill.

Amendment Is Beaten.

Representative Beck proposed an amendment which would except from the restrictions injunctions in public utilities disputes. He said the railroad brotherhoods otherwise would have power to cripple the Nation and compel acceptance of their demands. The bill, he said, did not provide against improper motives behind a possible Nation-wide strike. The brotherhoods would be able to do again, he said, "what was done in 1916 and say to the President and to Congress that 'you shall do so and so or there will be no interstate transportation in this country. We will see people starve to get our will.'"

The Senate, he continued, numbered members who had visited and become enamored of the philosophy of Moscow. His amendment was beaten 155 to 63. Two Democrats voted with him, Representatives Cole, of Maryland, and Stewart, of New Jersey.

Representative Michener sought to add "threats or intimidation" to the grounds on which Federal courts might issue injunctions in labor disputes and, in urging adoption of his proposal, pleaded that the red flag should not be waved in this country. The amendment, Mr. LaGuardia said, was very unsafe. It was beaten, 161 to 62. Another similar amendment was beaten without a count. A third Michener amendment which would authorize injunctions when a business was being injured was beaten, 142 to 38.

Another amendment by Representative Beck would permit injunctions where strikes or other acts were called or committed with "unlawful intent." That was beaten by a vote of 47 to 143.

Representative Blanton's motion to recommit and add the Beck amendment to the bill found only seventeen standing to be counted in support. Speaker Garner made a few vague gestures toward counting and finally decided that 255 voted against the Blanton motion and the House laughed.

The bill declares the right of labor to organize and to bargain collectively. It makes unlawful so-called yellow dog contracts which prohibit employes from joining unions and, except where overt acts as set forth in the bill are committed, forbids issuance of injunctions without a full hearing and finding of fact, and grants to persons charged with contempt of court for violating an injunction, the right to trial by jury under another judge. The House bill limits its application to newspaper contempt cases to those arising out of labor disputes, although the Senate provision was broader.

10,000 PERSONS FILE PAST BIER OF BRIAND

Room Filled With Flowers; Chamber and Senate Pay Formal Tribute.

Paris, March 8 (A.P.).—More than 10,000 persons—porters, shopkeepers, statesmen and all intermediate ranks—filed today through Aristide Briand's little bedroom to do homage to the dead "Apostle of Peace."

By nightfall M. Briand's bachelor apartment was filled with flowers. These tributes ran all the way from an imposing piece sent by the German Ambassador to single carnations left there by midinettes and wounded war veterans.

The family of the French statesman, who succumbed yesterday to a heart attack, was so touched by the genuineness of the affection shown him that the room was kept open 2 hours and 40 minutes longer than had been planned.

Thursday morning the coffin will be transferred to the foreign office, where it will be placed in the famous clockroom in which the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war was signed in August, 1928.

Formal tribute was paid to the "Man of Peace" in both the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate today. President Buisson, of the chamber, declared M. Briand was a perfect Frenchman, who became a "citizen of men the world over; who gave him their confidence."

Premier Andre Tardieu said M. Briand was one of the great statesmen of history and that he had labored indefatigably for "peace of consciences, peace of parties, and peace among peoples."

In the Senate President Lebrun said the dead statesman was a symbol of France's desire for peace and predicted his efforts would bear signal fruit.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon.

Sixth of Lecture Series on G. O. P. History to Be Given Tomorrow.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, and Representative Frank Crowther, of New York, will feature this month's regular lecture meeting of the young Republicans of the National Capital Republic Club, to be held tomorrow night, at the clubhouse at Sixteenth street and Scott Circle.

Senator Fess will deliver the sixth of a series of lectures covering the history of the Republican party. The Ohio senator is devoting his nine talks to successive epochs, his last covering the era from President Grant to President Arthur.

Representative Crowther, of New York, member of the House ways and means committee, will discuss the tax problem. Mr. Crowther has been identified with the subject of taxation since serving on the Middlesex County (New York) Board of Taxation from 1906 to 1909. He has been elected to the Sixty-sixth and each succeeding Congress.

$200,000 OHIO FIRE KILLS 2, INJURES 8

Dead Buried Under Debris as Building Roof Caves In; Block Is Burned.

Portsmouth, Ohio, March 8 (A.P.).—Two dead, eight injured and property loss of $200,000 was the toll of a disastrous fire that swept the Distel business block in downtown Portsmouth today.

The dead and injured were trapped on a subfloor of the Distel Furniture Co. when the roof caved in. Seven escaped with injuries, while two, Virgil Ross, 22, New Boston fireman, and Dave Kehoe, 45, Portsmouth fireman, were killed.

The blaze, believed to have had its origin in the elevator shaft or basement of the building, was brought under control after several hours by Portsmouth firemen and fire companies from nearby cities and towns.

Nine firemen were on the mezzanine floor of the furniture store when the roof caved in, showering tons of bricks, lumber and plaster upon them. Kehoe, whose body was found buried in the debris, made a valiant attempt to escape. His legs were pinned down by the first avalanche of debris. He succeeded in extricating his legs from his boots, but a moment later another shower of bricks and timber buried him.

The body of Ross was found late today, crushed under a mass of debris at the bottom of the elevator shaft. He was trapped in the first fall from the roof.

Closed Bank's Directors Are Sued for Restitution

Detroit, March 8 (A.P.).—Attorneys for the First Wayne National Bank of Detroit today filed suit against all the directors of the defunct American State Bank and against three bonding companies, charging their negligence was responsible for the collapse in March, 1931, of the bank, and asking they be required to make good the losses.

The suit asked $3,500,000 from the Detroit Fidelity & Surety Co. and the Fidelity Deposit Co. of Maryland, and $125,000 from the Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York. The American State Bank was taken over last year by the Peoples Wayne County Bank, now contained in the First Wayne National. Losses sustained in the bank were estimated last year at $11,000,000.

More Products Eligible For U. S. Crop Loans

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hyde yesterday approved an amendment to the 1932 crop production loan regulations by adding sugar beets, sugar cane, hops and rice to the crops for which loans may be made.

Another amendment included peanuts with cotton and tobacco under a provision prohibiting loans for planting an acreage greater than 65 per cent of the borrower's 1931 average. The Agriculture Department has $50,000,000 available for lending to farmers this spring. Other funds will be added later by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

$5,000,000 Loss in '31 Is Reported by R-K-O

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation today reported a net loss of $5,660,770 for 1931, as compared with net income of $3,385,600 in the previous year.

The company's gross income was $79,232,392, or considerably larger than the gross of $62,474,604 reported for 1930. Artists salaries, other salaries and film service, aggregating $29,394,016, was $106,435 less than for 1930. But the cost of film sales and service showed the sharp increase to $22,139,398, from $10,083,634 for the previous year.

Pouring of Concrete Begins at Hoover Dam

Boulder City, Nev., March 8 (A.P.).—Workmen today began pouring concrete at the intake portal of diversion tunnel number 2, the first of the 4,500,000 cubic yards of concrete that will go into the building of Hoover Dam and appurtenant works.

The concrete was being mixed in the largest plant ever erected for this purpose and the sand and gravel going into its composition is screened, graded and washed by a plant which, in its extent and mechanical installations, represents an outlay never before approached.

CHINA URGES LEAGUE TO FORCE WAR'S END

Asks "Supreme Authority" Act at Once; Delegates Clash at Session.

Geneva, March 8 (U.P.).—China called upon "the supreme authority" of the League of Nations general assembly today to force Japan to cease hostilities in the Yangtze Valley.

"China asks that the decision of the supreme authority of the assembly be put through without delay," declared W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, in a clash with the Japanese representative, Naotake Sato.

"We have no further need of commissions to establish the fact that the league covenant has been violated."

Sato replied with counter charges against China, obviously seeking to delay action by the assembly and attacking the Chinese attitude toward treaty obligations.

"Japan is not oblivious of her obligations under the pact of Paris (antiwar treaty)" Sato declared. "But if recourse to armed force was necessary it was because of the presence of danger in China.

"We have no intention of forcing military action in China, and we are willing to negotiate within the spirit of the pact of Paris, in accordance with our engagements and the League of Nations resolution of March 4.

"Japan has not repudiated the covenant of the league. Rather, we wish to see the authority of the league enlarged and extended."

The Chinese and Japanese declarations were made after the league secretariat had received its first joint report, in which United States authorities participated, from Shanghai.

The first report said the Japanese lines had been established outside of Shanghai on March 6 and that there was "occasional skirmishing."

"Both sides charge the other with the fighting," the report said. "So far we are in touch only with the Japanese. We hope to follow with a detailed report after getting in touch with the Chinese."

The delegates to the assembly who did not participate in speeches last week delivered their declarations of policy today, stressing the necessity for arrangements to end hostilities and generally upholding the policy that small nations must be protected by the league.

Farm Supply Bill Passed by Senate

$188,000,000 Contained in Agriculture Department Measure.

(Associated Press.)

After several days of debate the Senate yesterday passed the first of the annual supply bills, a measure carrying $188,000,000 for the Agriculture Department. The bill as passed, included $1,450,000 for grasshopper control despite an attempt by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, to have the Senate reconsider its action in adding that provision.

He and Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, sought unsuccessfully to reduce the amount to $1,000,000. McKellar had also proposed numerous amendments to prune the department's expenses for pest eradication and other functions. Most of his proposals were rejected.

MRS. M'CORMICK TO BE MARRIED TODAY

rado law a couple must wait five days between the application and receipt of a license, but Judge John G. Young granted Mr. Simms' request, issued a court order and the county clerk of El Paso County promptly issued a license.

Mrs. McCormick said that while they plan to make their home in Albuquerque, she will spend much time in Colorado Springs, where she has two children in school. Her son, Medill, attends the Fountain Valley School for Boys, and her daughter, Ruth, the San Luis School for Girls.

The bride will wear a gray afternoon dress trimmed with chinchilla, which she wore at the coming out party of her daughter, Katrina, a student at Columbia University. Katrina, unable to attend the wedding, asked her mother to wear that dress, Mrs. McCormick said.

Chicago, March 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. McCormick's announcement from Colorado Springs that she would marry former Representative Simms, of Albuquerque, lacked the element of surprise. Their names were first linked together in Washington, where they occupied adjacent seats in the House and were frequently seen together.

Almost a year ago, on Mrs. Mccormick's fifty-first birthday, March 27, after visiting Mr. Simms' sister, Mrs. William E. Eels, in Albuquerque, Mrs. McCormick told reporters in El Paso, Tex., that the rumor she and Mr. Simms were to marry "was screamingly funny."

Mr. Simms was born in 1882 in Washington, Ark., and attended private schools and the University of Arkansas, at Fayetteville. From 1906 to 1912 he resided at Monterey, Mexico, going to Silver City, N. Mex., a small mining and resort town, in 1912. He served during the war as field director for the American Red Cross at Camp Cody, N. Mex. From 1920-24 he was president of the Citizens National Bank of Albuquerque.

His first wife was Katherine Atherton Mather, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., a descendant of Richard Mather, of Harvard College, whom he married in 1914. She died in 1921. Mr. Simms is a Republican.

Chairman of the first woman's executive committee of the National Republican Committee, and first national committeewoman from Illinois, Mrs. McCormick, when she became a candidate for the April, 1928, primary for the Republican nomination for congressman-at-large, was no novice. She said emphatically that she was not running "as a woman's candidate," and did not approve of feminine blocs.

She conducted her campaign like a man would, except that she spared herself less, making half a dozen speeches a day and touring alone over 16,000 miles in nearly every one of the 101 down-State counties. The result was that she went to Congress.

In the April primaries, 1930, after another hard-fought political battle, this time against former Senator Charles S. Deneen, she won an overwhelming victory. In the November election, however, she was beaten by her Democratic opponent, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, in a Democratic landslide.

SENATOR FREDERICK STEIWER, OF OREGON.

SENATOR FREDERICK STEIWER, of Oregon, is one of the biggest men on Capitol Hill. He is over 6 feet in height, weighs more than 200 pounds, and is said to have a strength approximating that of the ox.

Steiwer is happiest when he can use that strength; which is to say, that he is happiest when he is roughing it in the mountains of Oregon, fishing and hunting and camping.

Senator Steiwer, member of an old and distinguished Oregon family, was born in Jefferson, Marion County. After studying at Oregon State College and the University of Oregon, he went to Pendleton, the rodeo capital, to practice law. Getting into politics, he became district attorney and then State senator. In 1917, he joined the colors, serving in the artillery.

He was elected to the Senate in 1926. Thus he comes up for reelection next November.

Steiwer's chief aim since he has been in the Senate is to promote the development of the Columbia River, which runs through Oregon to the sea. The Columbia is said to be dotted with more power sites than any river of comparable size in the world. Steiwer has been seeking to have the river made more navigable as these power sites are developed. Thus, he points out, two goals would be achieved—cheaper power for the consumer and for industry, and cheaper freight rates for the farmers who want to ship their wheat by boat.

dates for delegates at large in today's presidential primary, an average of 5,798 votes and the Smith ticket an average of 3,678. The figures included half of the City of Manchester, regarded as the center of Smith strength.

Roosevelt Lead Grows.

While returns filtered in slowly from the strongholds of the forces of Smith, candidates backing the presidential candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt piled up a growing lead in the tabulation of votes.

The Roosevelt forces, seeking to elect their full slate of candidates for delegates to the National convention in the first of the year's primaries, got away to a lead in the returns from the rural sections but the Smith workers expected to cut this down as the figures from the larger cities were counted.

Returns from Manchester, supported the claims of Smith workers that the city would return him a majority. In one ward the Smith vote was 2 to 1 over that for Roosevelt and in an other his lead was approximately 4 to 1. The Smith leaders predicted that a 5,000 majority in Manchester would result in the election of at least part of the Smith-pledged slate.

No Republican Contest.

Four delegate-at-large votes, divided among eight delegates, each with a half-vote, were at stake in addition to four District votes—two in each of the two congressional districts.

Complete tickets of Smith-pledged and Roosevelt-pledged candidates were in the field. Scattering returns from the district contests showed approximately the same ratio of votes between the opposing forces.

There was no Republican contest and a complete slate of seven delegates-at-large and four district delegates, all pledged to Hoover, was formally ratified.

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was obviously elated over election reports from New Hampshire tonight, but he had "nothing to say." He indicated that he did not wish to comment until all the returns were in.

CHINESE REPORTED PLANNING FOR DRIVE

that the Japanese planned to occupy Nantao and other large areas on the southern side of Shanghai, along with reports of a new fight brewing along the battlefront, stirred the Chinese populace into panic today.

Nanking dispatches said that the people there also were nervous and a great exodus of the inhabitants was under way, owing to rumors that Japanese soldiers were marching on Nanking.

(The Japanese thus far have confined their occupation of Shanghai largely to the Chapei native section north of the International Settlement and the Hongkew area within the settlement.)

Neutral mediators, inactive for several days, again took up the task of negotiating an agreement to end the hostilities, but the situation was still disturbing.

Rail Service Resumed.

Service was resumed over the Shanghai-Hangkow Railway, which was cut 35 miles southwest of Shanghai yesterday, the track having been repaired. The Chinese staff, which had abruptly departed, returned to the station here.

The Chinese Lunghwa arsenal close by was being dismantled. The machinery was being sent to Hangchow.

Gendarmes guarded the roads throughout the area south of the city, while traffic on many highways was interrupted as a result of bridges having been torn up as a precaution against the feared Japanese advance.

Japanese fliers continued to reconnoiter the area, gendarmes and the populace alike diving into numerous dugouts which dot the countryside when the planes approached.

Chinese municipal officials endeavored to regain control of the Chapei, Kiangwan and other recent battle areas.

Letter Sent to Consul.

Mayor Wu Teh-Chen sent a letter to Kuramatsu Murai, Japanese consul general, in which he said orders had been given to Chinese authorities concerned with public safety and sanitation to take over the administration of the "war areas." He asked that Consul Murai inform the Japanese military now in occupation of the areas of the Chinese intention.

Chinese circles regarded the letter as a "feeler" to ascertain what the Japanese intended to do with these areas, as the letter requested a reply, which had not been received this morning.

PU-YI INAUGURATION WILL BE HELD TODAY

New Leader and Wife Make Spectacular Entry Into City of Changchun.

Changchun, Manchuria, March 8 (A.P.).—The scenario was complete to the most minute detail tonight and the stage was set for tomorrow's drama—the inauguration of Henry Pu-Yi, former Emperor of China, as the chief magistrate of the land of his forefathers, the new Manchurian-Mongolian State.

Pu-Yi and his wife already have been installed in the new presidential palace. They made a spectacular entry into their new capital today, passing through streets largely guarded by the alien soldiers of Japan.

The climatic feature of the inauguration ceremony tomorrow afternoon will be the presentation to Pu-Yi of two great golden seals—the seal of state and the regent's seal. These will be handed to the ruler by Chang Ching-Hui and another member of the little group of "representatives of Manchuria's thirty millions," who, with the aid of Japanese advisers, arranged the whole show.

This scene will be presented in the "throne room" of the presidential palace in the presence of the lords and ladies of New Manchuria. Gen. Shigeru Honjo, the Japanese commander, who made the new state possible by defeating the Chinese in every engagement in the province, probably will be present.

Twenty years ago Pu-Yi, then Hsuan-Tung, the boy-emperor of China, stepped down from the ancient dragon throne and subsequently became a virtual prisoner of the Japanese. Now he has returned to rule the land from which, three centuries ago, his forefathers descended on China to establish the Manchu dynasty, of which he was the last ruling member.

Although republican forms have been largely followed in the establishment of the new Manchuria, the exact nature of Pu-Yi's office remains ambiguous. He will become the "Chin Cheng" of the young government—a term translated variously as regent, dictator and chief executive.

It is understood that this ambiguity is intentional, as it leaves the way open for the eventual establishment of a monarchy, since the beginning of the movement to restore him to public life, the young Manchu has favored a monarchial government.

2 U. S. Women Quit Work in War Zone

End Hospital Duty and Return to Safety on Pleas of Friends.

Shanghai, March 8 (A.P.).—Two American women who have been living in the midst of battle for several days in order that they might care for wounded soldiers succumbed to the pleading of their friends today and returned to Shanghai.

The Americans—Dr. Grace I. Crandall and Dr. Rosa W. Palmborg, both of Milton, Wis.—have been on duty at Grace Hospital at Liuho. Their nerves were frayed from the constant exposure to danger.

"We were thoroughly frightened," said Dr. Palmborg. "The planes came very low overhead and the rat-tat-tat of the machine guns was nerve wracking in the extreme."

Gains in Unemployment Discounted by Lamont

(Associated Press.)

A statement from Secretary Lamont that "relative severity of unemployment among the States" is not greatly different from that in April, 1930, was presented to the Senate yesterday by Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut.

In his letter to Senator Bingham, Lamont said, "It is impossible to state with any accuracy what the probable distribution of unemployed is," but added it was probable the increase of unemployment since the census "has been most pronounced in those States in which unemployment at that time was already most severe."

JURY ACTION SOUGHT IN FATAL FORD RIOT

Evidence Found of Criminal Syndicalism, Is Claim; 30 Persons Held.

Detroit, March 8 (A.P.).—Asserting there was "evidence of criminal syndicalism" in yesterday's fatal rioting at the Ford Motor Co.'s plant in River Rouge, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy today sought an immediate grand jury investigation into the clash between police and demonstrators in which 4 persons were killed and more than 60 injured.

The prosecutor said he had evidence showing several persons, "some of whose names are at present unknown, openly incited the group toward a riot," and announced he would confer with officials of the grand jury tomorrow morning, with a view of immediately placing the matter before them.

A search was being made tonight for William Z. Foster, national head of the Communist party in the United States, and four leaders of local communistic groups whom the police accuse of fomenting the riot.

More Than 30 Are Held.

Prosecutor Toy said his investigations have failed to show the affair was "a hunger march or an unemployment march." More than 30 participants in the clash were held for investigation tonight. t

Besides Foster the men sought are John Schmies, former Communist candidate for Mayor of Detroit; William Reynolds, former Communist candidate for Mayor of Lincoln Park; Albert Goetz, of Hamtrack, and John Pace, of Lincoln Park. All are accused of addressing the demonstrations prior to their march on the Ford factory.

Responsibility for the outbreak of gunfire at the factory remained unsettled tonight. Several demonstrators said the police started the shooting. The police asserted they fired to protect their lives. They admitted they took no weapons from the rioters, but insisted that shots were fired from the crowd. The policemen who were injured were struck by stones, which also caused most of the injuries in the crowd.

14 Demands Listed.

A statement signed "Unemployed Council of Detroit" and "the Auto Workers Union" circulated today said the purpose of the demonstration was to present fourteen demands to the Ford Co. through a committee of nine.

Included in the demands listed were:

Jobs for all laid-off Ford workers; immediate payment of 50 per cent of full wages to all laid-off Ford employes; a six-hour day without reduction in pay; slowing down of the "speed-up;" free medical aid in Ford Hospital for employed and unemployed Ford workers and their families; no discrimination against Negroes; 5 tons of fuel for the winter; abolition of private police; no foreclosures on homes of former Ford workers, Ford to assume responsibility for all mortgages, land contracts and back taxes on homes until six months after regular full-time employment is resumed; immediate payment of $50 winter relief; full wages for part-time workers; abolition of the "graft system" in hiring workers, and the right to organize.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—The killing of four men in yesterday's unemployment riot in front of the Ford Motor Co. plant in Dearborn, Mich., was described as "wanton murder" today by the American Civil Liberties Union.

U. S. FINANCE BOARD LOANS $183,800,000

(Associated Press.)

The strengthening hand of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has poured $183,800,000 into the credit stream of American business through loans to agriculture, banks and railroads.

Banks, trust companies and building and loan associations have received advances to the extent of $61,800,000. The corporation has gone to the assistance of 255 such institutions.

Country banks, their credit strained to the limit by falling security prices and hoarding, received most of the loans to financial institutions.

Hard pressed railroads have been advanced $47,000,000 and agriculture has received $75,000,000, through Department of Agriculture agencies and the intermediate credit banks.

The amount made public yesterday does not include a $1,000,000 loan made to a bank two weeks ago, which was repaid within five days.

The corporation also has authorized a number of loans to banks which have not been called for, and, unless credit in the communities tightens perceptibly, may not be called for at all.

BALANCE OF $25,451 REPORTED BY G. O. P.

Contributions of Last Two Months Totaled $53,654; $34,666 Expended.

(Associated Press.)

Contributions to the Republican national committee in January and February totaled $53,654 and expenditures amounted to $34,666.

A report filed yesterday with the House clerk by J. R. Nutt, of Cleveland, treasurer, showed a balance of $25,451 in the committee's treasury. It began the year with $6,000 in the treasury.

Many of the contributions came from the Republican 1932 clubs, but the largest came from men closely associated with the present administration.

Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury and now Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and his brother, R. B. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, contributed $5,000; Walter E. Edge, Ambasador to France, $1,000; C. C. Teagle, of Santa Paula, Calif., former member of the Farm Board, $1,300; W. L. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, $1,000.

Other large contributors included: Estate J. N. Pew, Philadelphia, $3,000; W. W. Atterbury, of New York, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad interests, $500; Howard Heinz and E. T. Weir, both of Pittsburgh; Jay Cooke, Philemon Dickinson, E. T. Stotesbury, all of Philadelphia; E. R. Crawford, McKeesport, Pa.; John N. Willys, Ambassador to Poland, $1,000 each; Walter P. Chrysler, automobile manufacturer, E. F. Hutton, both of New York, $5,000 each; John W. Garrett, Baltimore, $2,500; Southern California Republican finance committee, $8,500; Howard P. Pressey, Santa Paula, Calif., $500; H. Fleishacker, San Francisco, $1,500, and John Griffiths, Chicago, $700.

Fleet Submarine Launched by U. S.

Seventh Undersea Craft of 1916 Program Leaves Portsmouth Ways.

Portsmouth, N. H., March 8 (A.P.).—The seventh of the nine-fleet submarines authorized in the naval building program of 1916 was launched today at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. This undersea craft, the Dolphin, is officially known as the V-7 and is considerably smaller than the Narwhal and the Nautilus, her two immediate predecessors.

She is the first submarine in which electric welding has been extensively used in the construction of the pressure hull. Her armament will consist of six 21-inch submerged torpedo tubes and one 4-inch gun, mounted on deck. She will have about the same speed as her predecessors of the V class and a long radius of action.

Lieut. John B. Griggs will be her first commander and her crew will consist of five officers, in addition to the commander, and 52 men.

BYRNS ASKS HOOVER TO AID ECONOMIES

ing what he had in mind when he sent his message to Congress * * *

"The committee invites his cooperation. Up to this time it has received no word or communication from him that he proposes to extend it except through the public press."

In his carefully prepared statement, Mr. Hoover said the veterans administration already has prepared suggestions for alterations of the laws covering allowances and pensions, expected to save between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 annually, while Postmaster General Brown and Secretary Hyde, of the Agriculture Department, likewise have drawn plans for altering the legal requirements as to their expenditures.

As an illustration of his contention that little more could be saved by administrative action, President Hoover recalled that the Budget Bureau had submitted estimates roughly $365,000,000 below those of last year.

Further reductions of $112,000,000 have been made by the House appropriations committee, he asserted, and of this sum between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 represents deferments to be made up in future deficiency bills.

Text of Hoover Statement On Government Economy

President Hoover yesterday issued the following statement:

The whole of the administrative officials are cooperating with the special economy committee appointed by the House of Representatives in the drive to bring about further drastic economies in Federal expenditures.

You will recollect that the budget sent to Congress represented reductions in expenditures for the next fiscal year of about $365,000,000 below the present fiscal year. The House appropriations committee has reduced the amounts of bills so far reported out by about $112,000,000.

Of this, howveer, between sixty and seventy million is a deferment until Congress meets next December, when they will be compelled to meet positive obligations by deficiency calls. To this extent, therefore, the reductions do not help next year's expenditures.

Further Cuts Necessary.

In order to meet the requirements of the ways and means committee that expenditures must be reduced by $125,000,000 in order to balance the budget, it is necessary that further cuts be made.

There is very little room left for reduction by administrative action and the House appropriations committee has passed upon the major supply bills except the Army and Navy.

Further economies must be brought about by authorization of Congress, either by reorganization of the Federal machinery or change in the legal requirements as to expenditure by the various services.

The director of veterans' affairs had proposed to the special House committee on economy some changes in the laws relating to positions and other allowances which would produce economies of between fifty and sixty millions per annum.

The Postmaster General is placing before the committee changes in the legal requirements of Postoffice expenditures. The Secretary of Agriculture has suggested changes in the law requiring expenditures in the Department of Agriculture, and the other departments are engaged in preparation of similar drastic recommendations.

Stresses Balancing of Budget.

I believe the committee on economy, through administrative reorganization and such methods as I have mentioned, will be able to find a large area of economy.

Nothing is more important than balancing the budget with the least increase in taxes. The Federal Government should be in such position that it will need issue no securities which increase the public debt after the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1.

That is vital to the still further promotion of employment and agriculture.

It gives positive assurance to business and industry that the Government will keep out of the money market and allow industry and agriculture to borrow the moneys required for the conduct of business.

I can not overemphasize the importance of the able nonpartisan effort being made by the ways and means committee and the economy committee of the House, whose work are complementary to each other.

New Kinds of Jobs Needed by Millions

(Associated Press.)

Secretary of Labor Doak, speaking to a gathering of vocational educational leaders, last night said millions of workers now unemployed can never return to their old jobs and must be trained to take up new work. He said that after the return of normal economic conditions it would be found that many old industries had disappeared and new ways of work were being developed.

"The worker out of a job needs a job more than anything else, a job at which he can earn a living for himself and his family," he said. "And vocational education must play a major role in fitting many workers to the changing conditions in industry.

"I would point out to you that where the unemployed worker needs training to enable him to take on a new job, or where he needs training to keep a job that he already has, or where he needs training to enable him to rise in his chosen field to his own level of ability, those who are directing vocational education have a very grave responsibility."

Senate Asks Light On Rails' Mergers

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday asked the Justice Department to report whether recent railroad consolidations have been in violation of the antitrust laws and whether the proposed four system Eastern consolidation would condone violations.

Without debate the Senate adopted a resolution by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, calling upon the department to report whether recent combinations of railroads are in restraint of trade or in violation of the antitrust act and what steps if any have been taken or are contemplated for enforcement of that law in these instances.

The resolution quotes the chairman of the legislative committee of the Interstate Commerce Commission as saying recently that through formation of holding companies and by other methods combinations of parallel and other competing roads have been effected without authority of law. It calls attention to the pending application for Eastern consolidation around four large roads and asserts approval of this by the commission "would render the commission powerless to exercise its independent judgment as to the public interest."

Oil Men's Appeal On Tax Is Opened

(Associated Press.)

Arguments on the appeal of F. B. Parriott, of Tulsa, Okla., and M. L. Benedum, of Pittsburgh, Pa., for a redetermination of a $76,000,00 deficiency in income tax assessed against them by the Internal Revenue Bureau were opened yesterday before the United States Board of Tax Appeals. The case involves the fair market value of the stock of the dissolved Transcontinental Oil Co., of which Parriott and Benedum were the principal owners.

Benedum and Parriott, pioneer oil men in the Southwest, dissolved the Tex-Penn Oil Co. and sold its assets to the Transcontinental Oil Co. buying out three minor partners and taking 1,007,384 shares of the company's stock in payment for their interest in the other company.

In 1924 the Internal Revenue Bureau levied a deficiency in income tax of $1,789,000 against the company and this gradually was increased each year until in 1931 with interest it amounted to $76,000,000. John W. Davis, of New York, appearing for the oil men, argued that the transaction was nontaxable except as to $9,000,000 in cash on which the taxes had been paid. He contended that the law provided for a renorganization or merger of corporations and held where new stock was received for stock of the old company no gain or loss occurred.

GUARD THE CONSTITUTION.

Virginia hastened to ratify the "lame duck" amendment to the Federal Constitution even before it could be formally submitted by the Secretary of State. The measure was railroaded through both houses of the Legislature without adequate time for debate or for an expression of public opinion. In its foolish rush the Legislature at Richmond has merely advertised its lack of deliberation and sense of propriety.

Gov. Roosevelt is urging New York's Legislature to follow the example of Virginia. Although he has not yet been officially notified that Congress has approved this amendment, he has sent a special message to the Legislature asking for its ratification "as quickly as possible." This race to push the "lame duck" amendment through the State Legislatures, when the people have had no opportunity to express their opinion and the intricacies of the amendment have not been fully explained, can not be too strongly condemned.

The States are allowed seven years in which to pass judgment upon this measure. It is always advisable to hold proposed constitutional amendments in abeyance until new State legislators are elected, so that an expression of public opinion may be obtained. Under any circumstances Legislatures should give most serious consideration to any changes in the instrument by which the 48 States are bound into a Nation. The States ought to be guardians of the Constitution by which their rights are protected.

At present the tendency is to let Congress tinker with the Constitution as it pleases. But that is a dangerous attitude. Congress is eternally seeking to broaden and extend its own powers at the expense of the States. Unless the States are vigilant in scrutinizing proposed constitutional amendments and in rejecting those which are inimical to the welfare of themselves and the country the Constitution may be adulterated. Congress too frequently surrenders to the determined pressure of fanatics. It is up to the States to counteract that influence.

The present measure which is going out for consideration by Legislatures in 48 State capitals has one glaring defect. It would allow only seventeen days between the opening of Congress and the inauguration of the President. Since the House has more than once taken several months to organize and Congress must count the electoral ballots and declare a President elected before he can take the oath the "lame duck" amendment might leave the country without a President.

If three-fourths of the States ignore this grave contingency, as Congress has done, the Constitution will be substantially weakened. The situation calls for widespread expression of informed public opinion, and not for a race to see which States can be first to register their ignorance of the issue involved.

A DISGUISED OIL TARIFF.

One highly controversial item in the tax bill is the provision for an excise tax of 1 cent a gallon on all imports of petroleum and petroleum products. The 2¼ per cent sales tax upon manufactures is considered excessive by some authorities, but 1 cent a gallon on petroleum imports amounts to a tax of from 25 to 70 per cent. Affecting as it will, the products used by the already overtaxed automobile, it is destined to work hardships upon millions of citizens who are already overtaxed as a class.

The traditional policy of the United States is not to tax fuel, the basic necessity of all industry. Oil differs from agricultural products and manufactures in that it is one of the great and irreplaceable assets of the United States. The oil that is imported into this country comes almost exclusively from properties owned and operated abroad by Americans, developed at the urgent request of American officials as a necessary protection to the Nation against the time when domestic supplies may fail.

If a sales tax is applied to American manufactures and to competing imports it would be entirely equitable that imported petroleum products should stand their share, but to put them under excise taxes of more than 10 to 30 times as great appears oppressive. Such an import tax would tend to increase the cost of gasoline and petroleum products in the United States.

The independent oil producers who have been working for two years for an embargo or a duty on foreign oil seek by this means to force higher prices that will make the product of their small wells profitable once more. To benefit these few producers Congress would have to allow a bonus to all the great oil companies. There are more than 660,000,000 barrels of oil in storage in the United States, more than 95 per cent of it owned by the huge oil corporations. Its value would be raised by import taxes of this kind, and automobile owners would pay extra profits to the big oil concerns. Why soak the motorist, who is already paying more than his share?

JAPAN'S FRUITLESS VICTORY.

Japan is represented as being ready and anxious to quit Shanghai, if she could do so without humiliation and exposure of Japanese interests to hostile Chinese attacks. Gen. Uyeda has won a fruitless victory. In order to hold what he has won Japan is required to maintain an army of considerable size in the Shanghai area, thus encouraging the Chinese further to unite their forces and organize an extensive military campaign.

The Tokyo government has thus entangled itself in the Chinese morass to no purpose. The world will not forget that Japan landed troops at Shanghai to suppress the boycott against Japanese goods. Every day that soldiers from the land of the rising sun occupy Chinese territory goods from that same land become more unwelcome. Japan can not possibly accomplish the task she has undertaken.

At Geneva increased pressure is being brought upon Japan to evacuate the invaded territory as a preliminary to peace. The imperial government has aroused the resentment of the whole world, while almost universal sympathy is extended to China as a victim of aggression. Japan must withdraw with humiliation and a serious loss of prestige, or perpetuate the present state of embroilment from which she is gaining nothing, except international ill-feeling and suspicion.

It is not surprising that Japan is willing to withdraw from Shanghai under any sort of terms that would cover up her blunder of trying to force trade down China's throat. But the Chinese are in no mood to quit the struggle. Former President Chiang Kai-Shek has been placed in charge of all China's military forces and rumors indicate that he is planning an offensive against the established Japanese line. Chinese officials have definitely refused to participate in a peace conference until the invading troops are withdrawn. Much depends upon whether the present authorities are able to unite the Chinese factions in a gigantic military drive, but if they should succeed in this, a protracted state of hostilities would be the most probable result.

Even if the Shanghai dispute should be patched up with the aid of the League of Nations, Manchuria remains as the real bone of contention. If China can get the Japanese out of Shanghai, she will doubtless be encouraged to recapture Manchuria, and it seems certain that Japan would not give up this rich prize without a desperate struggle. Much of the danger that western nations would become actively involved in this struggle has passed, but for the Orient peace seems to be remote.

RURAL CRIME.

Statisticians have startled the country several times with proof that the large cities are less afflicted with crime than rural communities. In spite of Chicago's reputation, it is now known that the homicide rate is much higher in dozens of Southern cities and in a considerable number of small cities of the North.

Dr. Walter N. Thayer, commissioner of correction for New York, substantiates the view that large cities harbor less crime than rural areas in an intensive study of crime statistics of that State. So far as homicide is concerned, Dr. Thayer found, an individual is safer in cities of more than 40,000 population. The rural sections of New York have twice as great a percentage of homicides in relation to other offenses as does New York City.

Automobile thefts and robbery are more prevalent in areas of dense population. But larceny, burglary, arson and assault are practiced more extensively in rural districts and small towns. "A surprising number of felonies of the more serious sort," says Dr. Thayer, "existed in rural communities and in the smaller towns and villages." He concludes that cities of more than 40,000 inhabitants are the best communities in which to live, "considering freedom from excess of crime."

Organized criminal gangs have been given much publicity, but their activities touch the lives of only a small portion of the people. Most of the crime committed in America involves individuals who have not adjusted themselves to social life and who have not learned the lessons of discipline. Individuals of this type are potential criminals whether or not they become professional gangsters. It is a mistake for rural communities to sit smugly by and contemplate the horrors of racketeering in the big cities when their own crime problems, on a per capita basis, are even more serious. Law enforcement is a Nation-wide objective which would be as diligently sought by the hamlet as by the metropolis.

NORRIS AIDS THE REDS.

Professional agitators of the Communist stripe are undoubtedly responsible for the riot at Dearborn in which four men were killed and many were injured. Few of Detroit's local unemployed were in the melee. Most of the men who took part are "floaters." Indications are that they were recruited for the purpose by Communist leaders.

It was a mob and not a peaceful group seeking employment that went to the Ford plant. The men were in a belligerent mood. They were armed with guns and missiles for a fight. Under such circumstances it is futile for the rioters to pretend that they were quietly seeking jobs. Apparently the small police force guarding the plant withstood the furious attack as long as it could and then used clubs and pistols for protection. Blame for the incident will not fall upon the police, but upon the negligent officials of Detroit who allowed Communist agitators to operate unhampered.

This riot ought to be a signal for a round-up of red agitators throughout the country. They are a menace to workingmen and industry alike. Detroit is busy now, putting Communist malefactors behind the bars, but its negligence in restraining red demonstrations has marred an otherwise remarkable record of harmony in industrial relations during this trying period.

This Dearborn riot is of unusual interest because of the effort Senator Norris is making to force his so-called anti-injunction bill through Congress. Detroit authorities are rounding up the Communist agitators who are undoubtedly responsible for this atrocity, and doubtless the reds will be given harsh treatment. These malefactors did not actually participate in the riot themselves. It was their part to inflame men in distress with a revolutionary spirit and turn them loose in a mob to wage a campaign of violence. Under the Norris bill these instigators could not be held responsible in the Federal courts for anything that happened at Dearborn, because it may not be demonstrated that they specifically authorized assaults and murder.

The Norris bill puts a stamp of approval upon such performances as the Dearborn riot. At present when an institution or an individual is threatened with mob violence an injunction restraining the threatened violation of law may be obtained from the courts. Under Senator Norris' brilliant code no Federal court could issue an injunction until it had been proved in open court that unlawful acts had been committed and would continue unless restrained. No injunction could be issued in a labor dispute until it had been proved that the public officers were unable or unwilling to provide adequate protection. In other words, the machinery of the courts designed to restrain violence could not be put into operation until after the damage had been done.

The Norris bill as it stands is an invitation to Communists and other radical elements to indulge in rioting and violent assaults with immunity from Federal restraint. If the Communists of Detroit had deliberately planned a demonstration of how they expect to operate if the Norris bill becomes law, they could not have more effectively demonstrated how the senator's attempt to throttle the courts would work out in actual practice.

AIRPLANE SAFETY.

During the last six months of 1931 scheduled air transport planes in the United States flew 3,021,674 miles for each fatal accident and 418,386 for each accident of whatever kind. In the 27,195,062 miles of flying by transport planes during the period there were 65 accidents in all, 9 of the 65 including fatalities. The casualty list was: 24 killed, 17 of whom were passengers, 5 seriously injured, and 37 slightly injured. There were 206 persons involved in the 65 accidents, 140 escaping injury of any kind.

Study of these statistics reveals that traveling by air is as safe as traveling by automobile. Air transport services depend for their prosperity upon public confidence, and public confidence depends upon careful management, cautious operation and scrupulous accuracy in reports. Commercial flying organizations surely will do their best to perfect their technique. Science will do its part to develop more reliable motors. The press will not fail to be generous in giving interesting aviation news adequate publicity. The public will not starve the services by refusing to use them.

Traveling will never be absolutely safe, but neither is staying at home absolutely safe. There is some risk in everything. And yet safety is a goal so desirable that it certainly will never cease to be sought. A competition between planes, trains and automobiles in this field would be fascinating to watch. Which will make the best record in 1932?

With congressional committees on the job, why not cut expenses by eliminating the Bureau of Investigation?

MUKDEN PROVINCE

From the National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Movements of Japanese troops in Manchuria have directed attention to the southern province of Liaoning, also known as Fengtien, Shengking, or Mukden province. Liaoning—or whichever name one chooses to call it—province is the smallest but richest division of Manchuria. With more than 15,000,000 inhabitants it is by far the most densely populated part of China's easternmost territory.

In several ways the province might be compared to the State of Illinois. Liaoning has about the same area, some 56,000 square miles; it extends over latitude only a little farther north than Illinois; its climate is comparable, although the winters are a little more severe in the Manchurian province; each contains rich beds of coal; each has a busy railroad network, and many of the agricultural products are the same. At least half of Liaoning is a vast level plain, which, in its undeveloped state, resembles the Illinois of 100 years ago.

Mukden, a metropolis of almost half a million people, is the capital and chief city of the province, and the nominal capital of all Manchuria. China recently set up a temporary capital in Chinchowfu, but Mukden has remained the administrative center of Japanese influence.

Mukden is really three cities in one. Modern Japanese business and residential blocks surround the railway station where the traveler from Chosen (Korea), or Dairen, or Peiping alights. Bus lines and taxicabs take the tourist through the European quarter to the gates of the high-walled Chinese city two miles away. Japanese, Russians and Chinese meet, but do not mingle. Each nation has a city of its own.

Only a few tombs of Manchu rulers and the huge palace of Genghis Khan remind one of Mukden's historic past. Modern Mukden is wholly absorbed in trade. Lying in the center of a rich agricultural plain, it forms the meeting point of several busy trunkline railroads. The Japanese section of the city offers a splendid example of colonial efficiency. Streets are straight, broad and paved. There are hospitals, schools, police stations, electric lights, telephones, movies and fine stores and shops. Over the railroad station is an excellent European-style hotel, complete with brass beds and tile baths.

With some of the finest agricultural land in the world the province of Liaoning naturally is a leader in farm products. Much of the 221,000,000-bushel Manchurian crop of soy beans in 1929 came from Liaoning. Other cereals, such as millet, sorghum and kaoliang (a coarse maize) are raised in large quantities. In Mukden and other cities of the district large mills press soy beans into huge cakes for export, or convert them into industrial alcohol.

"Why, That's All We'll Need!"

POST HASTE.

Both demand and time deposits were up last week, just to show that confidence is not entirely dependent on baby bonds.

The President will attend the scrap convention. It sounds like politics but it's really iron and steel.

The arguments prove equally well that the kidnaping was an inside job, that it was the work of an amateur and that it could only have been carried out by professionals.

The weather of the last few days has helped the spring motorist restrain his impatience to see the new Ford models. Anyhow, times are so hard that only three-fourths of the 100,000 advance orders are for the 8 rather than the 4.

Nearly two billions a year is spent in this country for beauty aids and perfumes, but Congress is too foxy to attempt to force a reduction there.

The New York dramatic critics are having fun with Mr. Sirovich's threats to chastise them, but the theatrical producers he would save are buying space in the papers to tell him to mind his own business.

"We figure to ourselves
"The thing we like; and then we build it up."

But speaking of figures of speech, Representative Percy Stewart finds that the "greatest economic folly" in the history of civilization, prohibition, has already cost America ten billion dollars. But what has it saved?

Japan made such a reputation with her protests that she didn't want and couldn't handle Manchuria that she is now accused of designs on all of China on one side and Siberia on the other.

There appears to be something lacking in the communication system of Spain. It took Alfonso a week to deny the revolutionary plot, and Uncle Carlos didn't hear of it for a fortnight.

An optimist is a representative who thinks prohibition can be repealed by an item in the tax bill.

The best indication of President Hindenburg's strength in Germany is that such incongruous extremes as the Hitlerites and Communists are trying to combine against him.

A 70 per cent "excise" levy in a 2¼ per cent sales tax bill might better be called "excessive" for imported oil.

JUST FOLKS

NECESSITY.

Be the dinner coarse and plain,
Hunger doesn't care.
It will pass the plate again
For a double share.
In the woods where hardships reign
Stew is regal fare!
Need adds luster to the friend,
Whosoe'er he be,
Faults of him who comes to lend
None will ever see.
Who will comfort or defend,
Glorious is he.
In the times of strife and stress
Whims are soon forgot,
Style and pomp and prettiness
Seem to matter not.
Friendships in a shabby dress
Outshine the gaudy lot.

It Was Uncertainty of the Next Meal That Broke German Morale

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MEN in the Army and Navy are free of anxiety. They take no thought for the morrow. They feel secure.

They know that the monthly wage they receive is not the only reward for their service. They have the assurance of a life-long job, food and clothing, the service of a dentist and a physician, hospital care when they need it, and a pension when age or injury unfits them for service.

They have, in short, everything that ordinary men desire. Government has solved for them the age-old problem of the poor. Within the necessary limitations of military organization, they have achieved the ideal of which working men dream. All they lack is liberty.

The advantages enjoyed by the soldier and sailor are not "free." Their cost is deducted from the pay envelope. If the man in service receives but $30 in cash, it is because the remainder of his wage is set aside to provide for his maintenance and his future.

Without being aware of it, he "saves" a certain sum each month, and his savings give him security. He can spend his cash pay freely, for he has no fear of a "rainy day."

If Government can do this for its servants in uniform, why can't it do as much for all of its citizens?

Why should the poor live always in dread of sickness or accident or enforced idleness or a destitute and shameful old age?

Their problem can be solved.

They now deny themselves in good times to save money for a time of trouble, and in many instances their savings are lost.

There is a better way to provide security. Suppose the Government should take a percentage of each individual's earnings, add it to a like sum taken from Capital, and thus establish a fund that would provide the same security now provided for soldiers and sailors.

There would be no further need of saving. Each family could enjoy the whole of its earnings, secure in the knowledge that the morrow would care for itself, and thus business would get the money now taken from the thrifty by sharpers.

There would be no more dread of want, no more crime prompted by need, no more bungling charity.

Insure the worker's future and you will double the sum of human happiness and rid the world of it's gravest problem.

Graft in New York City.

New York Times.

"Strictly legal or legislative circles" may not accept as proof of guilt the admissions and evasions which Judge Seabury has been forcing from witnesses before the Hofstadter committee. But the least suspicious of citizens must now be convinced that New York City's government is dripping with graft. As the committee counsel told the legislators, "from one section of the city service to another, going at random," he has picked grafters and racketeers. He has only to reach his hand into a department and out comes an official who can not explain, save by yarns which 5-year-old children would not believe, how he has amassed a large bank account on a small salary. As even Assemblyman Cuvillier remarked, these stories are "incredible."

What the Legislature said it wanted, Judge Seabury has furnished: a picture of the misgovernment and grafting that go on daily in New York City.

Federal Swimming Pool.

New York Sun.

Senator Oddie, of Nevada, apparently is not among those members of Congress who believe that the Federal Government already undertakes too many things. He has introduced an amendment to the Interior Department appropriation bill by which not more than $50,000 of the $8,000,000 appropriated for the Boulder Canyon project would be available for "construction, operation and maintenance at Boulder City, Nev., of a swimming pool, together with suitable bathhouses and other facilities, for the use of residents of such community."

The Federally supervised Australian crawl and the healing waters of Washington bureaucracy would do much to make life in Boulder City supportable. It would be a pleasure to a taxpayer making out a check for his income tax to know that part of it was to go to provide a swimming pool in the desert. But it would be even better to turn the reflecting pool of the Lincoln Memorial into a swimming pool and provide free transportation to Washington to those Boulder City inhabitants who want to swim.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Senator Blaine's Fatal Effect on Banks Described by Iowa Correspondent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The other day Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, arose in his seat to obtain consent to print a list of bank failures in the Congressional Record. He printed two lists, one showing bank failures aggregating a total of 762 during the "10 years before Mellon" and the other list showing 9,458 failures during "the 10 years of Mellon."

It is not clear what the senator is trying to prove by those figures, considering that the vast majority of the banks which failed were State institutions, over which the national Government has little or no control. Perhaps the thought is that the Mellon period is "unlucky" for banks.

A second look at those two sets of figures, however, might show that Senator Blaine is the man who brought bad luck to the banks. For instance, of the 9,458 bank failures in the past 10 years, 3,589 occurred after Blaine took his seat in the Senate, and only 3,869 in the five years previous. In fact, the number of bank failures has increased yearly since Blaine became a senator. The record shows that every time he got up to make a speech over 100 banks closed their doors.

Pennsylvania Leader Doubts Feasibility of Independence for the Philippines.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Several years ago in a conversation with an old friend who had been a Federal judge in the Philippines, I asked him when the Filipinos would be ready for self-government. Not being a senator his reply was brief and to the point: "Not for 2,000 years!"

"In my opinion," he added, an extra thousand years either to emphasize his statement or to avoid attempting to name a date for their "absolute and immediate independence."

Although I have been in Manila and agree with him, I know from experience that it requires a residence of a year or more in any foreign country to arrive at even an approximate understanding of the people and the conditions under which they live.

The present Sino-Japanese war, however, has most decidedly increased my respect for his opinion.

Plain Clothes Would Help Police. Uniforms Help to Warn Gangsters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Having read what one of your correspondents had to say about plain-clothes traffic cops to arrest traffic lawbreakers, I think the uniforms of all the police ought to be plainer. I think half of the force should have uniforms that it would not be so easy to pick out on the street and the other half wear plain clothes.

Maybe there was a time when the uniforms had a good effect in making the common run of lawbreakers have a little respect for the law, but that is not the way it works with our killer thieves of the present time. With the automobile to help them in a swift getaway, the fact that it is easy for them to spot a policeman is to their great advantage in a hold-up.

I don't think much of any one's common sense who would claim that a conspicuous uniform is not a heavy handicap to a policeman. The most important part of his duty is to catch lawbreakers, and not to let them know what he is about. So I guess he would often be glad to get rid of the tell-tale uniform, which is just as like as not to give him away in the line of his duty. C. F. POTTS.

Our Stake in the East Is Important, Correspondent Assures Doubters.

To the Editor of the The Post—Sir: Amid the welter of adverse criticism of a boycott against Japan, it is discouraging to view the mass of uninformed "conservatism" expressed in the United States.

Apparently these isolationists do not know that 80 per cent of the world's supply of antimony is produced in Northern China and Manchuria; that the greatest publishing nation in the world—the United States—imports about 90 per cent of this output for its type, as well as its automotive trades; that 63 per cent of the world's tungsten resources are found in Inner Mongolia and Western China, over 50 per cent of which supply is imported by the greatest high-speed steel manufacturing nation—the United States.

These are only two of the economic interests of this country in the Far East, and merely offer a hint of the volume and ramifications of American versus Japan controlled transportation, port and financing operations.

Traffic Offenders Spot Police Uniforms, but Violate Rules When Police Are Not in Sight—Catch 'Em!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to several articles published in The Post recently on reckless driving and disregard of traffic regulations, I have never been equal to figuring out the reason why some associations and individuals object to plain-clothes policemen. If one will stand on a street equipped with traffic lights he will in a short while realize that the reckless driver can spot a policeman in uniform two blocks away, and he drives with some regard to law. On the other hand, if no uniform is in sight, the onlooker will see high speed, turning corners regardless of pedestrians and crossing intersections on the yellow or red light. Would-be street car passengers have no chance to reach a safety zone at times until the second or third car arrives. Put the 300 new policemen in plain clothes, and try it for ten days. JOHN HENRY.

MARCH KING'S BODY WILL LIE IN STATE

Leaders of Music World and Marine Officials Named as Pallbearers.

Leaders of the world of music and high officers of the Marine Corps will act as honorary pallbearers tomorrow as the mortal remains of America's march king, John Philip Sousa, are laid to rest in Congressional Cemetery.

The list announced last night is as follows:

Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers; Arthur Pryor, famous bandmaster; Edwin F. Goldman, president of the American Bandmasters Association; John Lagatta, nationally known illustrator and close friend of Sousa; Harry Askin, Sousa's manager for many years.

Son Arrives Today.

John Philip Sousa, jr., son of the dead bandmaster, is expected to arrive here early today. The widow is also expected here today. Two daughters and a son-in-law are already here. The family is stopping at the Mayflower.

Shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon the body will be conveyed from the Gawler funeral home, at 1754 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, to the bandroom at the Marine Barracks. There the body will lie in state until 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the procession to the cemetery will begin. Thousands are expected to file past the bier of the great composer-maestro.

Capt. Taylor Branson, leader of the Marine Band, which Sousa developed to its present eminence, said last night that dirges composed by Sousa will be played as the cortege moves toward the cemetery tomorrow.

His Dirges to Be Played.

"The Honored Leader" and "The Garfield Funeral March" will be among the funeral marches composed by Sousa to be played by the Marine Band as the procession moves toward the final resting place. Capt. Branson said that the "Semper Fidelis March" will probably also be played at dirge time, as well as other marches written by Sousa.

The Gridiron Club Quartet will render vocal selections at the grave side. Various Masonic organizations of which Soura was a member will have charge of the services. Full military honors will be observed.

The Marine Band, companies of bluejackets and marines, and a firing squad will compose the military guard for the caisson bearing Sousa's casket to the cemetery.

SHOOK RITES TOMORROW.

Officer in Army Medcial Corps to Be Buried in Arlington.

Funeral services for Col. Jay R. Shook, of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., who was found dead Saturday night at Walter Reed Hospital, will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the chapel at Fort Myer, Va. Interment, with full military honors, will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Col. Shook had been a patient at Walter Reed for mental observation. He was commanding officer of the Army and Navy General Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., and at one time served as assistant commandant of schools at Walter Reed.

He is survived by a brother, W. B. Shook, of 1213 Gallatin street northwest.

MRS. S. S. SUMNER BURIED.

Funeral Held at Fort Myer for Wife of Retired Officer.

Funeral service for Mrs. S. S. Sumner, wife of Maj. Gen. Samuel S. Sumner, retired, were held yesterday in the chapel at Fort Myer and interment followed in Arlington Cemetery.

The pall bearers, all friends and associates of Gen. Sumner, included Maj. Gen. Henry F. McCain, commandant at Soldiers' Home, in Washington; Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, Brig. Gen. William E. Horton and Col. McClure.

Mrs. Sumner died in Boston last week, and her remains were brought here by Gen. Sumner, who will remain a few days.

MRS. L. S. SAVAGE DIES.

Brief Illness Fatal to Northeast Resident; Funeral is Tomorrow.

Mrs. Virginia G. Savage, age 57, widow of Dr. L. S. Savage, died at her residence, 623 Maryland avenue northeast, early yesterday, after a brief illness. She had been a resident of Washington since coming here as a bride in 1896.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. William Barcalow, of New York, Mrs. John Milteer, of Crittendon, Va., also her two sons, Linnaeus T. Savage and Robert W. Savage.

Funeral services will be held at the residence tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, with interment in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Charles Baum Dies In Dentist's Office

Veteran Furniture Dealer Had Just Had Two Teeth Extracted.

Charles Baum, 62 years old, veteran Washington business man, died suddenly last night after he had two teeth extracted. After leaving the chair, Mr. Baum collapsed and died within 10 minutes. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers attributed the death to a heart attack.

Mr. Baum was a native of Washington and had been in the furniture business here for about 46 years. He was associated with his father in the firm of H. Baum & Son Co. After his father's death, Mr. Baum continued the business with his son, Martin Baum, at 616 E street northwest. He was a Mason, member of Columbia Lodge, No. 3, Scottish Rite, and Almas Temple, Order of the Mystic Shrine.

Shipping of North Atlantic Is Lashed by 50-Mile Gale

Coast Guard Cutters Strive to Reach Crippled Freighter with 34 Men Aboard; Planes Drop Food to Stranded Buses.

New York, March 8 (U.P.).—A 50-mile gale lashed the Atlantic Coast today, imperiling shipping, crippling a large freighter with 34 men aboard, and on shore marooning hundreds of motorists in billows of snow it left in its wake.

While Coast Guard cutters were attempting to reach the helpless collier F. E. Bardeleben, of New Orleans, which had lost a rudder, aviators were dropping food to the passengers of two automobile buses stalled in drifts near Batavia.

The travelers, who had been held on the road all night, finally reached Batavia at 1 p. m. The food, including hot coffee, which was dropped near them by a low-flying plane piloted by Russell Holderman, "saved their lives," they reported gratefully.

After the great buses had broken through, a procession of at least 50 automobiles, privately owned, followed in their ruts. The passengers in these had spent the night, for the most part, in farm houses along the route.

Pilots of the United Airlines left Newark Airport this afternoon and succeeded in dropping a sack of provisions to Mark Williams, keeper of the marker beacon on Ring Mountain, near Sunbury, Pa. Williams had been without food for 24 hours, shut off from the world by huge drifts on the only road leading to his home.

Far out to sea, driven by a biting gale and wallowing in mountainous seas, the F. E. Bardeleben was utterly helpless, her crew unable to hold to their posts, and even the great ship Adriatic, standing by, was unable to be of assistance.

The violence of the sea made launching of lifeboats or attempts to put a line aboard the Bardeleben impossible.

Coast Guard vessels, attempting to reach the Bardelben, were battered by the storm. One, the destroyer Conyngham, was so seriously damaged that it had to return to port after getting to within 100 miles of the freighter. Its superstructure and part of the deck were hammered to pieces, the destroyer radioed.

The Coast Guard destroyer Rogers, 50 miles from the wallowing ship, reported it was able to make only 10 knots an hour, but was still attempting to reach her.

The position of the Bardeleben was given as 50 miles south of Nantucket Lightship and 300 miles east of Shinnecock Lighthouse.

Coast Guard ships also were hunting for the sloops Winifred and Native, missing since Sunday off Cape May, with a total of 20 men aboard.

The Government storm signals were up from New York to Portland, Me.

News of the rescue of the master and five members of the crew of the auxiliary fishing schooner John and Mary was reported by Capt. Robert Smith of the motorship Tide Water Associated. The rescue ship was proceeding to Venezuela, a day and a half out of New York.

Atlanta, Ga., March 8 (A.P.).—Just three months late real winter weather, with a trimming of snowflakes, came into the South today.

Snow flurries fell at a dozen points and the season's first general fall was predicted for tonight. It will be the first of the season in many places, including Atlanta.

The cold, which already has damaged tender fruits, vegetables and flowers, coaxed out by warm weather, will continue and become more severe in a number of places, weather observers said.

Snow was reported during the day at Chattanooga and Nashville, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; Birmingham, Ala.; Shreveport, La.; Greenville and Clarksdale, Miss. Several other points had a little snow last night, and the forecast called for more tonight in every Southern State except Florida.

Virginia and the Carolinas were generally clear today, but temperatures were well under normal, with minimum readings of 28 in Richmond, 14 in southwest Virginal, 26 at Norfolk and 27 at Charlotte.

The snow in Kentucky was only a trace, but Louisville had a low temperature of 13.

SALE OF BABY BONDS GETS FLYING START

$10,600 Sold in One Day; Three Speakers on Radio Tell Advantages.

In view of the very low rate of hoarding in this city, the sale of $10,600 of so-called "baby bonds" Monday reported by the local anti-hoarding committee yesterday is considered an excellent showing, according to Newbold Noyes, chairman. The little bonds, which draw 2 per cent interest, are on sale at Washington banks.

Sale of these Treasury certificates is not the only outlet for the idle dollars which have been stored away in family teapots, safe deposit boxes or old socks, it was emphasized in radio talks last night by three anti-hoarding speakers. These dollars are urged to come out of hiding and go into the purchase of merchandise, home improvement, securities investment or deposit in a sound bank.

Safety of Banks Praised.

Mr. Noyes last night stated over Station WMAL that "happily the amount of hoarding here in Washington is relatively small." He estimated that there are from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 in idle dollars here, however, and declared this money should be brought forth to aid in furnishing employment and the return of prosperous conditions.

Edward F. Colladay, from Station WRC, roundly praised the strength of Washington's savings institutions and invited the hoarded dollars back into banks. He explained the strengthening of banking institutions because of the recent Federal legislation for reconstruction purposes and said there is no need for fear over the safety of any dollar deposited in Washington banks.

Hoarding Invites Loss.

Samuel H. Kauffman, over Station WOL, warned that "the owner of hoarded savings is inviting danger through fire, loss or theft." He said that while the tendency to hoard has been reduced and many idle dollars have returned to work the campaign must be carried on until every dollar is doing its share to return prosperity and give honest citizens a chance to work.

Arthur Clarendon Smith, president, announced yesterday that the Federation of Business Men's Associations of the District has indorsed the anti-hoarding campaign. "This association is composed of 1,400 business men of Washington, and we are glad to give whatever service we can in this matter," he said.

The claim represents, it was said, arrears of alimony under a decree of the Corporation Court of Alexandria on December 7, 1912. This decree provided for payments of $100 a month, and the claim is made that the last payment was made in October, 1916.

Bequests of $100 each are made to the Animal Rescue League and the Central Union Mission. Mrs. Georgia D. Marks, the mother, is to have $500 and a brother Albert is to receive $250.

Mrs. Evelyn D. White, described as a friend, will get $1,000 and an automobile in the possession of her husband, Richard K. White. The trustees, Col. Edward S. Bailey and the Munsey Trust Co., will hold a $10,000 trust fund from which they are also to pay Mrs. White $50 a month, and the balance to a daughter of the deceased, Mrs. Frances Marks Hullings. Still another trust fund, for $5,000 is to take care of the obligations of Mr. and Mrs. Marks and Mr. and Mrs. White to the In-Com-Co Club and when those obligations are satisfied, the trust fund is to be paid over to Mrs. White.

A half interest in the insurance business is given a nephew, Francis A. Marks, if he continues the business and pays half the profits to the widow. Mrs. Hullings is given a legacy of $7,500, and the widow is to have $3,000 within one month and $5,000 at the end of the administration of the estate. The widow is also to have the premises at 1347 Jefferson street northwest with its contents.

RELIEF WHEAT TO GO TO HUNGRY AT ONCE

5,000,000-Bushel Initial Allotment Is Made to Red Cross.

(Associated Press.)

Government-owned wheat, donated to the needy by Congress, yesterday began moving toward its goal of keeping the unemployed from hunger and live stock from starvation.

Within less than 24 hours after President Hoover had signed a bill making 40,000,000 bushels of the Farm Board's holdings available for humanitarian purposes the Red Cross asked and received an allotment of 5,000,000 bushels.

From the board's elevators at Omaha, Nebr., 14,000 bushels were immediately loaded into railroad cars and started for destinations in South Dakota, where feed for live stock is far from sufficient.

Flour Making Arranged.

At the same time the Red Cross began making arrangements with millers for grinding wheat into flour. As soon as this is done, local relief agencies may have the flour for distribution to the poor in cities and on farms.

When the initial Red Cross request for 5,000,000 bushels is exhausted, application will be made to the President for another allotment.

Red Cross representatives were busy in Chicago yesterday arranging for speedy milling. The wheat—stored in all parts of the country—will be turned into flour at the point nearest the needs. Railroads are cooperating in moving the grain.

Chairman Payne of the Red Cross said local relief organizations should apply to the nearest Red Cross chapter using forms furnished by the latter. They should specify the amount of flour they need. It will be shipped as soon as it is ground.

Some for Families.

The wheat dispatched to South Dakota will be used chiefly to feed live stock, but some will be milled for families. Two carloads each were sent to these cities: Platte, Plankington, Armour, Yankton, Wessington Springs, Rapid City and Mitchell.

The Agriculture Department is preparing a list of other counties where crops failed last year, mainly in the Northwest, and wheat will be distributed to live stock owners there by the local Red Cross.

The Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroads transported the wheat into South Dakota without freight charges.

The Red Cross notified Chairman McNary, of the Senate agriculture committee, yesterday that the cost of distributing the grain would have to "come out of the wheat."

Chairman Payne, in a letter to McNary, said the Red Cross was attempting to get as much of the work done free as possible but would use the wheat itself to pay for the remainder of the costs.

Railroads Are Aiding.

"It is the purpose of the Red Cross to get as much of the essential work done without cost as possible," Payne said. "Already two railroads have agreed to transport a certain number of cars of wheat into South Dakota for the feeding of live stock without cost.

"Whether this will be a precedent and to what extent we may be able to get this done in other cases we do not know, but, where it is necessary to pay cost of transportation and cost of milling, the Red Cross will, by competitive bidding, reduce the milling charges to the lowest figure and contract with the miller agreeing to do it for the lowest sum to deliver so many barrels of flour to the point of destination for so much wheat; the miller to absorb the transportation charges and the milling charges—in other words, both to come out of the wheat."

Payne said the purpose of the letter was to lay the situation before Congress so there would be no contention later that the Red Cross was not justified in making the costs out of the wheat.

George Washington Essay Contest News

Hundreds of Students in Washington and Nearby Virginia and Maryland Putting Final Efforts on Compositions as Close of Competition Nears.

Six days only remain until the close of The Post George Washington Essay Contest on Monday at midnight, and hundreds of students in Washington public, private, and parochial schools as well as those in nearby Virginia and Maryland are putting last minutes on their essays before turning them in to The Post Contest Editor.

And, strange to say, many boys and girls are applying for blanks with which to enter the contest so near its close. Of course, there is no reason why a student should not enter the contest even on its very last day. But such essays will not have the weeks of study and research back of them which are apparent in many essays turned in by boys and girls who have put in many days' toil on their work.

"It does not take long to write 500 words," a boy applying for a contest blank yesterday declared. He forgot, of course, that in writing of the life of George Washington a certain amount of reflection is necessary before one can really discover the great lessons of his career.

From the senior class of St. Patrick's Academy yesterday came ten neatly written, carefully thought-out essays. The students in that educational institution will be watching for the announcement of the essay returns, it is certain.

The work of sorting the essays into age groups is being forwarded rapidly, and it is thought that there will be little delay after the close of the contest in getting the essays into the hands of the judges almost at once.

Contestants are urged to read The Washington Post daily for the latest news of the contest. After the close of the contest, Monday at midnight, no questions will be answered over The Post telephones concerning it, but information will be printed in the paper daily.

Jane Regny INTERPRETS the MODE

Jane Regny designed this three-colored dress. Nigger brown jersey with bright green crepe revers and a coral belt. (Courtesy of Jane Regny, Paris.)

NEW YORK, March 8—

To where the pale narcissus, waxey white,
Wafted its heavy scent on the velvet night.

A black woolen tailleur, a handful of piquet fashioned into a huge bouquet of narcissus, and a dollar's worth of thousand-franc-an-ounce narcissus perfume—yeah, one-fortieth of an ounce, dahr-ling, and not a drop more gave me the inspiration for these two opening lines.

Because flowers are in—and it is a delicious whim of Miladi Elegant to perfume her corsage or boutonniere with the actual scent that the flower would exude—and she does this by dipping cotton into the perfume, and sewing this cotton 'neath the petals or leaves of the flower. Results are delicious and whimsical. Just picture the large bunch of piquet narcissus worn on a black woolen tailleur, and narcissus scented, too!

Small draped turbans for evening are a clever addition to any elegant woman's wardrobe, year in and year out. The flapper type being as demode as the Gibson girl or Gainsborough lady, Mme. Sophisticate has come into her own—a type that rarely evolves before 30, I might add. (Having just had a birthday.)

Well, as I was saying, the evening turban, often shown in the latest Paris collections with accompanying evening gowns, is not only smart and sophisticated, but very clever. There are times when a coiffure simply is rebellious, as very woman knows—other times when the party is liable to go touring, in and out of cars and gusty doors that can not fail to disturb the most careful coiffeur. And it is such times that whisper "evening turban" right out loud to the clever woman.

* * * *

I almost forgot to mention that the evening turban is a perfect finish to an ensemble which requires long tresses—when Miladi prefers hers short for every other occasion. Who knows, who cares—if the tresses 'neath an evening turban are short or long, if the turban gives the necessary finish and elegance to the whole!

Fashion French.

By special and repeated requests, I am going to give here every Wednesday, a wee fashion lesson of the French words and terms that apply to styles. The pronunciation of each word or expression or term will be with it. Won't you get a little 15-cent notebook and start clipping these out and pasting them in your book? A loose leaf affair would be better, with the alphabet tabs. Then when you see one of these words in a style article, you can refer to your own files for the meaning! Let's start with three popular colors, beige, grege and ecru. (Pronounced in French, "bayzh," "grayzh" and "a-krew.") Don't you think it most interesting that these words mean literally "unbleached" or "natural?" Beige is unbleached serge, grege is raw silk, and ecru is unwashed silk. But now they have come to mean the colors that these three products are!

* * * *

Time to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the leaflet of brassiere, blouse, shorts, panties and separate skirt designs—all three of which can be assembled to make either a sun suit, beach suit or practical summer working house dress. Or separately as lingerie. Altogether, it's well worth the time and trouble of sending for this leaflet—so hurry!

* * * *

Heard a lot about three colors being smarter than two lately, haven't you? Well, Jane Regny positively outcolors herself and even outsmarts herself with the dress I sketch for you today! Nigger brown jersey, with revers in bright green crepe—and belt of—guess.

Well you never can guess; so just to put you out of your misery of uncertainty—coral crepe!

* * * *

I just couldn't wait to sketch you an adorable beige felt beret for smart city summer wear, 'cause it was tied with a perky olive-green grosgrain bow—but more especially 'cause the beige woolen georgette frock it was worn with had a grosgrain collar, which was half olive green and half beige!

Between Seasons Vary Menu With Ham and Scalloped Potatoes and Homemade Rye Bread.

FOR tomorrow's dinner we are about to fall back upon our old standby—ham with scalloped potatoes—since this is probably the most satisfactory "between season" dish known to cookery. And these days are essentially "between season" days as pertains to cookery. Not yet is spring sufficiently with us to instill that well-known feeling of enthusiasm for the new season's delicacies, nor is winter really entirely behind us. So it's an old standby for tomorrow—with a fine old New England fish turban soon to follow for our Friday's repast.

THURSDAY'S DINNER.

Scalloped Potatoes with Ham
Molded Spinach
Rye Bread
Fruit Cheese Lettuce Rolls with French Dressing
Saltines
Coffee

Scalloped Potatoes With Ham.

6 potatoes, medium-sized
1 quart milk
1 slice raw ham, one-half-inch thick
3 tablespoonfuls flour

Wash and prepare the potatoes and slice thin. Put a layer of potatoes in bottom of baking dish, sprinkle with flour and repeat until ingredients are used. Place ham on top, add milk and bake in moderate oven from one to one and a half hours, or until potatoes and ham are baked tender. The pan should be deep enough so the milk well covers the ham.

Molded Spinach.

Wash one peck of spinach thoroughly and cook in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. Drain, add a third cupful of melted butter and a scant teaspoonful of salt, and reheat. Put through sieve, place in buttered mold and keep warm until ready to serve. Unmold onto a hot serving dish and sprinkle with several teaspoonfuls of French dressing. Cover the whole with hard-cooked egg pressed through a sieve and sprinkle with paprika.

Rye Bread.

1 yeast cake
1 quart white flour
½ quart rye flour
½ cupful molasses
½ tablespoonful salt
Milk to make a thick batter (about 2 cupfuls).

Dissolve the yeast in a little warm water. Then mix all the ingredients together and let rise until light. Mold and knead into loaves and let rise again to double in bulk and bake in a slow oven for one and a half hours.

Fruit Cheese Lettuce Rolls.

3 figs
½ cupful nuts
1 cupful cream cheese
1 teaspoonful lemon juice
Pinch of salt

Work the cheese until soft and creamy. Add lemon juice and salt. Chop the dates, figs and nuts. Add to first mixture. Shape into rolls about three inches long. Lay on wax paper in refrigerator until firm. Wrap each one in a lettuce leaf. Fasten with strips of pimento. Chill thoroughly. Serve with French dressing.

French Dressing.

1 cupful salad oil
1-3 cupful vinegar
2 teaspoonfuls powdered sugar
½ teaspoonful salt
¼ teaspoonful pepper

Have oil and vinegar very cold. Mix seasonings, add the oil and vinegar. Beat with rotary beater until thick and creamy.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—Please send me your reducing menus and suggestions. I have a friend who has benefited greatly by following your advice. She not only feels better, but has reduced considerably. She used to eat so much. I really believe that's all she ever thought of, and her figure was just what you would expect. Won't you please help me before I get that way? My appetite is increasing with my waistline. MRS. J. B.

Of course, Mrs. J. B., I shall be only too glad to send you our menus and suggestions. Not for the world would I ever want you to "get that way." But will you send me your name and address on a stamped envelope, please?

I am glad to know that your friend has succeeded so admirably in overcoming her huge appetite and its inevitable results, and I know that you, with her experience in mind, can not help but overcome whatever tendencies you may have in the same direction. It is necessary to correct both eating and exercising habits in order to secure best results, you know. While it is quite possible that you could reduce just by watching your diet, with no extra effort in the way of walking, swimming or setting-up exercises at home, in either case the effort would be very much lessened and the loss of weight more successful were the two to be combined.

Eat less and exercise more. Let that be your slogan, never doing either to an extreme, never letting your anxiety to reach your goal run away with your good sense and sane judgment. Your friend can, I know, tell you all that, too, for I am sure she didn't attempt to make herself over overnight.

Culbertson on Contract

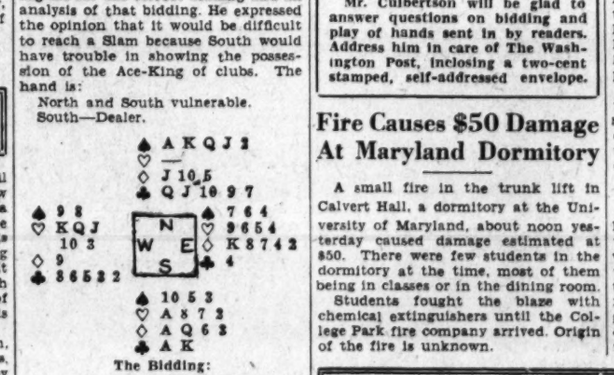
SHOWING THE WHOLE HAND.

FREQUENTLY hands come along in Contract Bridge which result in ghastly and costly blunders in the bidding, due, generally speaking, to failure to draw correct inferences or the failure of the bidder to use the bids as a means of conveying enough information to the partner to encourage the continuance of the bidding along intelligent lines.

The other day I received from Prof. W. G. Piersel, of Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, the hand below, asking me for the correct bidding and an analysis of that bidding. He expressed the opinion that it would be difficult to reach a Slam because South would have trouble in showing the possession of the Ace-King of clubs. The hand is:

North and South vulnerable.
South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1◇	1♡	2♡(1)	Pass
3♡(2)	Pass	3♠	Pass
4NT(3)	Pass	5♣(4)	Pass
5♠(5)	Pass	6♠(6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1. A forcing bid and a Slam suggestion in view of the fact that partner has opened the bidding. More information about North's holding will be conveyed in later rounds of bidding.

2. While South has a hand containing 4½ honor-tricks, in view of his partner's immediate Overcall of the adversely bid suit, he warns at once against the danger of duplication of values, but at the same time implies a willingness to continue the bidding. Otherwise he would have responded with two notrump, which would also have shown a heart stopper, although not necessarily the Ace.

3. South's hand is not strong enough to support spades, and diamonds obviously can not be rebid. Yet the hand contains more values than would be shown by a bid of three notrump in view of North's strong bidding thus far.

4. North now shows his other biddable suit.

5. Although South holds only three small spades and the Ace-King of clubs, his choice between the two suits is clearly marked. North holds at least as many spades as clubs, as shown by the order of bidding.

6. North's six spade bid is obvious, as partner, after warning of duplication of values regarding the hearts, has shown additional strength by the bid of four notrump.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Cue bidding—that is, showing control of a suit through holding the Ace—is unnecessary, except in cases where opponents have bid the suit. By the precise showing of honor-tricks these values can be inferred.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Really Serious Problem

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD: I am 18 years old and have been married almost two years. The young man I married had a very good position in the office of one of our downtown theaters, but about a year ago, I encouraged him to give up this position and go to medical school because it seemed to be his parents' fondest desire and I felt that if it were not for me, he would have followed their advice when his father first offered to help him through.

His parents lived across the street from the school which he was to attend, so we moved about a block from them. Then the trouble began. We were separated for four or five months and finally made up, but the situation is worse now than ever before.

He has his tuition to pay now all by himself, so therefore, he lives with his parents and I live with mine. Between his going to school, working on the side, and studying, I scarcely see him more than once a week. Sometimes I feel so lonesome when my sisters go out with their boy friends and I have to sit home by myself, that I could shoot myself for ever having him go back to school.

What can I do? He is the type which I really admire, that will finish anything he starts, but I am afraid its going to be finish with the two of us, if things don't change. He has so much to occupy his mind that I doubt if he ever realizes how it feels to have to park home with nothing to do. If I go to a dance with my girl friend, even though we stag, he gets angry when he finds out about it.

All my friends say that I am a darn fool, that I should make him give up his school and go back to work, and considering that for seven long years it will be the same old grind, I almost agree with them, but when I even hint at such a thing, he doesn't like it a bit and makes me think that I am most unreasonable.

Don't you think that if he really loved me he would go back to work and make me happy, or do you think it would be better for me to divorce him and let him go to school for the rest of his life if he cares to do so? This is a hard question to decide because I love him now just as much, if not more than the day I married him, and he says he loves me just as much as I love him.

Anxiously waiting for your advice, I am, very truly yours. T. E. G.

No one could answer you intelligently without first knowing the boy's present feeling toward you. If he has wearied of this adolescent experience that resulted in your marriage at 16, then by all means we would say that you were entitled to a new deal all around.

But, if you are both more in love than ever, then we would suggest that you to take up night courses and fit yourself for the interesting life of a successful doctor's wife. Many married professional people live apart. It is not ideal, but it is not necessarily the death knell of all things either.

You need educational development anyway. If he is to be a physician you should have tastes far above dance halls, where young girls "go stag." It is probably your choice of diversion rather than the idea of your seeking diversion that angers him. Is he of a station far above your own? All these things must be taken into consideration in deciding such grave issues. The seven years in themselves would mean very little if you were both in tune, looking forward to a mutual future. But if you are thinking in terms of dance halls, and he in terms of a future in the most dignified of professions, then far better part, for you will never be one.

Will you write further? How you met, how his people regard you, how he regards you, what you mean to him. A wife knows exactly what she means to a man after two years of marriage. And that is really what must decide you know. Do write more fully. It would be so wonderful if you only could go on together to the great fulfillment. You would be only 25 you know. Let us try to figure this out together. Write again.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

SHASTA DAISIES

ARE you familiar with the shasta daisies? If you have them, then let me make some practical suggestions as to their care. If you haven't, this is just the right time to get some. They will in a short time multiply and fill up quite a large amount of space in your garden.

The shasta daisy is an unusually hardy variety, which requires a rather rich soil and must be planted in strong sun. Before planting the seed test the soil with litmus paper to see if it is acid. This perennial will not do well in an acid soil. The litmus test is one that every gardener should learn to use. It is quite simple and sure.

Purchase five cents worth of litmus paper from any drug store. Then scrape away the surface of the soil from the ground in the bed in which you are about to sow the seeds. When you have removed the soil to the depth of about three inches take out a cupful. If the soil is moist do not add water. If dry moisten it with pure water (preferably rainwater). Then put a strip of litmus paper into the soil and let it remain there for five minutes. Then carefully remove it. If the blue paper becomes decidedly pink it indicates a decided acidity of the soil and lime must be added to sweeten it.

Add the lime one week and plant the seed a week later. It is a good plan to test in this way all the soil in your borders in early May. Sow the seeds of the shasta daisy on a dull day. Should the weather be unusually cold, as it sometimes is in early spring, cover the young seedlings with a layer of paper at night. After they are an inch high they will be able to take care of themselves, but it is best to take this precaution at first.

Should you care, a second season, to increase the number of plants, this variety can be easily grown by root division. One advantage of the shasta daisy is the fact that it is especially good for cutting purposes. The blooms stand very erect and some flowers are three inches across. When cut and kept in water they last for days. A clump of these plants will bloom the entire summer. They will do better if kept regularly watered, but will do very well even when left to depend on the rain for water.

Fire Causes $50 Damage At Maryland Dormitory

A small fire in the trunk lift in Calvert Hall, a dormitory at the University of Maryland, about noon yesterday caused damage estimated at $50. There were few students in the dormitory at the time, most of them being in classes or in the dining room.

Students fought the blaze with chemical extinguishers until the College Park fire company arrived. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Maryland Planning World Fair Exhibit

Appropriation Will Be Asked at Next Session Legislature.

Baltimore, March 8 (A.P.).—An appropriation probably will be sought at the next session of the State Legislature to provide for an exhibit by the State of Maryland in the second Chicago World's Fair in 1933.

In order to lay the ground for Maryland's participation in the fair, William S. Gordy, jr., State comptroller, stated recently that Joseph O'C. McCusker, secretary of the board of public works, has been sent to Chicago to study the situation.

Officers of the Baltimore Association of Commerce are cooperating with a number of Baltimore manufacturers who already are planning individual exhibits at the fair.

Nurses Show Gain In Charity Work

15,528 Visits to Sick Are Reported by Society for February.

A total of 15,528 visits were made during February by the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society, it was announced yesterday at a meeting of the board of managers held at the organization's headquarters in the Albee Building. The visits were made to 5,390 stricken persons.

It was pointed out that more than half of these visits were made free of charge. This was an increase of 64 per cent over the number of free visits made during February, 1931. The increase was attributed to the present unemployment wave.

Mrs. Whitman Cross, chairman of the board, declared that in times of stress medical relief agencies are of vital importance in sustaining the morale of persons who are discouraged by lack of work and lowered incomes.

War Office to Buy Supplies at Home

President Signs Measure to Confine Purchases to This Country.

(Associated Press.)

The War Department was directed yesterday to buy its supplies at home, rather than abroad. President Hoover signed a measure directing the Secretary of War to make both his military and nonmilitary purchases from domestic producers "unless the interests of the Government will not permit."

Capitol Hill buzzed a short while ago with a charge that the War Department was purchasing its matches from Soviet Russia as against the bids of producers in this country. It was said also that other supplies, such as meats, were bought from abroad rather than at home.

The bill signed yesterday directs domestic purchasing "notwithstanding that such articles of growth, production or manufacture of the United States may cost more, if such excess of cost be not unreasonable."

BUREAU TO MODIFY MAPES TAX VIEWS

Plans to Submit Report on Three Bills Saturday; Old Basis Faulty.

First intimation that the Bureau of Efficiency will modify former recommendations of a $10,183,391 Federal contribution toward District needs was given yesterday by bureau heads following a conference with Chairman Arthur Capper, of the Senate District committee.

Distribution of District taxes under the proposed Mapes plan has forced bureau experts to "revise" the formula used in arriving at the former high Federal lump sum, Thomas F. Murphy, assistant chief of the bureau, told newspapermen.

He said the old formula was based on the general property tax method of raising revenues, now in use, under which he feels the Federal Government should pay its proportionate share in relation to Government property located here. The Mapes tax bills on income, estates, auto weight and gasoline upset this basis, he said.

Report Is Planned Saturday.

Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, told Senator Capper he will be ready to report on three of the bills by Saturday. Additional time will be needed to prepare a report on the income tax bill, he said. Recommendations on the House resolution to abolish the old 60-40 Federal-District fiscal relations basis will be reported still later, he added.

Senate District committee hearings on the first three tax bills received from the Bureau of Efficiency will begin in from 10 days to two weeks, Senator Capper announced following the conference.

By the time discussion of these is complete, the income tax bill will be ready for the committee, Mr. Brown said.

He indicated he will revise the latter measure more to conform with the Federal income tax law, which provides a higher schedule of exemptions. He said the income tax bill recommended by the Mapes committee and passed by the House, "although simple, leaves out necessary detail."

Decline To Discuss Views.

Both Director Brown and Mr. Murphy declined to disclose the nature of the recommendations that will accompany the estate, auto weight and gasoline tax bills to be submitted to the committee Saturday.

Mr. Murphy will be one of the committee's expert witnesses when hearings on the measures open. He disclosed yesterday that various organizations having opinions on the bills had been in touch with him at the bureau.

The four tax measures, which would yield an estimated $4,000,000 in additional annual revenue, passed the House several weeks ago, following a year's study by a special House committee on fiscal relations. The report of its chairman, Representative Carl F. Mapes, recommending a $3,000,000 reduction in the Federal lump sum, was approved by the House, which likewise voted to abolish the old 60-40 fiscal relations basis. When the bills were sent to the Senate, Senator Capper referred them to the Bureau of Efficiency for analysis and report.

Inasmuch as a study by the bureau, recommending a $10,183,391 Federal contribution, was rejected by the Mapes committee, this was interpreted by some as a move to kill the bills. Indications now are that certainly one of the bills, and probably more, may be reported favorably by the bureau.

Moslems in India Asked To Take Part in Boycott

New Delhi, India, March 8 (A.P.).—All the Moslems in India were asked today to participate in a peaceful boycott of foreign cloth shops, movie theaters and the courts of law by the Mufti Kifaya Tullah, head of the All-India Moslem religious body, Jamait Ul Ulema.

This campaign, he said, is in retaliation for the treatment accorded by the government to the Moslems in the northwest frontier province.

RADICALS' SUPPORT LOST BY DE VALERA

Followers of President William T. Cosgrave, whose forces were exceeded by those of De Valera in the election of the new Dail, interpreted the documents as likely to fulfill their prediction that De Valera's accession to power would mean a recrudescence of trouble from extremists, which they said led to the passage of the public safety act.

If De Valera released the prisoners, the Cosgrave supporters said, he would have to reimprison them, else they would imprison him.

(The Sinn Fein party, composed of extreme Republicans, resulted from a convention organized by De Valera himself early in his political career and it was the Sinn Feiners who twice named him "President of the Irish Republic.")

Only an unforeseen turn in political events could prevent the election of De Valera, whose political career embraced years of hardships, prison terms and one sentence of death, to the highest honor within the power of Erin.

When the tall, angular and determined leader of the Fianna Fail goes before the new Dail tomorrow, the vote probably will be 83 for him and 69 against, a majority of 14 over his arch political enemy, the retiring William Cosgrave.

The demand for seats as spectators at the opening of the Dail has been phenomenal, and thousands have been turned away.

De Valera will face his first test of strength immediately on the convention of the Dail when Cosgrave will plead for the retention of Michael Hayes, the Governmentist, as speaker, but is was believed that the Fianna Fail would propose Frank Fahy and carry the speakership, although his election would mean the loss of one vote.

The Fianna Fail will then nominate De Valera for the presidency and when the vote is taken will adjourn for a few hours while he goes to see Governor General James McNeill to receive formal appointment.

Later in the day the new president, if he receives the appointment, will return to the Dail and submit his cabinet. After the ministry if formally approved the House will adjourn until Thursday, when the new executive will take over the reins of government.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN you sit and listen—as well as you can with the audience making all that noise laughing—to Jim McWilliams deliver himself of a political stump speech during the course of his act at the Earle Theater this week, be assured it is not all clowning. Mr. McWilliams, if you must know, is merely tuning up for a future career that he has been planning now for a long, long time.

For twenty years Jim McWilliams has been working his way through school, declares Mark Barron, one of the more perceptive of the theatrical commentators. Next June he will receive his diploma when he takes his bar examination in Ohio.

The education of this long, ludicrous fellow began 'way back in 1912, shortly after he departed from Ohio State University to enter the fine arts school of Columbia University. He wanted to be a writer, actually became a vaudeville star, and now is quitting all that to become a lawyer and operate the weekly newspaper of which he is half owner at Virginia Beach, Va.

For two decades now McWilliams has been spending every spare moment in his dressing room reading legal textbooks. He has educated himself entirely and is now ready for his final examinations. After being admitted to the bar in his native Ohio, he will return to his present home in Virginia to practice.

"It isn't that I have anything against the stage," he says, according to Mr. Barron, "but I just haven't the aptitude to be an actor, and it has been merely a means to an end for me. It has paid for my education.

"I'm not going into politics because I have any desire for office," he continued. "I'm just interested in political and economic problems. I think this country is in good condition, but we are just getting over a 'too much money' spree.

"I think we need a return of the cool, level-headed type of business man we had before 1920. We need more gray-haired executives who really believe that 7 per cent interest involves risk. We need an end of such movements as the one to retire men when they reach the age of 40. That is the age when they really begin to get in their stride."

But don't get the idea that just because of all this sapience Jim McWilliams isn't still one of the funniest musico-monologists in the varieties. After each of his four daily appearances at the Earle the ushers have to sweep the customers up out of the aisles where they lie popping buttons right and left and gasping for breath!

Choosing the prize day of the year for his first visit back to the Capital since relinquishing the managing directorship of the Loew interests in this city, Michael J. Cullen, now stationed in Pittsburgh, spent last Sunday dropping in on old friends.

Primarily down for a visit with his mother, Mike had spent scarcely more than five minutes with her up to the time he left my office at 9:30 p. m., to remedy that seeming discrepancy by devoting all of the remaining hours before the departure of an early morning train to her.

Pittsburgh evidently agrees with the former loewcal Loew panjandrum. When he fled these shores he tipped the beam at 147 pounds, ringside, and now tilts the scales to 168—a net accretion of poundage totaling up to an even 21!

Watch that waistline, fella! I, too, have had to have V's put in everything, and it is not so good!

When the "Make It Snappy" revue, headed by Al Wohlman, arrived in Washington to take up its stage duties at Loew's Palace last Friday, Katherine Page, the feminine member of the roller-skating team of Mulroy, McNees and Ridge, complained of feeling ill. On Saturday she was rushed to her mother's home in Chicago to be operated on for appendicitis, Mr. Mulroy accompanying her.

The operation was successfully performed on Monday and yesterday Mulroy, accompanied by Eleanor Bunting, engaged in Chicago, rejoined the act at the Palace. Miss Bunting acquired the rountine so rapidly and is such an expert skater that no one watching the turn from out front ever would suspect that so sudden an emergency substitution had been made.

That's show business.

By the way, when "After Tomorrow," the new Charles Farrell-Marian Nixon film, was screened in the private projection room at the Fox film exchange last Monday noon, Sam Wheeler, manager, was wearing a grin from 'ere to 'ere and passing out various sorts of mementoes of a momentous occasion.

He had just returned from Pittsburgh where Mrs. Wheeler, on the day previous, had presented him with a new baby sister for their 7-year-old son.

And were congratulations pouring in! If they had been film bookings, Sam could have retired that same afternoon!

Ben Lyon is combining business with pleasure in more ways than one on his present tour of personal appearances.

Although you may have forgotten it, the young screen star who is attracting crowds to the Fox this week is a lieutenant in the flying corps of the United States Army Reserves and is the possessor of a pilot's license that has to be renewed from time to time. Since he was due for another physical going over this month, Mr. Lyon made arrangements with the officials to have his examination while in Washington, and as a result spent a considerable part of yesterday morning in the office of Dr. Bernard L. Jarman being stethoscoped, thumped and reflexed.

While the jury is still out, at time of writing, the defendant expects a verdict of acquittal.

And I hope you feel all right, too.

APPROACH OF LIQUOR VOTE STIRS FEARS IN CONGRESS

Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has set up organizations in 26 of the States, and the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform in 25.

These two organizations are not only militantly active, but they appear to be stronger financially than the dry organizations.

Right now they are using the same tactics that the Antisaloon League employed to bring about prohibition. That is, they are "building fires" under the members. This expression, coined by the drys in the old days, means to make things hot for the member by having the voters in his district bombard him with letters and telegrams.

Like the Antisaloon League these wet organizations also have resorted to cracking the whip. When the Rev. F. Scott McBride, of the Antisaloon League, warns the statesmen that his organization will oppose them for renomination or reelection if they vote "for wet or against dry measures," Henry H. Curran, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment counters with a warning that his organization also will have something to say about it—that it will help elect wets and help defeat drys.

Other Groups Approve.

Backing up these organizations are the American Bar Association, the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor, all of which have found fault with prohibition.

Most of the members of Congress, of course, have taken a definite stand on prohibition. They know—or think they know—just how their constituents stand on the question, and they have patterned their own stand accordingly.

However, there is a considerable number who are not so fortunate. They frankly admit that they are in a quandary; that they don't know which way to jump. Moreover, they admit that they are doing plenty of "sweating."

Members' Previous Stands.

Thus far, these members have either been out-and-out drys or they have been able to so straddle the question as to remain in favor with both wets and drys.

On Monday they will have to declare themselves one way or another on the prohibition question. Their names will be called, and they will be asked to vote "aye" or "nay" on the Beck-Linthicum resolution, which gives the people of the country a chance to pass on an amendment to the eighteenth amendment, one that would permit States to be either wet or dry, with Federal protection for those that choose to be dry.

A vote on the Beck-Linthicum resolution was assured last week when 145 members signed a petition forcing the measure out of the judiciary committee and into the House chamber. The prospect is that about 175 will vote for it Monday.

Double Threats Made.

While the resolution merely refers the prohibition question to the States, the Antisaloon League has announced that it will oppose for reelection all those who vote for it, and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has said it will oppose all those who vote against it. Thus the issue is clear cut.

Of course, a straddler could absent himself on the day of the vote, but in the view of many this would put him in wrong with both wets and drys.

After the vote on the Beck-Linthicum resolution will come one on the Cullen amendment to the new tax bill. This provides that beer be legalized, and be taxed at the rate of $5 a barrel as a substitute for the drastic sales tax.

Beer Amendment Published.

The so-called beer amendment was made public yesterday. Three members of the ways and means committee — Representatives Cullen and Sullivan, of New York, and McCormack, of Massachusetts, all Democrats—announced their purpose to demand a record vote on the Cullen proposal to levy a tax of $5 a barrel on 2.75 per cent beer.

The strategy of the wets in this connection is to get another wet and dry record vote. Beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content is not now legal, and would not be legal under the new tax measure.

The proposed beer tax will have more than an appeal to thirsty throats inasmuch as it is estimated that it would yield $350,000,000 a year.

Sponsors of the beer tax inferentially jeered at the drys who proposed to tax materials which it is recognized would make beer of greater alcoholic content than is now legal. They pointed to proposed taxes on malt sirup, designed to yield $50,000,000, and to proposed taxes on wort, grape concentrate and other things.

Other Battles Loom.

Though more spectacular, perhaps, the beer tax vote is not the only battle which is to be waged over the provisions of the new tax measure. Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, made public a statement in which he called for support, declaring that the bill was a nonpartisan measure and laid down the principle that the Government can not continue to run on borrowed money.

Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, speaking for the more or less independents made known that that group would oppose the proposed 2.25 per cent manufactures sales tax which, it is estimated, would yield $595,000,000. The independents, Mr. LaGuardia said, expect to support the Cullen beer tax amendment.

Representative Martin (Republican), of Massachusetts, denounced the oil tax as a political gesture which would cost New England $100,000,000 a year. Representative Norton (Democrat), of Nebraska, issued a statement opposing the proposed sales tax.

Arlington-Fairfax Bus Line to Expand

Charter Is Granted to Run Branch From Lacy to Washington.

Application for a charter by the Arlington-Fairfax Motor Transportation Co., a subsidiary of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway Co., to operate a line of buses from Lacy to Washington by way of the Highway Bridge has been approved by the State corporation commission, it was revealed last night.

Dr. Julius H. Parmelee, president, announces that there will be a special meeting of the board of directors tomorrow afternoon to consider plans for the operation and date of starting of the bus lines.

It is understood that the railway will continue to operate the line from Clarendon to Arlington Junction as a local line, with the present schedule greatly reduced.

REPORT ON WELFARE GIVEN TO CONGRESS

City Heads Recommend 27 Reforms for Benefit of Child Life Here.

The District Commissioners yesterday sent to Congress the 30-page report on child welfare conditions in Washington that had been prepared by a special committee as a result of a House resolution of last spring. Although the commissioners declined to release the report Monday as they had not time to read it, they sent it to Capitol Hill without making any alterations.

The report offers 27 proposals for improving child welfare work in the District, all of which would cost several hundred thousand dollars to put into effect, but has little to say about the issue involved in the Edith Riley case, which induced Congress to call for the investigation.

Concerning the question of whether a third of the school children are under-nourished, as charged by John J. Noonan before a Congressional committee, the report points out that undernourishment is not always a result of poverty but sometimes of improper food selection.

School Lunch Problem.

"In this time of unemployment it is quite likely that the number of children receiving insufficient food is increasing," the committee admits, however. "Your committee has given very careful consideration to this question and is of the opinion that proper nourishment for children of needy families should be provided in some manner. The problem, however, it feels is one that should be approached through the home and not in the school."

While disapproving of the provision of lunches to the needy as school work, the committee adds that, should such a step be deemed advisable, there should be close cooperation with the homes and the established welfare agencies. Such lunches, the report states, should be available to all alike, "those able to pay and those not able to pay."

Chief Recommendations.

Chief among the 27 recommendations made the committee, of which Health Officer William C. Fowler was chairman, are as follows:

Establishment in the Health Department of divisions of health, education, tuberculosis, and venereal diseases, the latter with additional dispensaries.

Additional child hygiene stations, dental clinics, and medical inspectors and nurses in the public schools.

An assembly gymnasium for each elementary school of sixteen rooms or more, together with 4 or 5 acres of playgrounds; separate gymnasiums in all junior high schools for boys and girls and a play field of 5 or more acres; indoor gymnasiums for each sex in senior high schools and athletic fields of seven or more acres, and indoor gymnasiums in teachers' colleges for each sex, together with an athletic field.

Neighborhood Playgrounds.

Establishment of neighborhood playgrounds in communities where school grounds are now inadequate; community recreation centers serving a radius of 1 mile; development of nursery playgrounds to care for children under school age.

Additional inspectors to enforce the child-labor law; proper legislation to provide for proper supervision of child boarding houses, and change in law to permit the Board of Public Welfare to assume care and custody of dependent children without court commitment.

Replacement of present schools for crippled children by modern facilities.

That Congress and the Commissioners give early consideration to amending present law relating to handling of delinquent, dependent, and neglected children in the District.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

AT CONVENTION

BENJAMIN SCHWARTZ, director general of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, who will speak at the annual banquet of the organization tomorrow night at the Mayflower Hotel.

BEECHAM CONDUCTS CONCERT IN CAPITAL

Philharmonic Symphony's Guest Leader Applauded at Constitution Hall.

Obviously in pain from an ankle sprained in Philadelphia Monday night, Sir Thomas Beecham, noted British guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, directed a memorable concert of that organization in Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon. The concert was given under the local management of the T. Arthur Smith Concert Bureau.

Sir Thomas, who is the most noted music patron and musician in the British empire, showed his profound memory of music scores when he conducted the three symphonies of the afternoon without a piece of music in front of him. This prodigious feat was accomplished without a break, and the orchestra responded to his gently swung baton with impeccable alacrity and understanding.

The three symphonies played were Haydn's Symphony in E flat major; Mozart's Symphony, No. 34, in C major, and the lovely Franck Symphony in D minor. Of varying symphonic beauty, Sir Thomas elicited from each its outstanding theme in a masterly manner, with emphasis of their differences, but all played as musical gems.

In conducting, Sir Thomas has a style of leadership all his own. It is as rhythmically forceful as Stokowski, yet quite individual. He was heard in Washington once before as guest conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, and the good impression made on music lovers here then was heightened yesterday.

An ovation was accorded Sir Thomas and his musicians from New York at the conclusion of each symphony, and especially after the last notes of Franck's glorious symphony.

High-Voltage Wire Kills Workman, 28

South Carolinian Loses His Life Repairing Lights Near Alexandria.

Samuel Arve, 28 years old, who came to Alexandria from Westminster, S. C., was electrocuted at noon yesterday at a point on the Potomac River just north of Norton's soap factory, between Alexandria and Washington. A call was telephoned to Rescue Squad No. 2, of the Alexandria Fire Department, who rushed Arve to the Alexandria Hospital, where life was pronounced extinct.

Arve was employed by the Grier-Lowrance Construction Co. as mechanic and oiler of a steam shovel. Owing to the inclement weather yesterday, the shovel was not in operation. Arve, who was housed in a small shack at the point of operation, when reporting yesterday, found the shack without lights. It is understood he located a fallen electric wire which he attempted to repair and make connections so as to furnish light to his shack. He picked up the wire with a pair of pliers and was seen to fall by Martin Matthews, of Four Mile Run, who put in a call for the rescue squad. An examination of the body showed two small burns on the fingers. The wire carried 2,300 volts of electricity.

veyed the wishes of the English barristers, as did letters from France and Canada.

Representative James M. Beck, former Solicitor General, honored Mr. Holmes as a jurist and as a man. "I can not recall," he said, "when the retirement of any public man was received with such regret."

"He was without fear or prejudice as to the consequence of his decision," Mr. Beck stated. He emphasized the human side and the ready wit of the former justice with anecdotes.

Solicitor General Thacher greeted Mr. Holmes as a "gallant soul we love. His works will be known as long as there are courts to administer justice."

Further honor was paid in the address of Judge Learned Hand.

The guests at the dinner included Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts and Mrs. Roberts, Attorney General and Mrs. William D. Mitchell, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of Labor and Mrs. William N. Doak, and many congressional and governmental leaders.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

BILOXI, Miss., March 8—This correspondent treed Mr. C. C. Griffith in his favorite arm chair in the lobby of the Hotel Biloxi and approached the boss man of the Washington team with the grim determination to pin him down to a definite appraisal of the Nats' chances in the 1932 pennant race.

Where do you think the club will finish?

Mr. Griffith shifted in his chair as if to get out of the line of direct fire and made this startling reply: "Well, we've got a good team and will give them all a battle."

Yes, I know you'll not only give them a battle but you'll make it tough for a lot of the clubs, but what I want to find out is where you think your club will finish?

"Well, all the clubs seemed to be strengthened quite a bit and we are, too, and it looks like a hard fight, but we'll be right up there among them from the start."

Yeah, I know you'll be right up there, all right, and all of the clubs are stronger this season, but where do you figure the Nats will finish?

"I like our chances."

Your chances for what? First place, second place, third place or the second division?

"Well, the Athletics are going to be tough to beat, and so are the Yankees. Cleveland has got a good club and I wouldn't be surprised to see the Browns and Bucky Harris' Tigers improve."

I knew that all the time. How about your team?

"Well, we'll give them all a battle, and——"

So you told me. Do you think your club can win the pennant?

"Anything can happen in baseball, and the pennant's not won until its mathematically certain. It might not be decided until the last day of the season."

Thanks, a lot, but who do you think will win the pennant?

"Well, the Athletics and the Yankees will be hard to beat and Cleve——"

How about Washington?

"You never can tell, I think we've got a fine team. If our pitching comes through and the hitting stands up, we'll be right up there from the start and give them all a——"

Battle, that's the word your going to say.

"We will give them all a battle. Reynolds is going to mean a lot to our club and I have hopes that some of our young pitchers will come through. We'll be right up—"

I know, you'll be right up there from the start. But where do you think you're going to finish? That's what we're interested in.

"I think we've got a good chance."

Chance for what, the pennant?

"Yes, we've got a chance for the pennant. Every team has got a chance. We'll be stronger than we were last year, so will lots of the others."

How about the Athletics and Yankees?

"Both of 'em will be hard to beat. They've got great teams. I don't know if Grove and Walberg and Earnshaw will have such great seasons as they did last year. I doubt it. The Yankees, though are coming."

Do you think Washington can beat 'em out?

"Well, I dunno. As I say, we've got a chance. They'll know they've been in a fight. We may do it. You never can tell."

What makes you think you may do it?

"Well, I don't figure the Athletics to be so tough this year. It's rare to get pitching like they've had for two years in a row. It carried them through. There's got to be a let-down. The Yankees though, are beginning to look like the old Yankee teams with lots of power there to support some better pitching from fellows like Gomez and Pipgras."

How about Washington?

"The boys have fine spirit. Never before have I seen the morale so high. They are all interested in their work and—"

Yeah, but how do they look to you out on the field?

"There's lots of ability out there. That outfield of Manush, West and Reynolds is a corker. I'm not worried about the infield. We ought to have somebody to help Spencer with the catching. We're hoping for a lot from the pitchers, especially the young ones."

Which young ones?

"The fellows like Fischer and Weaver and Ragland. They look like they ought to be a lot of help. Fischer is a big leaguer right now and Weaver has all the actions of one. Ragland is a big strong boy. No team ever won a pennant without a good relief man. I hope Ragland comes through."

Where do you think the club will finish.

"Well, We'll be right up there from the start and we'll make it hot for a lot of them. They'll know they've been in a fight. We'll give them all a—"

Battle. Thanks, Mr. Griffith.

Hyattsville and Takoma Fives in State Title Play

Close competition is anticipated in the basket ball game scheduled tomorrow afternoon in Ritchie Coliseum where the quintets representing Takoma-Silver Spring and Hyattsville High Schools clash in the Maryland State scholastic championship series, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

In earlier combats, neither of which affected their respective county standings, Takoma twice scored over the Hyattsville tossers by small margins. On past performances therefore, Takoma likely will rule the choice tomorrow. Defeat means elimination to either team.

Takoma entered the State series by virtue of winning the Montgomery County title, while Hyattsville captured the Prince Georges gonfalon. In the series thus far Takoma has defeated Annapolis and Hyattsville has beaten Solomon.

Griffiths Beaten by 23-22 in Thrilling Added Contest.

Western Flashes and A. Z. A. Fraternity Also Triumph.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

KNOCKED unconscious a moment before, George Beach, Delaware & Hudson center, limped up to the foul line at Tech High gymnasium last night and while 1,000 people held their collective breath sank a foul shot, his eighth of the game, to give his side a 23-22 decision over the Griffith Consumers for the championship of the Community Center League.

The gun sounded a few seconds later, making the slim lead a thing for the record books, and bringing fame to an abject underdog team, which played the last five minutes of the game with four players.

Game Features A. A. U. Program

The game, played as a special feature on a night of District A. A. U. conflicts, shared honors with the bewildering exhibition of power shown by the Jewish Community Center Big Five, as it ground out a 48-12 victory over the First Baptists. Both the D. & H. Team and the Griffith Consumers are among the top-notch clubs entered in the unlimited division of the tournament, which is sponsored by The Washington Post. Both clubs will see service over the week-end.

In other District A. A. U. tournament games last night the Western Flashes won a close 17-14 decision over the Y. M. C. A. Eagles, in the 115-pound section, and the A. Z. A. Fraternity Team of the J. C. C. nosed out Mount Rainier, 20-14.

The D. & H.-Griff game was one that will live many years in the minds of those who saw it. Beach and his confreres surprised the populace in the first half by giving the favored Griffs a run for their money, trailing by only 10 to 11 at the turn. The game, in the first half, was notoriously slow, but once the second half was under way there was fit excuse to turn cartwheels throughout the entire 20 minutes.

Play speeded up trebly, and the teams raced down the home lane alternating the lead. With five minutes left of the game, and the score tied at 16 to 16, Shanklin, D. & H. guard, went out on personals and there was no one to supplant him. Peck and Wiler, Griffith bulwarks, disappeared by the same route a moment later, but substitutes were forthcoming, Lyles and Adair.

With two minutes left of the game, and D. & H. leading, 20 to 18, Lyles sank a beautiful potshot to tie the score and Lilly put the Griffith team ahead with a blistering snowbird, 22 to 20. Beach was fouled with a minute to go and coolly tied the score by making good on both attempts.

Beach Furnishes Climax to Thriller

Then came that ending. Beach, drawing not a few boos for refusing to pass the ball, roared down the floor. Lyles blocked his way, and when the game hero collided with the well-put-up Lyles, he went down and out. Trainer Harry Fiddesop administered first aid, and the youth dramatically approached the charity line. There was never any doubt that the ball was going in.

The Griffs won the first game of their D. & H. series, 44 to 20, and lost the second, 34 to 31.

POTOMAC B.C. AND PREPS BATTLE

First Girls' Game Is Also on A. A. U. Program.

ONE of the outstanding teams of the Unlimited Division of the District A. A. U. tournament, the Potomac Boat Club, makes its tournament debut tonight at Tech High in the feature game of a card of four conflicts. The Boatmen find stern competition in their first game, meeting none other than the Northern Preps. This game, which looms as real first round battle, will be played at 9 o'clock.

The Olmsted Grill five, victorious in its first tournament assignment by a 34-14 decision over the Centennials, comes back again tonight in the 145-pound division to meet the Black Hawks.

The first girls' team of the tournament goes on in one of the feature spots, the 8 o'clock hour, tonight when the champion Eagles, the sextet which won the senior girls' tournament last year, meets the determined United Typewriter Girls.

The night will open with a 115-pound game, between the Fox Independents and the Knights of Columbus Boys Club.

Altogether it looms as one of the greatest nights of the tournament. Both the men's and women's defending champions are on the card, besides the first team to play twice in the tournament.

Headed by Emily Harrington, the United Typists boast of a strong combination of girl basketers this year, and are looking forward to creating the biggest upset of the tournament tonight by beating out the champion Eagles. The Eagles have not enjoyed a very good season, but are still rated favorites in many quarters to win the tournament.

The tournament, which is sponsored by The Washington Post, has offered many outstanding programs, but tonight's seems to strike some new high in sports entertainment for 25 cents.

Oxford-Cambridge Prep for Crew Race

London, March 8 (A.P.).—The Cambridge and Oxford crews, which meet in their historic race on the Thames March 19, each put in an hour of stiff practice on the flood tide today. Both will have another trial Saturday, after which they will leave for the south coast until March 15.

A report that the race would be started a quarter of a mile farther up the river than the starting point at Putney, used for nearly a century, was denied by Col. J. H. Gibbon, coach of the Oxford eight.

"The race is from Putney to Mortlake and it will remain the boat race from Putney to Mortlake," he declared.

CARDS LOOK THE PART OF LEADERS

Good Players Swarm Camp; Confidence Is Key Word.

NOTE: This is another of a series of first hand stories on major league club prospects.

By ALAN GOULD.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—There is scant opportunity here to avoid the fact that the St. Louis Cardinals are on top of the baseball world and plan, quite frankly, to stay there, thanks to the sport's best and most successful system for the production and perfection of the best available player talent.

The town and camp reeks, literally, with baseball players, optimism and confidence. At any moment, it would seem, another Pepper Martin or Dizzy Dean or Paul Derringer is apt to burst out into public and demand a job. There are dozens of good ball players on the premises whose names, let alone their antecedents and experience, are difficult to locate. Is it any wonder that in such an atmosphere the old sergeant, Gabby Street, in the full joy of a belated rise to the heights, remarks:

"This club has yet to reach its fullest possibilities. I do not underestimate our opposition, but, barring the breaks, we should have a better club in 1932 than we had a year ago. You know, it has taken us some time to find ourselves. I felt all along we could beat the Athletics, but it had to be proved. When this was accomplished, the boys in a way discovered themselves. They showed they could really fight when they came from behind to win in 1930. They showed they could outdo themselves in 1931. Why shouldn't I be optimistic this year?"

Holdouts Bother Street

Privately, of course, the old sergeant will feel much better when the most stubborn of the holdouts, Charley Gelbert and Chick Hafey, rejoin the fold and take their accustomed places in the cast that has won two successive National League pennants. Street has an abundance of material, but he needs these two seasoned stars to keep the championship machine intact. They can not be replaced offhand by even such capable performers as Eddie Delker and Ernie Orsatti.

The Cardinals showed their confidence in the celebrated chain-store system when they let Burleigh Grimes go to the Cubs. If this veteran's ability is not replaced by the work of such newcomers as Dizzy Dean, Tex Carleton or Ray Starr, it will be decidedly unfortunate for all concerned. Dean may find the ballyhoo a tough hurdle.

All three of these promising young pitching stars likely will be kept, at least until Street has passed definitely on the quality. He relies heavily, meanwhile, on the staff of seasoned moundsmen consisting of Bill Hallahan, Paul Derringer, Sylvester Johnson, Flint Rhem and Jesse Haines. Attempts to sell Rhem failed. Haines seems to have recovered from a shoulder ailment, but, even so, will be chiefly a "spot" pitcher. Only one other pitcher will be kept from the list, including Allyn Stout, Jim Lindsey and Tony Kaufmann.

Hafey Has Fast Company

Hafey, if and when he swings into line, will be supported in the outfield by George Watkins, a quiet but effective slugger, and the irrepressible Pepper Martin. Much depends on how the Pepper reacts to the pressure of being nationally acclaimed as the world series hero. There is no question about Martin's gameness as well as his ability, yet he has shown an early tendency to "press" at the plate that may handicap him this year. He won't be permitted to forget, for the time being, that much is expected of him. Even in exhibition games in his anxiety to produce, he has been hitting at bad balls. It will be all for the best if he gets some exaggerated ideas out of his head before the season opens.

Mrs. Arnott Winner In Pinehurst Shoot

Pinehurst, N. C., March 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Charles E. Arnott, of Short Hills, N. J., won the 100-target added bird tourney at the Pinehurst Gun Club today.

Mrs. Arnott broke 78 targets and had an allowance of 28.

C. T. Marshall, of Wilmington, Del., had a score of 98 off the gun with an allowance of four. Other scores included T. S. Carson, of Lancaster, Pa., 89 with an allowance of five.

Although the added handicaps gave both Mrs. Arnott and Marshall a score of 100 each, the highest possible score Mrs. Arnott was allowed to take the trophy without a shoot-off.

STAR NETMEN SEEK U. S. CROWN

Vines Is Among Few Stars Absent From Indoor Play.

By STUART CAMERON.

NEW YORK, March 8 (U.P.).—A record field will compete for the annual United States indoor tennis championships. In addition to being one of the largest fields of all time, the quality of the material is high, for it contains not only all of the best United States amateurs except Ellsworth Vines, national outdoor champion, but also the French aces, Jean Borotra, Christian Boussus and Antoine Gentien.

Performances of the United States stars in the indoor championships is expected to have an important bearing on selection of the American Davis Cup Team. Players considered potential United States cup players and expected to compete in the indoor are George Martin Lott, jr., Francis Xavier Shields, John Hope Doeg, Clifford Sutter, Sidney Wood, jr., Berkeley Bell, Gregory Mangin and J. Gilbert Hall.

Several players of this group competed in the Cuban championships which ended in Havana on Saturday. Lott won the title, defeating Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex.

Borotra Defending Champ.

Borotra, who recently announced his retirement as a Davis Cup singles player, is the defending champion of the United States singles play. In addition, with Boussus, he won the doubles title last year. Borotra's 1931 singles championship was won in a stirring finals battle with Berkeley Bell. Scores were 6—1, 3—6, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4. The international team of Pierre Landry, of France, and Sutter were runners-up to Borotra and Boussus.

The indoor championships start on Saturday afternoon and continue each afternoon, except Sunday. This tournament will be followed by the international team matches involving France and the United States, on the evenings of March 21, 22 and 23. Draw for the United States title singles play will be made and announced on Wednesday.

Race Meet Scheduled At St. Johns Track

Jacksonville, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—St. Johns Park track, midway between this city and St. Augustine, will open a ten-day horse racing season March 21, it was announced today.

The announcement was made in Miami by Frank D. Schuyler, secretary-treasurer of the Florida Jockey Club, operating the track which is the property of William V. Dwyer and W. E. Gallagher, Eastern sportsmen.

Roark, Injured Polo Star, Quits Hospital

Del Monte, Calif., March 8 (A.P.) Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, noted British polo player, who was injured when his horse fell on him in a game here Sunday, left a hospital today after showing great improvement. It was said he had not been internally injured.

ARMOUR AND DUDLEY IN FINALS

Meet Burke - Golden at 36 Holes Today at Miami.

By REX SAFFER.

MIAMI, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—Shooting six straight one-putt greens, four of them for birdies, Tommy Armour, of Detroit, today launched a delayed offensive that carried him and Ed Dudley, of Concordville, Pa., to a 3 and 2 victory over Johnny Farrell, and Gene Sarazen and into final play of the $5,000 international four-ball golf tournament.

Armour and Dudley clinched their match after a bitter struggle through 34 holes. The pair will meet Billy Burke, national open champion, and Johnny Golden, of Noroton, Conn., in a 36-hole round for the championship tomorrow.

Burke dropped an eagle 2 into the cup at the thirty-fifth green today to win with Golden, 2 and 1, their semi-final match with Harry Hampton, of Chicago, and Neil McIntyre, of Indianapolis.

Armour was the outstanding player of the two matches, recording a 34, 32—66, two strokes under the course record, for his morning individual card.

Sarazen started the day's play with a beautiful eagle 3 on the 450-yard first hole. Dropping a 10-foot putt after he brought his drive out of the rough with a long iron shot, Armour sank a birdie 3 on the fifth, but his team went 1 down on the seventh.

Here Farrell curled a 30-foot putt into the cup for an eagle 3. Sarazen's 10-foot putt on the eighth for a birdie 2 put his team 2 up, but Armour made it 1 with a par 4 on the ninth.

Farrell played three brilliant holes from the twelfth, gaining birdie 3's by pretty putting and approach shots, and his team was 3 up at the fourteenth. Armour's string of one-putt greens started on the thirteenth, which he halved, and he won three of the remaining holes to square the match at the eighteenth.

It remained deadlocked through the next four holes, but from then on Gene and Johnny weakened. They were 4 down at the twenty-ninth, but Farrell recovered one with a birdie 2 on the 212-yard thirty-third. The thirty-fourth was halved as the match ended.

Outfielder Capitulates And Advises Griffith He Will Report at Camp

Must Sign Today at Terms Offered or Face Ban.

Infield Shows Class in First Fast Fielding Session.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 8.—The Washington Baseball Club's long case of hold-outitis evaporated into a mere gesture this evening when Herr Heinie Manush capitulated to the extent of telegraphing Owner Clark Griffith that he would report to the team here tomorrow afternoon.

Manuah was the recipient of a telegram from Griffith last night which said, in effect: "Get in or get out, under pain of seeing the contract proffered withdrawn and new terms of sizably smaller figures submitted." He was told, furthermore, not to report unless he was prepared to accept terms, and the fact that the Big outfielder is coming to camp presages the very definite end of his holdout attempt.

Manush Expected to Sign Tonight

Manush's signed contract is expected to eventuate tomorrow night, when he will be brought under the spell of Griffith's hypnotic eye and convincing argumentation. These salary conferences do not endure long this season and the total elapsed time required by Griffith to obtain the signatures of Buddy Myer, Bob Burke, Sammy West and Joe Judge was little more than a quarter of an hour.

Mr. Griffith admits that Manush will be subjected to a sharp salary cut as a result of his comparatively poor season in 1931, when he batted only .307, and was a tremendous handicap to the team throughout the early months of play. This reduction is provided in his original offer to the outfielder, which will stand unless Manush kicks over the traces in the conference here, in which event Griffith is prepared to prune it further.

The presence of Manush, however, is deemed vital to the Nats' success in the coming pennant race, inasmuch as the outfield is expected to carry the team's punch, which is considerably bolstered this season by the addition of Carl Reynolds, former sock of the White Sox, who, with West and Manush, will round out an outfield that should have no peers in the American League if each attains top form.

Heinie Declares Himself Ready

Manush's slump last year is accountable to his poor physical condition. He was troubled with boils from the start of the season, and only a valiant rally in the concluding weeks boosted his average above the .300 mark, which even then was his lowest batting figure of his big league career. He has been spending the winter at his home at West Palm Beach, Fla., and reports himself in excellent condition.

Twenty-six ball players were in uniform today during the most intensive drill that has marked the training of the Nats thus far. Dave Harris, detained at his North Carolina home by the serious illness of his wife, is, excluding Manush, the lone absentee.

The work of the team has now definitely passed from the conditioning to the practice state and there was a noticeable snap in the work of the battery men, infielders and outfielders as they went through the paces.

The check rein has been removed from the pitchers, and under the watchful eye of Manager Johnson and the coaches, the hurlers unburdened themselves of some speed today. Crowder, Marberry and Brown, already near top form, were excused from the mound during batting practice, but zoomed their pitches into the catcher's mitts for ten full minutes at a lively pace before retiring for the day.

Johnny Friederich, Lynn Griffith, Johnny Boyle, Mike Delaney and Bud Thomas were instructed to begin proving their worth and the board of strategy gathered around as the rookies cut loose. Opinion was reserved, of course, but this group is slated to get tests under fire in the exhibition games which start Sunday when the Baltimore Orioles will be met here.

Ragland's Fork-Ball Effective

Frank Ragland, who is fated for a heavy duty relief role with the Nats, earned the praise of Johnson and Griffith by his exhibition with his fork ball, which is unloosed from between forked fingers in the same manner as his fast one and takes an eccentric dip as it reaches the plate. Joe Bush, of Red Sox and Yankee fame, was the greatest exponent of this type of delivery.

The regular infielders were at their places today, with Joe Judge on first at the beginning of the practice and Joe Kuhel succeeding him for the greater part of the session. Buddy Myer was on second, Joe Cronin at shortstop and Ossie Bluege at third, and their dash and pep was reassuring as Griffith moved to remark that it was the best fielding quartet in the league.

Carl Reynolds continued to hold the spotlight in the batting practice with his booming drives, hit to all sectors of the park. Manager Johnson was forced to rout the hitters out of the batting box so eager were they to continue their work with the stick.

Bob Goldstein Named Virginia Ring Captain

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 8—Robert Goldstein, of Washington, twice Southern Conference featherweight champion, has been elected to captain the Virginia boxing team for next year.

Goldstein, who has not met defeat in 24 college bouts is regarded as outstanding candidate for American Olympic boxing team. He has lost only two bouts in more than a hundred, once in freshman year to New York Golden Gloves champion and again last winter in semifinals of national amateur tournament.

RAN TO FACE BATTALINO FRIDAY

Polish Welter to Sub for Petrolle, Who Has Stiff Neck.

NEW YORK, March 8 (A.P.).—Eddie Ran, the Polish welterweight with the devastating right hand, tonight was selected to replace Billy Petrolle in a 12-round bout with Christopher (Bat) Battalino at Madison Square Garden, Friday night.

The bout will be at catchweights with Ran scaling about 147 pounds. Battalino, featherweight champion only a couple of months ago, will will come in around 142 pounds.

Petrolle, who has been training hard here for a week for the Battalino match, turned up with a stiff neck today and informed Garden officials he would not be able to appear. The Garden at first decided to postpone the battle until March 23, but determined to go through with the show when it became known that Ran was available.

The Polish slugger knocked out Marty Goldman, of New York in 45 seconds at the St. Nicholas Arena here last night and in his last Garden appearance knocked out Billy Townsend of Vancouver in two rounds.

Battalino, since he quit the featherweight throne, has jumped two divisions. He lingered among the lightweights long enough to knock out Al Singer and Bill Shaw. His match with Ran will be his first among the welterweights.

U. S. Golfers Take Lead Over British

Voigt Again Beats Tolley at Bermuda as Yankees Reach Score of 16-4.

Castle Harbor, Bermuda, March 8 (A.P.).—The United States took a 16-to-4 lead over the British-Bermuda team in an informal international golf test here today. The remaining foursomes will be played tomorrow.

With George Voigt, of New York, again defeating Cyril Tolley, the British-Bermuda captain, the American team won seven matches and halved another in the singles competition.

Although both played erratic golf, Voigt defeated Tolley, one up, when the British player lost his ball on the eighteenth and conceded the match.

P. Miller Jones, Eddie Held, Leonard Martin, Clive Alvord, George Hackl and Charlie Shelton turned in the other American victories while Robert Ley halved his match with H. G. Butterfield.

The scores: Jones defeated Phil Farley, Toronto, 1 up; Held defeated Nicol Thompson, jr., Toronto, 1 up; Martin defeated Arthur Gosling, Bermuda, 3 and 2; Alvord defeated James Pearman, Bermuda, 4 and 3; Sheldon defeated Frank Thompson, Toronto, 3 and 2; Hackl defeated Hal Butterfield, 5 and 3.

Strangler Lewis Weathers Storm of Modern Mat Era

Roebuck, Tomorrow's Foe, Student of Different School; Szabo, Stein, Kley and Other Favorites Show.

STRANGLER LEWIS stands absolutely alone in the field of rassling. He is a wrestler, an extinct species of athletes, except for himself. He always was a wrestler, and the introduction of elbow jabs, stomach butts, tackles, grunts, growls and grimaces to his profession has left him untouched.

The good Strangler, now approaching a quarter of a century devoted to the gentle art of creating misery, prefers to sit around and be ponderous about this matter of wrestling. He is sustained by armlocks and the simpler leg holds, and when the new rassling audiences grow weary of this and clap their hands in dreadful unison, the old gent turns that Lou Wolheim pan to them and with one terrifying look of mixed anger and commiseration tells them that he is doing his best, and that never will he hop about in the fantastic fashion of his new colleagues.

Tiny Roebuck, who he meets tomorrow night at the Auditorium, is a sterling example of the new order in rassling. He does as little wrestling as possible, preferring to butt, tackle and slough his way to decisions. He met defeat two nights ago at the huge paws of Leo Pinetzki, who clipped him on the jaw, knocked his 250-pound frame spinning, and then easily tossed him.

There is a sincerity about Lewis which is commendable but almost boring. In his prone flounderings he is administering more real pain to his opponent than that opponent would receive in two weeks of tumbling about. Lewis, together with Londos, Pojello and, when he wrestles, Joe Turner, is the only matman left who holds on to an opponent in the flying mare. The others let them spin away, spectacularly, and give them plenty of time to recover.

Tried and trusted local favorites make up the rest of tomorrow night's Auditorium card. In the semiwind-up, Sammy Stein and George Hagen match butts. Stein has disappointed local fans by cancellation of his last two scheduled matches here. The night before last he beat George Kotsonaros at Madison Square Garden

Barry Puts Up Great Fight As Godwin Earns Decision

District Redhead Extends Southern Champion; Turner, Van and Portna Score on Knockouts in Alexandria Bouts.

PLUMP REDS BARRY, minus his tonsils, went under the fistic microscope at Portner's Arena last night and, right under the noses of the "expert" Barry doubters, proceeded to exhibit the best fighting of his youthful career. True, Barry's best fell a little short in the opinion of Referee Heinie Miller, who awarded Bob Godwin the decision, but there is no denying that the fast-growing Mohawk boy won a mountain of prestige with his showing.

Not even the fact that Barry had a 26-pound pull in the weights pointed to what was to take place. Godwin, a fine physical specimen, came out prepared to slug his flabby-looking opponent with a vicious left hook, but he found a willing Barry, who, despite a tendency to hold in the early rounds, fought back with a two-handed attack that at times had the fans thinking that the Mohawk boxer might end the fight.

When Godwin, the light-heavyweight champion of the South, and credited with a draw against Maxie Rosenbloom, assured himself that there was a hard task ahead, he went to work and, mainly through cleaner punching, rolled up a lead in the early rounds. However, Barry took everything the Southerner had to offer in the way of body punching and came back throwing gloves.

If Godwin was saving any of his fistic wares for a last round attack, he had no opportunity to show them. The Barry, who was to be taught the boxing lesson, stole the show from the teacher. Barry threw more fists in that eighth round than fans have ever witnessed hereabouts from a heavyweight. Barry was forced to take many in return, particularly that left hook to his side but he kept up a whirlwind attack that carried the fight out of Godwin's reach at that point, at least.

Ringside opinion was divided on the only semblance of a knockdown. Godwin went down on his gloves but bounded to his feet instantly.

The program was one of the best staged under the auspices of the Alexandria Day Nursery, and some 2,000 were on hand.

Gelding Pulls Away Near Finish

Morocco Is Second With My Sis Saving Third.

Bert John Scores in Feature Race at New Orleans.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—Chilly weather and overcast skies did not prevent another large crowd from visiting the home of the Gables Racing Association here this afternoon. Claiming races made up the card with the Bucaratone Claiming Purse serving as the chief attraction. Griffin, odds-on favorite, in the silks of O. Simmons, was guided to an easy victory by Hank Mills over the 1-mile distance, the gelded son of John P. Grier leading Morocco home by a length and a half to return $3.50. The time was 1:40 1-5.

Third money went to My Sis, the early pacemaker, which lost second money by a half length. The race saw age and youth battling for the winner's share, Buddy Ensor piloting Morocco.

My Sis Jumps Into Early Lead

My Sis jumped into the van and drew into a length lead entering the back stretch, with Griffin, Bird of Prey and Hazel Gumberts all close on the trail. Ensor kept Morocco fairly well up in the bunched field, but around the bend he had his mount on the inside, a bad spot unless the horse is in front. Griffin assumed command turning for home and drew away through the final furlong as Morocco made a bold but futile bid. My Sis and Bird of Prey tired in the late stages.

New Orleans, March 8 (A.P.).—Bert John, E. R. Bradley's most consistent performer over the winter turf, outclassed a field of milers in the Golden Meadow Purse at the Fair Grounds today.

The three-year old son of Broadway Jones, which has been out of the money only once in his last eight starts, took the lead at the head of the stretch and drew away to easily defeat S. W. Labrot's Open Hearth. W. Diebold's Walter D. was third.

Back among the also rans was Battering Ram, the winner's stablemate and one of the long shots to win the Kentucky derby. The Bradley entry paid $3.40 for $2.

Havana, Cuba, March 8 (A.P.).—Closing strong in the stretch, Eveline F., a five-year old mare from S. Gorbet's stable, outclassed a field of platers in the one and one-sixteenth mile feature at Oriental Park today.

C. E. Lenahan's Tamberlane, well backed in both mutuels and orals, set the early pace but faded before the challenge or Arthur Hullcoat's All Told, which in turn gave way to the winner. All Told finished second, a half length back of Eveline F., with A. G. Tarn's Mozart third.

Little considered in the betting, the winner paid 10 to 1. She ran the distance in 1:47.

Westinghouse Five Due At Bliss Saturday

The champion Bliss five of the Washington Collegiate conference will play host Saturday night to the Westinghouse Club, of Pittsburgh, the game being the feature of an athletic and dance program in Silver Spring Armory, starting at 7:30 o'clock. The visiting team at present is a leading contender for the honors in an A. A. U. district tournament in the Smoky City, and numbers among its players Charles Holt, who performed on the court for Bliss in 1928.

In a preliminary game the crack Takoma-Silver Spring team, champion of the Montgomery County High School League, will meet Business High. A dance will follow the feature game. Bliss will play Westinghouse in a return contest in Pittsburgh on March 18.

PASS IN REVIEW, outrun from the break, slipped through next the inside rail rounding the far turn and closed courageously under the whip. He was up in the last stride. PRINCETON, in hand until rounding turn into home stretch, where he went to the front with a rush and tired badly last sixteenth when put to a drive. ORKIN outgamed TIGER PRINCE at end. MORTIME showed lot of early speed, but stopped after going three furlongs.

LINE OF FIRE, very slow to begin, gradually improved his position, but was driving to the limit at end to stall off PREPARE. Latter, outrun first three furlongs, worked his passage up on the outside and closed with a rush. He would have been second in another stride.

BOUNDING DEEP dropped back at start, worked his way up on outside and closed a big gap. SPECTACULAR was in close quarters around first turn, losing ground, but clear after reaching bend and made up a world of ground when able to run. JIMMIE L. displayed good early foot, but found distance too far.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Tropical Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

TROPICAL PARK, Miami, Fla., March 8.—From a time standpoint, the fourth race, feature tomorrow at Tropical Park, will be a close fit, but DEDICATE is selected over THE HEATHEN and JACK HOWE. The three won their respective races last out, all within a week, but DEDICATE showed more early speed than the others, and won in 1:06 2-5, the exact time in which JACK HOWE won the 5½ furlongs of his race.

THE HEATHEN went 6 furlongs, winning in 1:12 2-5, showing a return to form. The sole point in the form is that DEDICATE beat a better field than the others, and, after assuming a commanding lead, drew away without effort.

FIRST RACE—IPRAL seems best of the large field of 2-year-olds. Juveniles are running 4 furlongs now, and IPRAL, last out, was second to Helios, beaten a head, and the time equaled the track record. LEBRUYERE won the race previous to his last from My Counsellor, and is rated the contender. FRETWORK can do better than recent races reveal, and should get third money.

SECOND RACE—LADY ARA should have a good chance. Third to Make Speed in a recent race, she appears ready for brackets. The contenders seems to be STRATEGY and SANCROFT, in the order named. SANCROFT moved along well in recent races, but was outclassed.

THIRD RACE—MOVE ALONG is selected. Two races back he was second, in front of Fair Blanche. This is the best showing of any horse in the ordinary field. FOOLISH FELLOW has a chance for place, and JIMMIE C should figure in the race. But the entire field is so devoid of class that one horse may be as good as any other, and it is seldom poorer material is offered from which to judge.

FIFTH RACE—PHANTOM ROCK, appears a solid favorite, on his race which he won Saturday last from RUBRIDGE at the same distance in good time. As RUBRIDGE is entered again, it seems the two should again finish first and second. EL PUMA, third in the above race, should again be in on the show money. PHANTOM ROCK beat these by three lengths.

SIXTH RACE—BOGAN should win the sixth. The Moran horse was second to Dedicate last out, and finds his best distance in the mile. WANDERING GOLD, best in the mud, turned in a fast race on a fast track the other day when he was second by a length to War Saint, and should be the contender against BOGAN. MARABOU can hold the others safe for third money.

SEVENTH RACE — TANTALIZING, running in best form last week, won a mile race from Miss Chilla, and should be at better advantage in the seventh, which is at a longer distance. He is picked to win by a close margin over TACK. STELLANOVA is dangerous and won his last start Saturday, beating Wrack Royal by two lengths. He should get in the money.

DUKE WINTER GRID DRILLS NEAR END

First, Second Teams in Game Saturday as Closer.

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., March 8.—Winter football practice at Duke will be brought to a close Saturday afternoon by a regulation game between the first and second teams of the preseason forces. The contest will start at 3 o'clock. During the past few weeks of practice there has been keen rivalry between members of the two teams for the "call" on the first eleven and a real battle is expected in this contest, which will be their first meeting.

There is little difference in their strength. First one and then the other has shown superiority in scrimmages with the all-American reserves.

The lineups of the two teams are unknown but it is likely that Coach Wade will use a set of veteran backs on one eleven and a crew of freshmen on the other, while the lines will be composed of both old and new men.

Fresh Backfield Looks Good

The back-field combination of Ershler, Mason, Laney, vets, and Cornelius, frosh, ran well against the reserves last week and will probably be used on one team Saturday. Abbott, veteran, and Cox, Bryan and Kellar, freshmen, composed another set of runners last week, and may be used together again.

In the line the Duke coach will draw from Lineweaver, Wentz, J. Dunlap and Tarrall, frosh, and James and Rogers, vets, for his ends; Phipps, Porreca, Pope, Rickards, Andrews and Williams, frosh, and Werner, Daugherty and Means, vets, for his guards and tackles, and Sink, veteran, shifted from guard, and E. Dunlap, frosh, centers.

Coach Wade is well pleased with the way the boys have been working this winter, stating that this year's candidates look a good deal better at this time than the 1931 team did. "The backs are running better, everyone is blocking better," the Duke coach said.

West Virginia Amateurs To Hold Boxing Tourney

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 8.—All amateur boxers of West Virginia have been asked to compete Thursday and Friday, April 7 and 8, in a State championship boxing tournament to be held at the American Legion Armory at Morgantown, under auspices of the Morgantown Athletic Club.

The tournament has been sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union and is the first affair of the kind ever to be held in West Virginia.

Specially designed State championship medals will be awarded the winners of each class and silver medals will be given the runners-up. A team trophy will be awarded the club scoring the most points on a basis of 5 points for firsts, 3 for seconds and 1 for losers in the semifinals.

All entrants must be at least 18 years of age. The entries will close April 4. No entry fees will be charged. All entries should be sent to the club at 248 Wil●y street, Morgantown, or John T. Taylor, room 37, Vandergrift Building, Pittsburgh.

TRAINING FIVE WINS.

The National Training School five last night ended its season by avenging an early-season defeat at the hands of the Ross Jewelers. The score was 58-23, with Brown almost single-handedly winning the game. He scored 20 points.

This was the Training School team's twelfth victory in eighteen games.

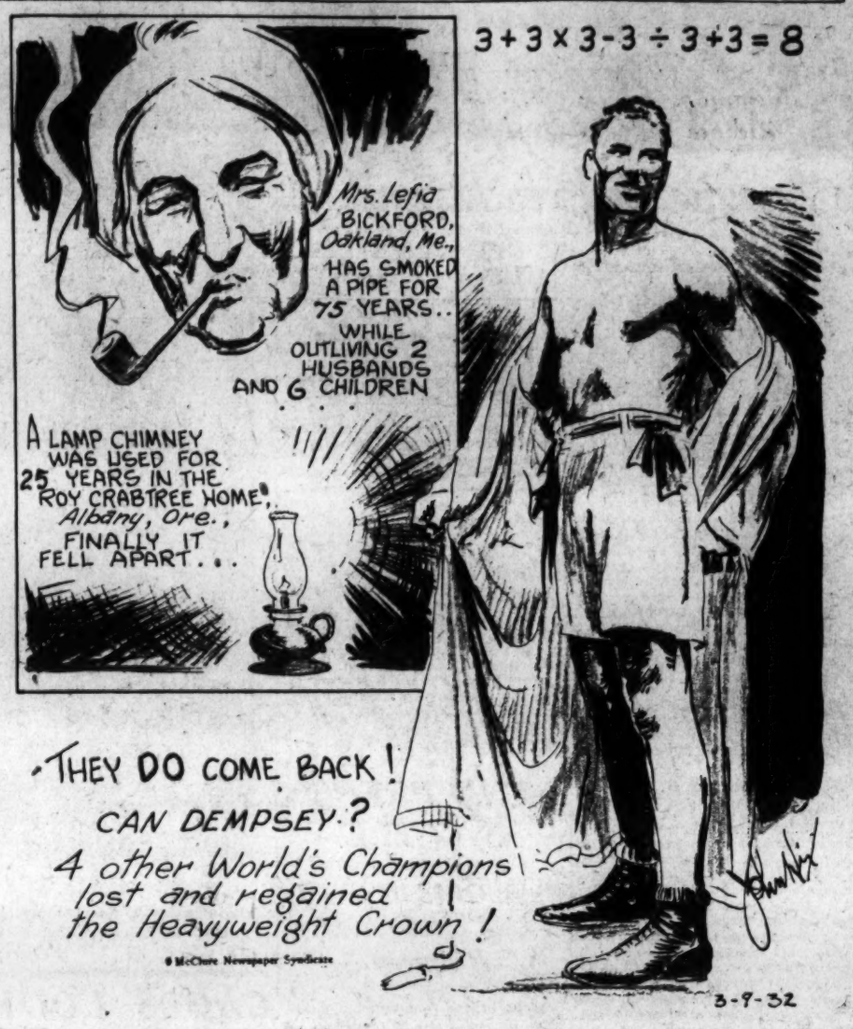
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



OVER five years since he lost the world's heavyweight boxing championship, Jack Dempsey is traveling the comeback road. They never come back, they all say . . . but they do come back.

Heavy over the head of any champion who attempts a comeback, hangs this old axiom, and it held true in Dempsey's last trial.

It has been a long time since a world's champion succeeded in regaining his lost crown, but there are records of four champions who did . . . Ben Caunt was twice world's champion; also Darts, Ward and Bendigo, who came back twice . . . each time after a five-year layoff.

Bendigo, whose real name was William Thompson, became champion in 1839, when he beat James Burke, an English deaf-mute, near Appleby, England. Burke had visited America four years earlier, but had no trouble doing away with what little opposition he could find.

In 1840, Bendigo injured a knee in a fight with Ben Caunt and was unable to continue. The crown was awarded to Caunt, and Bendigo retired.

In 1845, Bendigo staged his comeback. He challenged Caunt and knocked him out . . . after 93 rounds of fighting!

Bendigo again retired for five years, but accepted the challenge of Tom

DODGERS THREATEN HERMAN

Club Issues Ultimatum To Star

Must Sign Shortly or Take a Bigger Cut in Salary.

Goslin Is at Browns' Camp Arguing for Better Salary.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 8 (U. P.).—Management of the Brooklyn Dodgers warned Outfielder Babe Herman today that unless he agrees to sign his contract within a few days a new contract calling for a salary of less than $15,000 will be drafted. Herman is holding out for $19,000, the amount received last year.

Dodger Yannigans defeated Dodger Regulars in today's practice game, 10-5. Day, Shaute and Mungo pitched for the scrubs, and Quinn and Gallivan for the regulars. Murray Howell, rookie outfielder, was the batting star, with a triple and three singles.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—With Oscar Melillo, Fred Schulte and Eddie Grimes in uniform for the first time today, the 1932 Browns have approached their wartime strength.

There are still six "official" holdouts, however, Goslin, Kress, Stewart, Collins, Ferrell and Bengough. Goose Goslin is here trying to reach an agreement, and Bengough is on his way to camp, expecting to sign upon his arrival.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8 (A.P.). Manager Bill McKechnie promised his Boston Braves a batting drill today, and he gave it to them. Every pitcher on the Tribal roster was pressed into service and the happy batters whacked away at the ball until their arms tired. The practice gave McKechnie several pointers on his new pitchers. He noticed several throwing the ball from their sides and ordered them to pitch loosely from in front of their bodies, as most big leaguers do.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 8 (U.P.).—Connie Mack reiterated today that the Philadelphia Athletics will start the season with the same line-up that lost the world's series to the St. Louis Cardinals last fall.

Mack's statement was in answer to a widespread impression that the sensational hitting and fielding of Recruit First Baseman Ossie Roettger in the exhibition games meant that Jimmy Foxx would be switched to the third base.

"I still feel the same way about our line-up as I have all along," said Connie. "I'm using Roettger at first base now because I'm anxious to see what he can do. I know what Foxx and Dykes can do."

Savannah, Ga., March 8 (A.P.).—Marty McManus, veteran infielder, reported today to complete the Boston Red Sox training squad. He was a bit too stout to get into his old uniform and Manager "Shano" Collins gave him a few days to thin out.

The other infielders sped through a short workout, during which Van Camp held down first base, Dashiell and Olsen alternated at second, Rhyne and Warstler at short and Miller and Pickering at third.

Manager Collins' stomach gave him trouble and forced him to postpone the first Regular-Yanigan practice game.

Tampa, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds, known prominently as weak stickers, are starting the new season right where they left off with light hitting last year.

The regulars got only 2 hits in a 6-inning intra-camp game today and only 3 safeties in a 9-inning tilt against a local amateur team Sunday.

The regulars were beaten today, 4 to 1 by the rookie squad. Si Johnson, Owen Carroll and Al Eckert are down for three innings each against the St. Louis Cardinals at Bradenton tomorrow.

Bradenton, Fla., March 8 (A.P.).—Jim Bottomley gave a flash of his batting punch at the Cardinal workout here today, and put so much steam behind his line drives, Manager Gabby Street warned him not to overdo it.

Frankie Frisch, who spent his second day in camp found that he has more weight to take off than in previous years. In making a trip to Japan with the baseball tourists and going around the world, he missed the skating and hunting which kept him in condition in other winters.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8 (U.P.). Jesse Hill, one time football great and now a rookie Yankee outfielder, threatens to rob Ben Chapman of his distinction as fastest man on the club. Hill displayed amazing speed today in robbing Crosetti of a home run with a running catch, and later circling the bases on a ball that went between Byrd and Chapman.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 8 (U.P.). George Knothe, the Phillies' new infielder, was painfully injured today when hit in the face by a bounding grounder. His right eye was closed completely and his teeth loosened. The injury climaxed a six-inning game between the regulars and reserves, in which honors were even, with three runs apiece. Pitching work was divided between three rookies and a reserve of last year. Chuck Klein led the attack with a triple and a single. Taitt, Todd and V. Davis secured triples, and a quartet of doubles was garnered by Whitley, Hurst, Connell and Mallon.

New Orleans, La., March 8 (U.P.).—Monte Pearson, youthful right-hander from the Pacific Coast League, continued to impress Manager Roger Peckinpaugh today with his dazzling fast ball. Pearson went to the mound in batting practice and his pitches had many of the Indian regulars swinging wildly.

Howard Craghead, Roxie Lawson and Oral Hildebrand have been nominated to pitch the second exhibition game tomorrow with the New Orleans Pelicans.

San Antonio, March 8 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox were forced inside to do their training today when a stiff Northern wind hit San Antonio.

The squad retired to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium to pitch the medicine ball around and limber up.

Declining temperatures and a forecast of probable snow and rain the remainder of the week made Manager Lew Fonseca make further arrangements for the use of the gymnasium.

Santa Catalina Island, Calif., March 8 (A.P.).—Young Mike Kreevich, who came to the Chicago Cubs from Des Moines of the Western League, as an outfielder, may be retained as an infielder.

Manager Rogers Hornsby used Kreevich at shortstop in several intercamp games last week and he handled himself well enough to get special attention. He also has shown signs of being able to hit, which would give him an edge over Bill Jurges, the leading utility infielder prospect.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8 (A.P.). The Gehrigs walloped the Ruths, 11 to 2, in the New York Yankees' practice game today as the recruit right-hander Johnny Allen, turned in another impressive performance.

Pitching three innings for the winners, Allen allowed only two hits and struck out four men. Vernon Gomez and Hormidas Aube were the other pitchers for the Gehrigs. Gehrig and Ruth went hitless, but Jack Saltzgaver and George Selkirk contributed three hits apiece.

San Francisco, Calif., March 8 (A.P.).—A team of Detroit Tigers, mostly recruits, pounded out a 12-to-7 victory over the Seals, of the Pacific Coast League, today in the opening game of the Tigers' spring training schedule.

Art Herring, who pitched the first three innings for the Tigers, allowed five hits, but was credited with the victory. He, Elon Hogsett and Roy Johnson were the only veterans in the line-up. To protests of the Seals' management over the dearth of regulars in the game, Manager Bucky Harris of the Tigers responded that no one knows but that the recruits in the field may be this year's regulars.

Pyne, C. U. Star, Lone Entry From D. C. in A. A. U. Bouts

Takes on Jeffries, Philadelphia Amateur Champion, in One of 10 Bouts Listed at Ritchie Coliseum Saturday Night.

DANNY PYNE, Catholic University boxer, who has made a clean sweep of all his collegiate bouts during the past two years, doubtless will meet the sternest test of his career Saturday night in the Eastern amateur championship battles that will be staged in Ritchie Coliseum, at College Park.

Pyne will meet one of the best 175 pounders in amateur fistic circles when he swaps punches with Ray Jeffries, Philadelphia champion, rated as an outstanding candidate for the Olympic team. Pyne also has Olympic aspirations, and the bout should pretty well determine his chances of making the American team.

At present Pyne is the only boxer in this immediate section on the ten-bout card. Bobby Goldstein, Washington boy, as a member of the University of Virginia team, has been the sensation of Dixie ring circles, was invited, and would have accepted had not examinations interfered.

In the nine bouts definitely arranged, there are six New Yorkers, two Philadelphians, six Baltimoreans, one New Englander, a Navy scrapper and one from Richmond, in addition to Pyne. A Boston fighter will figure in the tenth bout that is in the making.

All of the bouts will be under A. A. U. rules and will be at three rounds. Reserved seats, which will be $1 and $1.50, were to go on sale today at Spalding's, 1338 G street.

C. U. Enters Dan Pyne In College Title Bouts

Washington will be represented in the intercollegiate boxing tournament at State College, Pa., it was determined yesterday, when Catholic University filed the entry of its star light heavyweight, Danny Pyne, for the big event, which will serve as an Olympic try-out.

Pyne has been undefeated in two years of collegiate boxing and holds the light heavy title of the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. Pyne is now training with the aid of Frank Fullam, former C. U. middleweight, who turned pro last year after winning the national amateur championship.

The victory sent the Big Five out into the same bracket with the Knights of Columbus, making possible one of the greatest "naturals" of the tournament. The clubs have played twice this year and hold a victory apiece. The classic will be played early next week.

Off to a slow start, the J. C. C. still was able to pile up a 20-4 lead at the turn. There was no stopping it in the second half. Lester Singman was a nose better and more aggressive than the rest of the team, but his colleagues were little behind. Hanger and N. Moore were the least luckless of the losers.

A. Z. A. Five Triumphs Over Mount Rainiers

The A. Z. A. Fraternity of the Jewish Community Center last night scored over the Mount Rainier 130-pounders, 20 to 14. Both teams were strictly on the defensive at the start, the result being that they were tied at 2-all at the end of the first quarter. At the intermission the A. Z. A.'s were in front, 10 to 5, and from then on things began to hum.

F. Mathias uncorked some good shooting to let the Mount Rainiers pull up to 15-12 as the third period ended, and to 15-14 as soon as the fourth got under way. The Mount Rainier bubble burst here, though, and the A. Z. A. lads pulled away to win by six points.

Abelman's long shots and the fine floor work of Goldberg was outstanding for the winners, while F. Mathias carried practically all of the Mount Rainier scoring punch. During the final three minutes of the game the Mounts had the ball most of the time, but, due to overanxiety, all of their scoring efforts failed.

Western Flash Five Downs Y. M. C. A. Eagles

The "Y" Eagles, much lighter than their opponents, failed to get started soon enough in their 115-pound class game with the Western Flashes and so were nosed out, 17 to 14. The Eagles were unable to score in the first period but guarded so closely that at half-time they were trailing by but two points, 4 to 2.

The third period showed the Eagles on the upgrade and, midway in the fourth, they inserted a lad named Leech, who did not appear to weigh more than 50 pounds. He was all pep, however, and led his team in a rally which all but knotted the string. After the Flash lead had been cut down to 15-13, Haines, of the Eagles, missed two charity tosses which would have tied the score.

This was the last Eagle threat, however, for the Flashes called on their greater weight and experience and drew away to victory.

E. Herron, of the losers, and Duvall, of the Flashes, were the game's high guns, each tallying 8 points.

The fans hardly got a good look at Bob Turner, of Newport News, in the semifinal, and it was all his own fault. Turner bounded out of his corner at Henry Irving and caught the Washington boy with a left hook that sent him down on his side for a nine count. When Irving got up, Turner caught him with a right and then a left as Irving was stumbling away, and the counting was a formality. Irving weighed 161 to Turner's 154.

Two hard-fought battles and a pair of knockouts marked the four-rounders. George Esrick was awarded a decision over Willie Essinger in a fine match that might have been called a draw, while Pete Powell, with a 10-pound advantage, won from Tommy Horn.

Young Van, with two straight knockouts to his credit, took on supposedly stronger opposition in Fighting Dick, with the same result. After a first round that was fairly even, Van floored Dick with a body punch. Dick barely failed to get off his knees at the count of ten.

DELAY IS REQUESTED ON STREET CLOSING

Congress Postponement, Due to Disagreement, Asked by Commissioners.

Because of differences of opinion with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission the District Commissioners yesterday recommended to Congress that no action be taken at this session on the pending bill to authorize the Commissioners to close streets rendered useless without special acts.

The basis of the disagreement with the planning body is a clause in the measure which would require the park agency to approve any street closing the Commissioners might order.

"The closing of the street is a municipal matter in which the Commissioners are vitally concerned," the report to the Senate and House District committees states. "Since the Commissioners are responsible, for traffic conditions, surface drainage, sewer and water mains, underground utilities, &c., they are in a better position to know the necessity of any action contemplated by this bill."

The report explains that the National Capital Park and Planning Commission has been invited to join in the preparation of a codification of all laws and parts of laws applying to highways, streets and alleys. Once this is done, the Commissioners add, a new bill will be forwarded to Congress.

Should Congress insist upon acting on the measure at this session, however, the District heads recommend that the objectionable clause be eliminated and also suggested certain other minor changes in the bill.

Twins Win Prizes At Food Exposition

Baby Popularity Contest Also Attracts at the Auditorium.

A baby popularity contest for infants between 6 months and a year old, held in the afternoon, and an adult twins contest last night, marked yesterday's program of the United Food Stores exposition in the Washington Auditorium.

The baby contest was won by Patricia Anne Williams, 8 months old, daughter of Mrs. Mary C. Williams, of 532 Ninth street northeast, who was selected as "most popular" of 23 contestants entered in the event. The winner was awarded a silver loving cup as prize.

The twins in the contest last night deemed most alike were Carl and Norman Andress, 16 years old, of 502 E street northeast. The two selected as least alike were Hal and Leon Miller, 25 years old, of 128 Rhode Island avenue. All four received prizes from the sponsors of the food show.

In addition to another baby contest this afternoon, limited to infants from 1 year to 18 months old, a contest to determine the tallest and heaviest patrons at the show will be held in the evening, with valuable prizes awaiting winners.

Heart Disease Blamed For Motorist's Death

A verdict of "death from natural causes" was returned last night by a coroner's jury which investigated the death of Jacob Berlin, of Bowie, Md., who was found dead in his auto after a slight accident on the Defense highway Monday. The jury, impaneled by Magistrate Louis Gundling, decided that Berlin died of heart disease, causing his uncontrolled car to run into one driven by Charles A. Gude.

Mr. Berlin will be buried today after funeral services in Baltimore. He was well known in Bowie, where he had conducted a store for many years.

Republicans and Democrats alike took part in the toast, proposed by Representative Alfred J. Bulwinkle, of North Carolina, president of the association. A program of entertainment and music by the United States Marine Corps Orchestra followed the dinner.

As past national commander of the American Legion, Ralph T. O'Neil was the guest of honor. Other guests and speakers included Samuel P. Town, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic; former Senator Rice Means, past commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans; E. Claude Babcock, commander in chief of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and Henry L. Stevens, jr., national commander of the American Legion.

Representative Lamar Jeffers, of Alabama, was in charge of the program.

Federal Pay Slash Plea of Woodrum

Virginia Member of House Asks Reductions From Cabinet Down.

(Associated Press.)

A call for Federal salary reductions "from the Cabinet down" was made last night by Representative Woodrum (Democrat), Virginia, chairman of an appropriations subcommittee. Speaking over a radio network, the Virginian said the pay roll cut is a "duty of Congress" for which "there appears to be no alternative."

Up to this time, he pointed out, the committee has recommended no salary slashing, and its plan to stop automatic promotions and pay increases for Treasury-Postoffice employes was blocked in the House.

With "every line of business and industry" feeling "the stinging lash of the present economic distress," he said, "it now appears to me to be the duty of Congress" immediately to legislate the decrease.

THEORY OF MATTER BASED ON 'ATOMERG'

North Carolina University Scientist Announces Smallest Unit.

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 8 (A.P.). The "atomerg," a unit of matter smaller than anything hitherto known, was announced tonight in a new theory of matter by Dr. E. K. Pyler, associate professor of physics of the University of North Carolina.

The atomerg, he said, is a tiny particle of light, that is, of energy, probably electrical. Its probable size in grams is represented by a decimal point, followed by 47 ciphers and the figure seven.

most or all of the material things in nature are made of atomergs as building blocks. Although he said his researches have not progressed to the point of proof yet it is likely that matter, energy, electricity, magnetism, electrons, protons and photons are simply different manifestations of bundles of atomergs.

Dr. Plyler held that his theory does explain "in a descriptive way all phenomena of light." Physicists have agreed for several years that light in some mysterious way behaves both like waves and like particles. The new theory explains the actions of light wholly as particles. Among the light phenomena which Dr. Plyler said are explained logically by assuming the existence of atomergs are the quantum theory, X-ray and Einstein's relativity equations showing the change in mass of a moving body due to a change in its motion.

Physicists and chemists have discovered that energy changes proceed by jumps. For example, as the heat of ice in liquids increases chemists have produced actual ocular evidence that it rises in jumps, or steps, instead of gradually as laymen believe. This change by jumps, Dr. Plyler says, is fully explained by his atomergs.

He spoke before the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society. His studies have been under way for several years.

The atomerg would be much smaller than the new neutron announced a few days ago from Cambridge University. The neutron is made of one or more protons and electrons bound closely together, while the atomerg is only one of the particles composing either an electron or a proton.

Redrafting of Proposed Insurance Law Ordered

A bill to require insurance companies hereafter incorporating in the District to keep their principal records here was referred back to the corporation counsel for redrafting by the insurance and banking subcommittee of the House District committee.

Chairman Byron B. Harlan (Republican), Ohio, recommended that its scope be enlarged to embrace insurance companies doing business in Washington at the present date. Herbert L. Davis, superintendent of insurance, testified on the measure.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PERITONITIS.

A. L. WRITES: Please write something about peritonitis. Is there no cure for the disease? When does this disease occur?

REPLY.

It is plain that you have many ideas about peritonitis, and some are incorrect. You think of it as a disease that is not related to other diseases. On the contrary, it is almost always secondary to other diseases—a complication of them—and the answer to your question about cure hinges on those relations.

The peritoneum is a membrane which covers the abdominal organs and serves the same purpose, in some measure, for those located in the alcove of the abdomen, known as the pelvis. It is a simple, frail membrane with no important work to do, not exposed to much, and fairly well set out of harm's way. It becomes inflamed because of infection or injury. If a man has an appendicitis, and the infection travels from the appendix to the peritoneum, he has peritonitis. But we will have a better estimate of conditions if we think of the case as one of peritonitis as a complication, rather than as a case of peritonitis.

The same reasoning holds true when the infection is primary in the gall bladder and secondary in the peritoneum. And so with peritonitis following obstruction of the bowels, strangulated hernia, puerperal sepsis, abscess of the kidney and all the rest.

If the peritonitis is limited to the peritoneum around the appendix, for instance, we say it is localized; otherwise, that it is generalized.

If a man is kicked in the abdomen or shot in that region, he is liable to have inflammation of the peritoneum as the result of the injury, or because of spread of infection, or both. Tubercular peritonitis sounds like an exception to these rules, but even in that disorder the infection spreads to the membrane from some point of entrance, or some infected organ.

And then to your question—is there no cure? If a man has an appendicitis he is in trouble even when everything is going well. To have the infection get away and involve the peritaneum adds to the dangers and lessens the chance of cure. Whenever an infection breaks out of bounds, regardless of where it is, the dangers are increased and cure is more difficult. It does not follow that peritonitis is an incurable disease, or that appendicitis plus peritonitis carries with it reason for loss of all hope. Most cases of peritonitis recover. Many require operation, others do not. Some are more curable than others. It is the extent of the infection, its kind, and the nature of the primary trouble that have most to do with fixing the degree of curability of peritonitis.

BOILS AND PIMPLES.

Mrs. A. R. S. writes: Will the elimination of sweets, fat meats and greases from one's diet do away with an acid condition, prevent boils and help do away with pimples?

REPLY.

Acid condition, boils, and pimples are something of a conglomeration. Sweets, fat meats and greases make up another conglomeration of sometimes unrelated items.

In the prevention of pimples, diet has a somewhat minor place. It is of less importance in boils. It may be of importance in acidosis and acid condition, whatever that is.

SIMPLE OLD REMEDY.

W. F. N. writes: To get speedy relief and help cure a cold I have found by cutting an end of a lemon off, sprinkling salt on it, and taking a suck of it every once in a while it will do wonders in most cases. By passing along the above simple remedy you will receive the blessing of nearly every one that tries it.

REPLY.

JAUNDICE IS A SYMPTOM.

Mrs. W. writes: Kindly let me know what causes yellow jaundice, and if it is curable, and how long it takes to cure it. Is it contagious?

REPLY.

Jaundice is merely a symptom. The answers to your questions depend on the cause of the symptom. In jaundice there is an excess of bile in the blood and the tissues. Among the causes are cancer, other tumors, cirrhosis, gallstones, malaria, yellow fever, infection of the bile passages. A few of these diseases are contagious; most of them are not.

TREATING CHILBLAINS.

T. C. S. writes: As a boy living a frontier life I had for several years ague, itch, and chilblains. The ague and itch during their attacks were most agreeable compared to the chilblains, which gave the sensation of a thousand mosquitoes or fleas all injecting poison into my feet at the same time. I was told to make a strong brine of common salt and for three or more consecutive evenings soak my feet in the brine (made as hot as I could stand it) for half an hour or more. I am now past 80 and have never had chilblains since using the hot brine remedy.

Murphy Company Makes Forecast for Upswing After Deflation.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A forecast of business recovery was issued yesterday through the local office of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange. Commenting on the present critical economic situation, this message reads, in part: "We believe that the worst of the storm has passed. The extent to which deflation has taken place is not generally realized. Stock exchange loans have nearly disappeared and recognized stock price averages have declined more than 75 per cent. Many commodities are selling at prices not seen for a generation and others are at levels lower than ever previously recorded.

"The market values of State, municipal, real estate and other domestic bonds in general also indicate a large measure of deflation. The same thing is true of the market values of foreign bonds. To all intents the individual has adjusted his ideas of capital values to conform to current market levels. In other words, the American people admit their losses, an essential prerequisite to rebuilding."

Retail trade of Washington department stores still maintained its favorable position in comparison with that of other cities of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, the monthly review of Chairman William W. Hoxton, of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, reveals. While January sales locally were 16.3 per cent under those of the month last year, Richmond sales were 22.1 per cent below; Baltimore sales, 19.7 below; other cities of the district, 22.1 per cent below, and those of the district as a whole, 18.9 per cent below.

Record Is Established.

An unusual record was established in 1931 by the railroads of the United States and Canada, which in that year transported millions of pounds of dangerous explosives, millions of gallons of gasoline, as well as enormous quantities of acids, compressed gases, corrosive and poisonous liquids and hundreds of other dangerous articles without the loss of a single life, and with injury to only twenty persons.

This was shown by a report submitted by Col. B. W. Dunn, chief inspector, at the annual meeting held yesterday of the members of the Bureau of Explosives, which includes 465 railroads, operating more than 307,000 miles of line.

Ice Subsidiaries Profits.

American Ice Co. and subsidiaries, for the year ended December 31, report net profits, after all charges, of $2,831,859, equal to $3.55 on the common stock, as compared with $3,260,271, or $3.93 in 1930.

Consolidated balance sheet shows current assets of $2,862,719 and current liabilities of $1,681,376, an increase of $1,180,593 during the year. Charge-off for depreciation and maintenance was $2,437,820; bonded indebtedness was decreased from $5,846,000 to $5,694,000; surplus increased from $7,767,871 to $8,347,887.

In his letter to stockholders, President Charles C. Small states that the amount of ice sold last year as measured in tons was off only about 1 per cent from the record figures of 1930. Says Mr. Small: "The company's program of construction and reconstruction of its ice plants has been completed and the condition of the physical plant throughout is excellent.

"It is interesting to note that the company now has more common shareholders than at any time in its history, the increase during the past four months being about 22 per cent."

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—The first comparative gain in J. C. Penney Co.'s sales in 21 months was reported for February. Last month's business amounted to $9,586,397 against $9,526,550 in February, 1931, an advance of six-tenths of 1 per cent. E. C. Sams, president, said that immediately after the holidays "there were rather definite indications that people were buying more readily than they had been for several months."

February factory shipments of Cadillac and La Salle cars totaled 2,058 units compared with 1,633 in February last year.

The report of Safeway Stores, Inc., of Maryland, and subsidiaries, for the year ended December 31 shows net income of $5,415,590, after depreciation, interest and Federal taxes, equivalent to $6.34 a share. This compares with net income in 1930 of $3,749,901, equal to $4.82 a share.

Youngstown advices say that the Republic Steel Corporation, Niles, Ohio, sheet plant, idle for several days, will resume production tomorrow. Another idle steel mill is also expected to resume by the end of the week.

With few exceptions hardware wholesalers received more orders for a number of items during February than in January, and each week is showing an accumulation of the momentum toward improvement, says a survey by R. G. Dun & Co. This improvement in trend is also being felt by many retailers, the survey asserts.

Stockholders of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. were informed at the annual meeting today that the company has under consideration a plan of recapitalization, which will be announced in the near future.

H. C. Richard, chairman of the finance committee of the Manufacturers Trust Co. of New York, and R. M. Fisher, treasurer of the Midland Steel Products Co. of Cleveland, were added to the Midland directorate today.

American Power & Light Co., one of the larger companies in the Electric Bond & Share group serving about 1,200 communities, reports for the year ended last December 31 net income of $14,806,767 against $17,448,738 in 1930. After payment of preferred dividends, this was equivalent to $2.04 a share earned on the common stock outstanding at the end of the year against $3.21 the year before on a slightly smaller total outstanding.

LEADING RAILROADS EARN '31 EXPENSES

Class 1 Lines Come Out Whole, Despite Revenues Drop of Billion.

(Associated Press.)

Although operating revenues of the large railroads of the country decreased more than $1,000,000,000 in 1931, the class one roads, as a whole, made more than enough to pay their fixed charges of that year.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday made public summaries of tabulations by its bureau of statistics showing that class one railroads were capitalized at $19,295,571,388 at the end of 1931 as compared with $19,285,066,685 in 1930, an increase of $10,504,703.

Operating revenues in 1931 were $4,188,343,237 as compared with $5,280,829,680 in 1930, a decrease of $1,092,486,443.

The roads had net railway operating income totaling $525,678,252 and income from other sources of $298,077,860 making a total income of $823,756,112. During 1930 net railway operating income was $868,753,501; other income $349,659,764, making a total of $1,218,413,265.

Dividend payments made from income and surplus during 1931 totaled $273,788,481 on common stock and $54,654,761 on preference stock. In 1930 common stock dividends totaled $420,982,239 and preferred $85,990,649.

POUND SETS RECORD ADVANCE OF HISTORY

World-Wide Buying Sends Sterling 20 Cents Higher, Closing at $3.73.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Under force of spirited buying which was world-wide in scope, the British pound sterling today figured in one of its most spectacular price rallies in the history of international finance.

The pound opened today at $3.61, an overnight gain of 8 cents, and raced up to $3.73 in early afternoon trading, where it was 20 cents above the closing quotation of $3.53 registered last night.

Foreign exchange dealers in New York said that American buying was in large volume, although bank reports indicated that the bulk of it came from continental Europe. The movement of international capital to London was particularly heavy from Paris, they reported.

At today's price level, the pound showed an appreciation in value of 12 per cent compared with this year's low point of $3.35 touched on January 6.

"The world has turned bullish on sterling," was the explanation advanced by one banker for the sudden buying movement.

In addition to already known factors accounting for the recent change in sentiment, such as Britain's recent payment of $400,000,000 of foreign credits, it was explained that Britain had now completed its work of setting up foreign balances to meet debt requirements, and cessation of this operation had lifted pressure on the pound.

In addition, the movement of French balances to Paris were said to have abruptly ended, with a sudden return flow of money developing, when it became apparent that England's financial position had improved.

The French franc, on the other hand, was under pressure today ruling ½ point lower at 3.92 cents for cables, indicating a continued flow of funds from Paris to London.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

STOCKS started strong near Saturday's 1932 high and closed firm with fractional advances general. A sensational rise in sterling exchange dominated both the security and commodity markets.

BONDS continued their recent strong performance, lead by U. S. Governments and rails.

CURB stocks were active with the oils leading on the belief the new Federal tax bill will discriminate against foreign production.

COTTON was dull but firm, most of the trading being for adjustment between New York and Liverpool quotations on the sterling spurt.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Although the runaway market for British pounds was today's most striking development, securities contributed to a general measure of financial improvement.

Bonds were especially liberal with their advances. Large buying came out for United States Governments and Germans, while gilt-edge domestics rallied confidently. Stocks, after an indifferent start, plunged ahead most of the day, but met enough late selling to hold down net gains to rather moderate proportions.

Several influences, aside from professional stock traders, who feel that the easiest current course is upward, were to be noted in the day's news. Further steps at Washington toward reducing Government expenditures and the prospects of a balanced budget, effected through higher taxes, doubtless buoyed spirits that were quite ready for a stimulant.

In addition, there was word of the material aid already given by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which so far has made loans totaling $183,000,000.

Bonds Show Strength.

The bond market gave further evidence of underlying strength when various classes of securities advanced their prices substantially in somewhat active trading. The average for 60 domestic loans gained 3-10 of a point for the second top record of the year. Sales totaled $13,425,000, nearly $3,000,000 above yesterday's aggregate.

The firmness of United States Government issues, and a spirited rally in practically all of the German obligations, were the features of the session. The railroads, industrials and utilities were not neglected, however, and many of these mortgages were in demand.

The Federal section was subjected to somewhat heavy trading, with two of the Liberties and three of the Treasuries registering new high prices for the year.

Germans In Demand.

The German group was quiet until the latter part of the session, when a strong demand appeared, after the reduction in the Reichsbank rate. The Reichs 5½s advanced more than 5 points at one time and ended the day with a gain of 3 points. The 7s also closed 1½ points higher, while various other German liens added from 1 to 3 points.

Buying of the oil shares again imparted a firm tone to the curb market, despite traces of selling here and there.

The market remained moderately active, with a turnover of roughly 230,000 shares, duplicating yesterday's trade.

Oils were again influenced by the new taxation measure introduced in Washington.

Net gains for U. S. Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse and Case fell short of a point. Nevertheless, the industrial composite closed at a new 1932 high and the general average duplicated last Saturday's top. Sales were 1,626,173 shares.

Steel operations appear about able to hold their own, perhaps showing a shade to the good. The price structure retains its firmness. "American Metal Markets'" opinion in this connection was that higher quotations have "strong chances of success along the line of very mild advances."

COTTON PRICES DROP AFTER EARLY RALLY

Advance in Sterling Blamed for Fluctuations; Liverpool Dealings Mixed

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—The rapid advance in sterling exchange and fluctuations in defference between the New York and Liverpool markets were reflected by irregularity in cotton today, particularly during the early trading.

May contracts after selling off from 7.07 to 7.00 advanced to 7.09 on trade buying and covering promoted by the better tone in the stock market, but eased again in the late trading under renewed realizing and liquidation or local selling. May closed at 7.20, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of to 4 points.

Liverpool cables said the market there had been influenced by heavy general selling on the advance in sterling, but reported a fair demand for cotton cloth from India and China. Exports today were 42,586 bales making 6,184,968 so far this season. In support of its recent statements that foreign spinners are showing a preference for American cotton as against the Indian staple, the New York Cotton Exchange service cites the relative exports of the two growths for the six months' period to the end of January. The United States exported 4,894,000 bales against 4,468,000 in the same period last season, while India exported 987,000 bales contrasted with 1,784,000.

WHEAT PRICES JUMP ON RISE OF STERLING

Heavy Buying by Exporters From Canada Follows; Rye Attracts Notice.

Chicago, March 8 (A.P.).—Sensational advances in the British pound sterling, accompanied by enlarged purchases of North American breadstuffs for shipment overseas, put new backbone into wheat values today.

Exporters were estimated to have sought 700,000 bushels of wheat and 500,000 bushels of rye from Canada and the United States. Persistent severe cold and complaints of insufficient snow protection for domestic winter wheat were a contributing bullish factor.

Provisions were firmer, reflecting upturns in hog values.

RAILWAYS INCREASE HOLDINGS IN ROADS

N. Y. Central and B. & O. Build Up Interests in Other Systems.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Both the New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads increased their interest in other roads last year, it was reported in Wall street today.

New York Central, it is understood, built up its holdings in Delaware, Lackawanna & Western to $7,791,250 in capital stock from $6,566,250 and also increased its position in Pittsburgh & Lake Erie to $21,699,700 from $21,591,700. Baltimore and Ohio, the reports said, brought its holding of Reading Co. common stock to $29,880,000 from $27,435,000 and made small additions of Reading first and second preferred stocks to its portfolio.

Corn Products Income.

Corn Products Refining Co. reported net income for 1931 of $10,700,775, after interest depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, but excluding $1,033,023 net loss on the sale of securities, charged to reserves. This is equal to $3.54 a share on the common stock, and compares with $14,067,689 or $4.86 a share in 1930.

Holdings of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and its securities affiliate, the Virginian Transportation Co., in the common and preferred stocks of the Erie, are said to amount at present to 1,196,390 shares, or about 56 per cent.

Some of this stock is under option, the chief block being 215,000 shares of Erie common on option from Alleghany Corporation.

In addition, C. & O. and its affiliate are known to hold 313,900 shares or 69.6 per cent, of Pere Marquette common.

Dividend Reduced By Western Union

Basis of $4 Annually Is Established by $1 for Quarter.

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Western Union Telegraph Co. today reduced the dividend basis on its stock to $4 annually, the lowest since 1914, when stockholders received payments totaling $3.75.

Directors declared quarterly disbursement of $1 compared with $1.50 three months ago. Prior to that time the stock had paid $2 quarterly since the beginning of 1926. Western Union has made some disbursement in each year since 1873.

Although the 1931 annual report has not yet appeared, earnings of the company are known to have decreased substantially. Newcomb Carlton, president, said after this afternoon's meeting that business was still "flat" and that Western Union had just been able to "break even" in its operations thus far in 1932.

The dividend is payable April 15 to stock of record March 18.

German Bank Reduces Discounts to 6 Per Cent

Berlin, March 8 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank lowered its discount rate today from 7 per cent to 6 per cent. The collateral rate was reduced from 8 per cent to 7 per cent, effective tomorrow.

Pittsburgh Coal Loses $2,300,418 in 1931

Pittsburgh, March 8 (A.P.).—A net loss of $2,300,418.47 for 1931 was reported today by the Pittsburgh Coal Co., one of the largest bituminous coal companies in the world.

This amount, after all expenses, interest, depreciation, and depletion, is more than $1,000,000 greater than the net loss of 1930, when the loss was $1,078,896.

Chadbourne Returns; Reviews Curb on Sugar

New York, March 8 (A.P.).—Thomas L. Chadbourne, author of the sugar stabilization plan, returned today on the steamer Moro Castle from Havana, where he has been for six weeks negotiating with sugar planters to reduce the amount of their crops below the amount allowed under the international sugar agreement.

He said he had succeeded in obtaining the consent of more than half of the planters to this agreement. He denied that the Cuban planters wanted his plan dissolved and that they demanded his resignation as chief arbitrator of the sugar industry. Mr. Chadbourne declined to confirm a report from Havana that he was to sail immediately for Paris to attend the International Sugar Conference, scheduled to open March 16.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 216

This great shaft required 36 years to construct at a cost of $1,130,000. The cornerstone was laid on July 4, 1848, and on December 6, 1884, while a howling gale tore around the lofty platform at the top of the towering shaft, 555 feet above the ground, the 3,300-pound capstone was lowered into place and the aluminum point was cemented into place at the very apex.

Of those who witnessed the laying of the cornerstone nearly 36½ years before, only one was present at the impressive ceremonies on top of the Monument with which the final act of completion was conducted. This was Horatio King, at that time an employe of the Postoffice Department.

FIVE DISTRICT BILLS ARE GIVEN APPROVAL BY GROUP IN SENATE

"Sunday" Feature of Barber Shop Closing Measure Is Eliminated.

TWO BLAINE PROPOSALS ALSO WIN INDORSEMENT

Formation of Real Estate Commission Would Be Provided For.

Five District bills, including the Copeland barber shop closing measure, and two of the Blaine bills for real estate and securities regulation, were approved yesterday by the Senate District committee in executive session.

A favorable report on the Swanson resolution to investigate Potomac sewage conditions, naming the Public Health Service as the inquiring agency, was also ordered. Proposed appropriation of $50,000 for Casualty Hospital repairs and obligations was approved.

The "barber shop Sunday closing bill" received confirmation only after the "Sunday" feature of the measure had been eliminated by amendment. As it now stands, the bill would require local barber shops to close "one day in seven" as a health measure.

Provision Opposed.

Seventh Day Adventists and various antiblue-law organizations opposed the designation of Sunday as the day on which the shops should close. They charged this provision gave the bill a religious tone and provided an entering wedge for blue laws.

The Blaine "blue sky" bill approved yesterday would require all securities brokers and salesmen in the District to register with the Public Utilities Commission, which would administer the provisions of the act. The commission would pass on the merits of stock issues floated in the District, and if necessary bar them from the market.

Real Estate Commission.

The second Blaine bill approved yesterday would set up a Real Estate Commission, composed of three members, including the tax assessor. The commission would license real estate brokers and real estate salesmen, and "protect the public against fraud in real estate transactions."

The Swanson resolution would authorize the surgeon general of the Public Health Service to investigate whether the present method of sewage disposal "constitutes a menace to public health and an annoyance to the residents along the river and destroys the fish and oysters in such river or makes them unfit for human consumption." He would be authorized to determine whether a more suitable method of sewage disposal could be adopted.

Howell Dry Bill Again Is Delayed

Senators Balk at Reporting Measure Without Any Recommendations.

Senate District committee action on the Howell "home raid" bill was again postponed yesterday after members of the committee balked at reporting the measure "without recommendations."

Vote on the bill was delayed, despite concessions made by the author, Senator Robert B. Howell (Republican), Nebraska, who did not ask a favorable report on the proposed legislation for tightening local prohibition enforcement.

Committee "wets" predominated at yesterday's executive session. According to Chairman Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, they favored laying the bill aside until other more pressing matters are disposed of.

"I was the only one at the meeting who seemed to favor the bill," Senator Capper said.

He added that Senator Howell wants to be heard again before the committee takes final action. Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, made the motion to postpone action.

180-Day Sentence Given Gun Carrier

Man Saved From Death on Roof Gets Term in District Jail.

A 180-day sentence in jail was given Harry I. Williams, colored, 22 years old, in Police Court yesterday when he was convicted of carrying a concealed weapon. Another sentence of 180 days was given him for vagrancy, but this latter sentence was allowed to run concurrently with the first.

Williams is the youth who was saved from almost certain death when police pulled him back from a precarious hold on the ledge of the roofing of a six-story apartment building on Park road. Residents of the apartment had called police, and Williams, in an effort to hide, climbed over the railing of the roof and clung there by his finger tips.

He was unable to pull himself back to the roof, and but for a timely discovery of his plight by police he probably would have fallen to the street below.

Girl, 20, in Hospital After Auto Accident

Miss Betty Smith, 20 years old, of 1505 Rhode Island avenue northwest, is in Emergency Hospital suffering from injuries received last night when struck and knocked down by an automobile while crossing the street at Fifteenth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Police said the machine which struck her was driven by William J. Goddard, 42 years old, of 495 Maryland avenue southwest. He was not held. Miss Smith was treated for a possible fracture of the left knee and shock.

MOTORMAN IS HELD IN FIREMAN'S DEATH

Fatal Crash Is Referred To Grand Jury by Coroner's Inquest.

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Clarence S. Jones, street car motorman, held for grand jury action in connection with the death of Private Maurice C. Corbett, of the Fire Department, on the night of February 19 as a result of injuries suffered in a collision between a street car and No. 4 truck of the Fire Department.

Jones was operating the Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car which was in collision with the fire truck at Eleventh and P streets northwest. The fire vehicle was responding to an alarm when the accident took place.

Privates George Clark, driver of the fire truck, and Edward Wolf, tillerman, were absolved of culpability.

Jones testified that he did not see the fire truck nor hear the siren until he was 12 feet from the intersection. He said he then applied the emergency brake, regular airbrake, threw the car into reverse and turned on the valve releasing sand on the tracks.

Wolf said he "did not notice the street car decrease its speed." He testified that he cut the rear wheels of the truck in a desperate effort to clear the oncoming street car.

Henry A. Rettstatt, 3918 First street southeast, a passenger on the street car, testified he heard the truck siren when the street car was a block north of P street. He said that 70 feet from the intersection he was able to see the oncoming fire apparatus.

2 Men and Alleged Liquor Haul Seized

One Car Taken in Alley; Other Traced Through Tag Numbers.

Two men, two automobiles, and 108 gallons of alleged whisky were in the hands of police last night after they cornered an automobile in a blind alley at Twenty-first street and New York avenue northwest.

Isiah Edmunds, colored, 24 years old, of 937 Twenty-fifth street northwest, was charged with transportation, illegal possession of 108 half-gallons of whisky, reckless driving, and failure to exhibit a permit. Charles R. Warring, 24 years old, of 2528 L street northwest, accused by police of driving a convoy car for a load of liquor, was charged with illegal possession and transportation.

Police said the alleged convoy car was blocking the alley and drove off at their approach. It was later seized through the tag numbers, they said. Edmunds, in the alleged liquor car, attempted to drive out of the alley and was arrested. With headquarters police, who made the case, were two Federal prohibition agents.

Hurled Ice Hurts Boy, 8.

A piece of ice hurled by a playmate sent John Chester Caldwell, 8 years old, of 330 Eleventh street southeast, to Casualty Hospital yesterday with a laceration on his head. The boy was playing with four others in front of his home when he was hurt. He was sent home after treatment.

2 HOSPITALS TO GET OXYGEN CHAMBERS

Care Lavished on 2 Gorillas Has Been Well Spent, Dr. Eckhardt Says.

All the medical care that has been lavished on N'Gi and O'Kero has been well spent, Dr. John C. Eckhardt, baby specialist, told the Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens' Association last night. As a result of the attention focused on the plight of the gorillas, he said, two hospitals in the District will have oxygen chambers installed for the aid of pneumonia patients.

Aside from Dr. William M. Mann, Dr. Eckhardt probably knows more about the intimate life of N'Gi than any other person. For it was Dr. Eckhardt, a close friend of Dr. Mann, who prescribed the diet on which N'Gi thrived during his years at the Zoo. N'Gi and O'Kero were reported last night as well on the way to recovery, although O'Kero is still in the oxygen chamber.

Dr. Eckhardt told the association at a meeting in the Northminster Chapel that, in reply to criticism of the lavish treatment accorded the gorillas, it might be pointed out that their illness focused attention to the need of oxygen cabinets in District hospitals.

Because of the wave of robberies in the Sixteenth Street Heights section, the police committee of the association was instructed to make a survey of police protection in all parts of the city to determine if its section is underpoliced.

Destroying Evidence Charged in Dry Arrest

Charges of illegal possession, attempting to destroy evidence, and maintaining a nuisance were placed against Daniel Kelly, of 1104 Eighteenth street northwest, after his arrest by Second Precinct police at his store, 1007 Ninth street northwest, yesterday.

Police said Sergts. R. B. Carroll, R. C. Speith and Detectives E. L. Baker and A. L. Embrey found a half gallon and a pint of whisky in the place. Speith is said to have put the pint in his side coat pocket as evidence. Kelly is accused of tearing off the pocket and breaking the bottle on the floor. He was released under $1,000 bond.

Dentists Told Progress In Nutrition Research

Dr. Henry Klein, research specialist at Johns Hopkins University, was the speaker before the District of Columbia Dental Society at George Washington University last night. Dr. Klein spoke on "Recent Advances in the Relation of Nutrition to the Problem of Dental Caries." He was introduced by Dr. A. E. Rush, chairman of the essay committee. Dr. Herbert C. Hopkins, president of the society, presided.

Robert J. Cottrell, secretary of the Board of Trade, made a short talk on the purposes of the work creation committee of the District of Columbia employment committee, urging the dentists to have any necessary work on homes or grounds done now.

'Sacred Cigarettes' Termed As Newest 'Craze' in Soviet

"Sacred cigarettes" are the latest fad in Soviet Russia, according to J. N. Clinton, foreign service secretary of the National Young Men's Christian Association, who is here as a guest of the Washington Y. M. C. A.

The new cigarettes, widely advertised, are made of tobacco rolled in paper cut from Bibles, Mr. Clinton declared yesterday at a luncheon in his honor given by the local association.

He cited the cigarettes as an indication of the "appalling" spirit of atheism prevalent under the Soviet regime. He expressed the conviction, however, that the great mass of the people in Russia are forced to subscribe to the atheistic doctrine against their conscience.

Russia, on the other hand, is forging ahead educationally, agriculturally and industrially, the Y. M. C. A. official asserted.

The present Sino-Japanese conflict was described as due to the influence and power of the militaristic party now dominant at Tokyo. The speaker predicted that the military faction would fall before many months have passed, and that the civil party would restore peace. Rumblings of rebellion against present war policies already are being heard in Japan, he said.

PREVAILING BIGOTRY HELD TO RIVAL THAT OF DARK LONG AGO

Dr. Adler Tells Tolerance Conference It Passes Understanding Now.

NEWTON BAKER SPEAKS ON BIG HOOK-UP TONIGHT

Prof. Hayes Says Progress in Religious Liberty Depends on Protestants.

This country is in a period of bigotry and illiberalism which might have been pardoned in the Dark Ages but which passes understanding at the present day, Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the American Jewish Committee, yesterday told the National Conference of Catholics, Jews and Protestants, which is meeting at the Willard Hotel to eradicate interfaith prejudices.

Dr. Adler called upon his listeners to engage in something more than lip service in the memory of George Washington and to support not in thought but in deed the first President's dream of religious understanding and freedom of worship.

The climax of the seminar will be tonight, when Newton D Baker will be heard over a coast-to-coast radio hook-up in a plea for tolerance. His speech will be preceded by brief summaries of what has been accomplished during the three days of deliberations.

Causes of Friction.

Progress in religious liberty must depend primarily on the attitude of the Protestant majority, Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes, of Columbia University, told the conference yesterday.

"The majority religion has always the chief responsibility in assuring, as well as proclaiming, religious liberty," he said. "As minorities, Jews and Catholics have been particularly eager for equality of treatment in politics and society; more eager to obtain these things than the Protestant majority to grant them. Thereby friction has been increased."

"The test of religious liberty," the speaker said, "is not the admission to political and social equality of only such persons as believe about the same as we do or are indifferent to religion. It is whether we admit such persons who believe quite differently from ourselves and are zealous in the practice of their religion. While I believe that I am right, I must sincerely respect your belief that you are right."

Issues of Church and State.

In a discussion of modern issues between church and state, Dr. Evarts B. Greene, former president of the American Historical Association, said:

"Contemporary science and literature, whether orthodox in the Christian or Jewish sense, seem to many of our best minds to carry definite religious and ethical implications. Probably no one here would justify the type of legislation which attempts to curb the teacher in the free discussion of a scientific hypothesis like evolution. But I question whether all the issues involved have been fully and frankly met."

Today a luncheon meeting will be held, at which the part of the press in the movement for improving intergroup relations will be discussed. Robert B. Ashworth, editor of The Baptist, will preside. Addresses will be made by Byron Price, of the Associated Press; Michael Williams, editor of The Commonweal, and Alfred M. Cohen, editor of the B'nai B'rith Magazine.

Early Demolition Is Not Scheduled

Grant Urges Consolidation of Government Construction Activities.

Early demolition of the District Building, the State, War and Navy Building, and the old postoffice structure is not scheduled, Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, told the House expenditures committee yesterday.

Col. Grant was called to testify on the proposed consolidation of all Government construction activities under an Administration of Public Works. He indorsed the two measures to bring this about, now pending before the committee.

Although the three old buildings eventually will be torn down, Col. Grant said there is no present need for their destruction. He further stated that the site for the new War Department Building, in the vicinity of Twenty-first and B streets northwest, will not necessitate removal of apartment structures in the neighborhood, as had been reported.

FIVE ONE-ACT PLAYS GIVEN LAST NIGHT IN COMMUNITY'S TEST

EASTERN HIGH SCHOOL SCENE OF TOURNAMENT

Amateurs Give Creditable Performances in Annual Try for Honors.

A program of five plays, three of which will probably make the judges' job a more difficult one, were presented last night at Eastern High School in the third round of the preliminary contest of the 1932 one-act play tournament of the Community Center Department.

"Fog," a gripping drama, was presented by the East Washington Community Players. Taking place in the dim light of a deserted cottage after a bank teller has been held up and killed, the play shows the actions of two crooks, and a neophyte crook. Newell Lusby gave a powerful portrayal of a drunken brute. He was given splendid support by Hazen Shea as the boy who had turned crook, and George Finger, who proved there is gold even in the character of a man with a long criminal record. A thick fog, and the sound of fog horns, lends an eerie atmosphere to the scene.

"No Sabe" Well Presented.

"No Sabe," given by the Montgomery Players, was another creditable presentation in which a murder figured. This story, written by Elisha Cook, revealed the disruption in a home after a man has been killed. The police are on the job, and a boy and girl under a merciless grilling.

Mahlon Selby played the part of the inspector; Thomas P. Dowd, the sergeant of police; Anna Moore Converse, the girl; Stanley True, the boy and Ralph S. Fowler, a Chinese servant who took the blame for the killing of the girl's father to protect the boy.

An outstanding comedy offering of the tournament was "One Little Kiss," the presentation of the drama section of the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase. Written by a Washington woman, Ethelwyn H. Frank, this play is as familiar as the house next door and deals with problems of the present day. Wife, husband, daughter and a woman visitor are the characters, their parts being taken by Grace Clayton, Leslie C. Frank, Lucy Frank and the author, respectively.

Two Other Plays Given.

The two other plays given last night were "The Stoker," presented by the Pierce Hall Players, and "The Man Who Came Back," the entry of the Park View Players. The cast of the first play, relating a tense situation at sea, was composed of Barbara Sinclair, Wilbur T. Betts, who substituted for Sedgley Thornbury, who was ill; Gerald W. Brooks, a member of the Mount Pleasant Players; Vinal Jones, Sally F. Stewart and Paul Alexander.

Elwyn Caskey, Estelle Moore and Nora Bramell were the actors in "The Man Who Came Back," a pathetic story that echoed to the World War.

Sacred Music Program Will Be Given Tonight

A program of sacred music will be given at the Universalist National Memorial Church, Sixteenth and S streets, tonight, beginning at 8:15 o'clock, by the National Capital Choir, Albert W. Harned, organist and director.

Prisoners' Reform Board Is Proposed

Black Sponsors Bill for Indeterminate Term System Here.

Creation of a Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole for the District, replacing the existing Parole Board, was proposed yesterday in a bill introduced by Representative Loring M. Black, Jr. (Democrat), New York.

Three District residents appointed by the Commissioners would serve on the board without compensation. The board would be authorized to examine physical, mental and moral records of prisoners, with a view to recommending proper treatment for reformation.

They would be further empowered to "set a proper release date" for prisoners and to provide for "the rehabilitation of a prisoner in a community." The existing parole board would go out of existence following appointment of the body.

CONNECTION SOUGHT NORTH FROM BRIDGE

Chamber Sees Need of New Road Facilities for the Arlington Span.

Connection of Arlington Memorial Bridge with highway traffic from the north as well as from the south was urged yesterday by the public recreation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce. Immediate popularity of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway was pointed to as an illustration for the need of an extension to the northwest.

The committee indorsed the bill providing for extension of Arlington Memorial Boulevard to Great Falls. Gratification was expressed over the offer by the Roosevelt Memorial Association of Analostan Island as a permanent memorial to Theodore Roosevelt.

The committee reiterated its strong approval of the proposal to erect a Roosevelt coliseum at the end of East Capitol street overlooking Anacostia river.

The committee recommended that the proposed port authority for Washington consist of seven rather than of five members, as proposed in a bill now pending. The two additional members, under the committee's proposal, would be private citizens of the District, interested in promotion of the port of Washington.

Indorsement was given the proposed investigation of conditions resulting from the present method of sewage disposal, charging that the present methods impair the recreational value of public parks and play areas. Approval was given the Capper-Norton alley closing bill. Thomas Slater Settle, chairman of the committee, was congratulated on his appointment as secretary of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The District Commissioners yesterday disapproved of bills intended to exempt the National Society of the United States Daughters of 1812 and the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution from payment of taxes on their realty property.

CONGRESS GETS BILL ON STREET WIDENING

Michigan Avenue Work Is Sought to Eliminate Traffic Hazard.

A bill to provide for the extension and widening of Michigan avenue northwest, between First street and Park place, was transmitted to Congress yesterday by the District Commissioners. The object of the measure, it is explained, is to correct an existing hazardous traffic condition in the vicinity of the Soldiers' Home.

The bill proposes to construct a new street, 64 feet wide, including a 12-foot sidewalk and parkway, so as to relieve the heavy traffic now compelled to use the roadway around the McMillan Park Reservoir.

The legislation, which would entail the transfer of certain tracts of land now owned by the Federal Government, has the approval of the Secretary of War, the board of commissioners of the Soldiers' Home, the United States Engineer Office and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. It is also approved by the Bureau of the Budget.

The Commissioners are anxious that the bill be passed at the present session of Congress so that the paving item may be included in the 1934 estimates. It is estimated that the paving will cost $50,000.

Pointing out that the roadway around the reservoir is hazardous, especially since the traffic has been increased by the opening of Monroe street, connecting Michigan avenue and Rhode Island avenue, at the west end of the extended avenue the District Commissioners propose to build a large intersection so as to make a direct connection with Columbia road by widening Hobart place.

Bus Lines Facing Penalty on Depots

Five Operators Fail to Answer to Terminal Move Query.

Williams A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, late yesterday took under consideration what steps will be taken to penalize the five interstate bus operators who failed to answer the specific query of the Public Utilities Commission regarding what steps they have taken to comply with the order that they obtain terminals outside the congested area by April 1.

Chairman Mason M. Patrick said yesterday that though 16 of the 21 had replied to the questionnaire, none of the answers was very definite and none of the companies has as yet obtained even a terminal site although only three weeks remain before they will have to relinquish their depots in the downtown section.

There is a probability that the class "A" bus operators may be summoned to a conference with the commission in an effort to prevent a postponement of the order.

Branding many of the local moving pictures and stage shows as "entirely unfit for children and presenting dialogue and visual situations contrary to good morals," the board of managers of the District Congress of Parent-Teacher Association adopted a resolution yesterday urging theater owners and managers to correct the situation "so that children of school age may safely attend the shows."

The resolution was adopted after an investigation of local theaters had been made by a special committee of the congress. The board of managers also called on the Federation of Citizens Associations to indorse their action and "take such steps as are within its power to improve the quality of moving pictures and stage presentations."

The board of managers also went on record opposing the proposed amendment to the child labor law which would enable children to appear on the professional stage after 7 o'clock at night. The view was taken that enactment of such a law might break down other phases of the child labor law which, it was said, is satisfactory in its present form.

GOETHE IS PRAISED BY HAUPTMANN AT G. W. U. CEREMONY

PROGRESS SINCE DEATH OF ARTIST IS STRESESD

Von Prittwitz Also Heard at Observance of Centennial of Poet's Death.

The material progress in science and communication in the century since the death of Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, greatest of German poets, was outlined last night by Dr. Gerhart Hauptmann, German dramatist, in an address at a special convocation of George Washington University held in Memorial Continental Hall in observance of the centennial of the death of the poet.

Dr. Hauptmann was introduced by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University. He arrived in Washington Monday, coming from Berlin where his new play, "Before Sunset" was widely acclaimed by critics at its first performance.

Dr. Hauptmann, in tracing the life of Goethe, declared that if he were alive today he would be more than ever a great leader.

Tribute to Poet.

"Perhaps the most notable of the characteristics of the man we honor," Dr. Hauptmann said, "was the joining in his being of both spiritual and worldly qualities. Spiritually, Goethe was almost a hermit; but his worldly being, through its constant struggle for universal knowledge, moved perpetually in ever-widening circles."

Goethe died in 1832, Dr. Hauptman pointed out, on the threshold of an era in which achievements of mankind in material and scientific directions have been stupendous. Man, he said, has failed to keep pace with the march of physical accomplishments. Remarking that Goethe was known for his qualities of heart, Dr. Hauptmann declared that it is not external but internal progress that justifies mankind.

Links Goethe and Faust.

"Goethe is Faust," he said, "even though Faust is not in every way identical with Goethe's personality. Goethe understood himself as Faust. The great poet embodied the soul of Germany in one body as Whitman embodies the soul of the United States," he concluded.

The German Ambassador, Herr von Prittwitz und Gaffron, who earlier in the day had presented Dr. Hauptmann to President Hoover, delivered a brief address.
